Annual event begins at 9:30 a.m.

Halloween parade Saturday

Plans for the annual Halloween parade and celebration Saturday have been completed by the Washington C.H. Jaycees.

The parade will be held at 9:30 a.m. Saturday. The marching units will form at the Washington C.H. Middle School building at 9 a.m.

HANK SHAFFER, director of the popular Community Education program in Washington C.H., will serve as grand marshal for Saturday morning's parade.

The 23-year-old Shaffer, 24 Colonial Court, came to Washington C.H. last February from Danville, Ill., where he had held the position city recreation department supervisor. He is a 1973 graduate of the University of Illinois with a degree in recreation and park administration.

The Halloween parade is annually sponsored by the Washington C.H. Jaycees and Saturday's event is the first to be staged during the morning hours, since in the past the parade has always been held in the evening or during the afternoon.

The parade route is south on North Street to Court Street, then west through the downtown business district to Main Street where it will turn south on Main Street to Circle Avenue and disband at Gardner Park Stadium.

Headed by cruisers from the Washington C.H. Police and Fayette County Sheriff's departments, the parade will include the Washington Senior High School marching band and drill team, the Washington Junior High School band, 1974 WSHS

Assembly meet eyed over housing needs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio needs 340,000 more housing units now and there are some things it could be doing about it, a committee of Senate and House members has been told.

A result may be a legislative session Nov. 12.

Paul Lydens of Columbus, regional director of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Affairs, outlined Ohio's needs Monday to the committee which will apparently decide Oct. 30 whether the legislature should reconvene to act on a housing bill.

Al Ratner of Cleveland, president of Forest City Enterprises, Inc., a major housing construction firm, said the lawmakers should act this year on a bill passed by the House but left pending in Senate last summer when the General Assembly went into recess.

He said a state housing finance agency, provided for in the state legislation, would be able to issue housing revenue bonds at about 6½ per cent and then make loans at 8 or 9 per cent, thus avoiding interests rates of about 15 per cent currently being asked by banks and other financial institutions.

Massachusetts, one of 31 other states that have financing agencies, recently sold $167 million worth of housing bonds at 6½ per cent and loaned out the proceeds to builders at 8¾ per cent, he said.

Firemen on scene three hours

Blaze destroys unoccupied house

Smoke could been seen hanging in the air in the center of the city and the odor of burning wood, paper and paint was detectable throughout Washington C.H.

The house fire of unknown cause which broke out at 546 Harrison St., made itself known to surrounding neighbors and Washingtpn C. H. firemen at 2:16 a.m. Tuesday. Over three hours later, little more than a charred wooden structure remained standing on the property owned by Joe Crosswhite Jr. and Louise Terry. Firemen tried, many volunteers responded to the call for help, but the water couldn't save the wooden house.

Fortunately, the house was vacant and no one was injured in the blaze. A neighbor's home next-door, owned by Mrs. Herbert Crosswhite and occupied by Mrs. Monroe Crosswhite, caught fire when the flames started spreading, but firemen held them back and thus limited damage to $200.

Firemen are investigating the incident and seeking a probably cause for the blaze.

Washington C.H. firemen responded to an earlier fire at 2:10 p.m. Monday, at the Shelby Brandy residence at 105 E. Elm St. The babysitter in the home had called firemen when the clothes dryer began to smoke, but the fire was out upon their arrival. Firemen diagnosed the problem as "a slipping drive belt," and reported no damage.

The Bloomingburg Fire Department was dispatched to a burning car on I-71, near the Ohio 38 intersection, at 2:25 a.m. Tuesday, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported.

Driver of the auto, Thomas L. Edmiston, of Ebensburg, Pa., noticed sparks falling from under his dashboard and attempted to pull over onto the berm when his left tire locked.

When he finally got the auto stopped, it was ablaze, but he managed to save two suitcases in the car. Bloomingburg firemen extinguished the fire with water, but the car was a total loss. It was reported that the fire was caused by the tire rubbing and finally igniting.

EARLY MORNING BLAZE — Washington C.H. firemen were on the scene battling this fire st 546 Harrison Street for over three hours early Tuesday. The fire, which broke out around 2:16 a.m., completely totaled the vacant house. A neighbor's house also received minor damage from the flames licking at it, but there were no injuries. This photo was taken after firemen gained control of the blaze and were concentrating their efforts in extinguishing spot fires on the roof.

Ohio election campaign grows heated

By The Associated Press

Democratic Gov. John Gilligan said Monday night he has conducted an open administration while former Gov. James Rhodes acts as if what he does is "none of the people's business."

Rhodes, the Republican gubernatorial nominee, charged that the Gilligan administration has "dropped the ball" in industrial development, forcing businesses to move out of the state and costing Ohioans jobs.

Gilligan, speaking at a League of Women voters meeting in Cleveland, said Rhodes has attempted to hide his activities throughout his campaign.

He cited as examples the former governor's failure to disclose his financial dealings and "the full extent of his campaign contributions," and his refusal to debate Gilligan.

Gilligan said he has spent much of his time traveling round the state conducting town meetings, holding news conferences and discussing administration progams with the people in an effort to keep people informed.

Rhodes, appearing at a Republican rally in Alliance, criticized the Gilligan administration of "destroying" the industrial development program Rhodes built up in his administration.

"These people can tear down overnight things that took years to build up, because they don't seem to understand the needs of working people," Rhodes said.

The former governor said the present administration "has added burdensome new taxes and injected needless harrassment of Ohio business and industry, forcing many plants to move their operations to other states.

"When an industry moves out, the jobs it provides move with it, and the only alternative the present administration offers to idle workers is welfare," he said.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Senate race between Republican Ralph Perk and Democrat John Glenn grew more heated Monday, with Perk calling for Glenn to withdraw because of a "scandal" in his campaign.

Glenn's campaign manager, Stephen J. Kovacik Jr., responded by saying it was "terrifying to see how all dignity collapses and how very dangerous a man becomes when he has nothing to lose."

Perk claimed in a statement that a Cleveland newspaper story supported his charges that the Glenn campaign tried to cover up a bad check case involving Louis Quintero of Toledo, a former campaign worker.

According to the story, Alfredo Aquilar, a Toledo businessman who reportedly was bilked out of $13,000, said the Glenn staff asked him not to call the police because it would hurt Glenn and told Aquilar the Glenn organization would pay him back the money he lost.

"Because of this scandal and cover-up, which has now been exposed, I think they only honorable thing for Glenn to do is to withdraw from the race." Perk said.

Quintero was hired by the Glenn people to open offices in the Spanish-speaking sections of Youngstown,

Body of ex-WCH man recovered from lake

BELLVIEW, Fla., — Members of the Ocala, Fla., Fire Department and the Marion County search and rescue have recovered the body of a former Washington C.H. resident who reportedly drowned while fishing Sunday afternoon.

The body of Paul Detty, 47, Bellview, Fla., son of the Rev. and Mrs. C.H. Detty, of Washington C.H., was recovered from Lake Weir, south of Ocala, at 4:27 p.m. Monday. He was identified by his brother, Joseph Detty, who had traveled to Florida from his home in Nashville, Tenn., after his brother was reported to have drowned Sunday.

ACCORDING to the Marion County Sheriff's Department, Detty had been fishing with an acquaintance in a small boat. The companion reported that Detty stood in the boat, capsizing it. He said that his attempts to rescue Detty were fruitless. He said he managed to get to shore himself and notify the sheriff's department.

Although there were no outward signs of foul play found by physicians at the hospital where Detty was pronounced dead, the body is being held for an autopsy. The department said an autopsy is routine procedure in such cases and the matter is being held open pending the report.

Detty was born in Chillicothe but attended elementary and high school in Washington C.H. He entered the Navy and served during World War II.

He was aboard the U.S.S. Bronson with Admiral Richard E. Byrd for the first voyage to the South Pole in 1946. After receiving a medical discharge from the U.S. Navy, he resided in New Jersey and Pennsylvania before returning to Washington C.H. some five years ago.

WHILE LIVING here he became a member of the local Veterans of Foreign Wars post and the Washington C.H. Eagles Lodge. He moved to Florida a year ago.

He is survived by his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. C.H. Detty, 426 Sixth St., his ex-wife, Helen, two sons, Paul

Defense to attack Dean's testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House counsel John W. Dean III told the Watergate cover-up trial today that former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell had indicated he had approved the political intelligence plan that resulted in the Watergate break-in.

Dean testified this was when he met on March 28, 1973 with Mitchell and Jeb Stuart Magruder, deputy director of President Nixon's re-election committee.

Dean described the meeting near the close of more than four days of questioning by prosecutor James F. Neal.

Defense lawyers, beginning with John J. Wilson, attorney for former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, were ready to begin their cross-examination of Dean.

Following Wilson will be William G. Hundley, Mitchell's lawyer.

Dean testified that at the March 28 meeting he turned to Mitchell and said, "John, I've never asked you what happened ... All I've been able to do was piece together ... the plan was approved."

This was a reference to the political intelligence plan.

He said Mitchell replied:

"Well, John, that's pretty close. But we thought it would be two or three times removed."

"Two or three times removed from what?" Neal asked.

"From the (re-election) committee," Dean responded.

Dean said that two days later he decided to retain a criminal defense lawyer and that on April 8 he met in his lawyer's office in Rockville, Md., with the three assistant U.S. attorneys who had prosecuted the break-in case.

Asked if his discussion with them was interrupted, Dean replied: "Yes, by a telephone call from Air Force One (the presidential plane)."

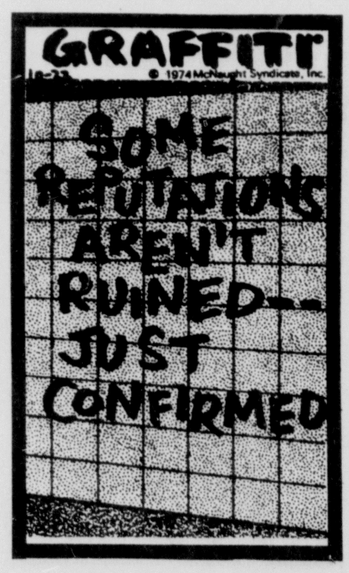
He said the call was a request that he meet with Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman who were flying back from California.

Dean said that just before meeting with the prosecutors, he called Haldeman in California and told him what he planned to do.

"He (Haldeman) said John, I think you ought to think about that before you do it because once the toothpaste is out of the tube, it's awfully hard to get it back in," Dean said he was told.

Dean described meeting Haldeman and Ehrlichman at the White House late that day, a Sunday.

When the discussion turned to what he might say about money passed to the break-in defendants, Dean testified that "Mr. Ehrlichman said you could say that was a defense fund, that it was for humanitarian purposes."



Income tax issue facing opposition?

Washington C. H. City Council members Monday night hinted that a committee opposing the proposed 1.25 per cent income tax issue which will be appearing on the November general election.

City Council chairman John E. Rhoads prompted a brief discussion on the matter at the third in a series of special meetings held Monday night at Rose Avenue Elementary School when he mentioned that a letter is being circulated to various Washington C. H. businessmen seeking organized support for the opposition of the income tax issue.

Rhoads said the committee has not announced publicly that it is opposing City Council's proposal for a reduction of property taxes in exchange for the approval of a 1.25 per cent income tax issue.

THE CITY Council chairman, who shared the letter with other city legislators during the open meeting in one of the school's classrooms, said the letter was not signed.

In 1971, a committee in favor of the repeal of a one per cent city income tax issue filed an initiative petition request. The income tax was challenged and beaten by an initiative ordinance which called for its repeal.

Attendance at the special meetings has been quite disappointing and only two area residents attended Monday night's session.

The attendance count for three special meetings scheduled by City Council members especially for the purpose of discussing of the income tax issue now stands at seven persons. The last in the series of meetings will be held at 7:30 p.m. next Monday at Cherry Hill Elementary School.

The six City Council members present spent a considerable amount of time during the one-hour session Monday night arguing a variety of subjects with Phil Tatman, 437 Warren Ave., a frequent council critic.

Judge issues 'hold' on Nixon's papers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge has at least temporarily blocked the White House from carrying out an agreement go give former President Richard M. Nixon custody of his White House papers and tapes.

At the same time U.S. District Judge Charles R. Richey indicated he will tackle the centuries-old question of just who owns presidential papers—the President or the government.

Richey said that although he was ordering the White House to hold onto the tapes and documents of Nixon's presidency, the former president can have access to them "for the sole purpose of preparing to testify in the Watergate criminal trial."

If Nixon's health prohibits him from coming to Washington to study the tapes and documents, Richey said in Monday's order, copies may be made and sent to him in California.

Nixon's lawyers have asked that all of the materials be sent to a federal repository in California under Nixon's custody as called for in an agreement revealed by President Ford the same day he announced he was pardoning Nixon.

In the meantime Nixon's lawyers, in papers filed Thursday, had asked for a temporary restraining order banning the White House from releasing any more of the Nixon materials except for those already under subpoena or which might be subpoenaed for criminal prosecutions already under way.

This would have banned the White House from giving Nixon materials to any of the federal grand juries still investigating Watergate matters, and one of the special prosecutors suggested in court Monday that the Nixon motions might be a ploy in the offing to frustrate prosecutions.

Canned tuna has extra ingredients

MOUNT VERNON, N.Y. (AP) — Rat hairs and fly maggots are among the extra ingredients Consumers Union says it found when it took a close look at some canned tuna.

An article in the November issue of its magazine, Consumer Reports, said that after testing 104 samples of 52 brands, the problem "appeared industrywide."

Of the 16 distributors whose brands were tested, 13 had at least one contaminated sample, according to the nonprofit agency.

The magazine said one tuna sample contained part of a fly maggot. In two other cases, examiners found rat hairs threefifths of an inch long. It said that was too long to have come from ground spices.

"The FDA's usual excuse for its lax standards on filth in food is that the filth originated in nature and couldn't be readily removed," the article said. "Well rats don't live in or around tuna fish in the ocean. A likely explanation for their presence is direct contact between fish and rat."

Noting that tuna is an excellent and economical protein source, the magazine added:

"Although the filth we found is more likely to ruin your appetite than your health, we think the tuna industry badly needs a cleanup."

Consumer prices spurt in September

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rising prices for food, clothing and mortgage rates pushed the cost of living up another 1.2 per cent in September, making the last 12 months the worst inflationary surge in more than 25 years, the government reported today.

Prices in September were reported 12.1 per cent higher than a year earlier. This was the worst 12-month increase since 1947.

However, the purchasing power of the average worker increased slightly for the first time in three months. Real spendable earnings—that is weekly pay adjusted for inflation and taxes—rose one-tenth of a per cent in September but was still at the lowest level since December 1970.

Price increases were spread across almost the entire economy last month. Food led the way, posting its biggest rise since February.

The Ford administration has predicted that consumer prices will continue increasing at the rate of about one per cent a month through the end of the year, and that there would be no significant easing of inflation until some time next year.

Consumer prices have already risen 9.7 per cent so far this year. In 1973, prices rose 8.8 per cent, the worst in any year since the end of World War II.

The Labor Department said last month's 1.2 per cent increase, after a rise of 1.3 per cent in August, pushed the government's consumer price index up to 151.9. That meant it cost $151.90 to buy a variety of goods and services that cost $100 in the 1967 base period.

Although most of the news was bad, some prices declined in September, including such items as gasoline and fresh fruits and vegetables.

Over-all food prices went up an adjusted 1.9 per cent in September compared to a 1.4 per cent increase the previous month. The index for nonfood commodities increased 1 per cent following an August rise of 1.5 per cent while the cost of services rose 1.1 per cent, the same as in August.

With the exception of fresh fruits and vegetables, all major food categories went up last month, pushing grocery prices 1.5 per cent higher over the month to a level 10.9 per cent above a year ago.

Beef and pork prices were reported up instead of declining and poultry prices, which usually are unchanged in September, also rose. Dairy products increased for the first time in four months while prices of fats and oil products continued to climb sharply.

Higher clothing prices accounted for about a fourth of the 1.1 per cent rise in nonfood commodities. New car prices increased slightly instead of declining substantially as they usually do at the end of the model year.

Charges for most household services increased with gas, electricity and telephone rates rising. There was a rise in mortgage interest costs, reflecting earlier increases in interest rates on conventionally financed loans as well as the previously announced rate increase for VA-guaranteed loans, which accounted for more than a fourth of the increase in the cost of services last month.

State and local employees get break in political law

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal restrictions on political activity by state and local government employes have been eased by a little-noted provision of the new campaign financing law.

But because of the multiplicity of state and local restrictions that remain in effect, this year's elections may well be over before all of the 5 million or more persons potentially affected know where they stand.

The Hatch Act, which forbids virtually all political activity by civil service employes of the federal government, also applied to those employes of states and their political subdivisions who received any part of their compensation from federal funds.

Since federal funds flow into state and local governments through various grant-in-aid programs and the more recent general revenue sharing plan, millions of employes were covered.

The law Congress passed this year and signed Oct. 15 by President Ford repeals significant portions of the federal prohibitions on the state and local employes. The rules on federal employes, however, are not changed.

Also retained, for everyone affected, are rules intended to protect employes against political pressures. These forbid one's official authority in support of a political candidate. Covered employes, moreover, still may not themselves be candidates for public office.

Otherwise, state and local employes formerly under full Hatch Act provisions are now free — so far as federal law is concerned — to participate in political campaigns. But the Senate-House conferees who wrote the final version of the new law specified in their report that it was not intended to invalidate or supersede any state legislation.

Mike Kerr, an official of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, AFL-CIO, which supported the change, said every state maintains some degree of restriction on the political activities of its employes, either by statutory provision or by rulemaking authority delegated to personnel boards or similar authorities. In addition, many cities and other governmental units have their own rules.

"It is very complicated," Kerr said in an interview. "... people will have to find out what their state, county and municipal procedures are."

Cleveland and Toledo. Last week warrants were issued in those cities for his arrest on charges he wrote bad checks totaling $65,000, allegedly for repayment of loans he obtained in Glenn's name.

Glenn has said his staff advised people who thought they had been swindled to report it to the police. He also said Quintero got no money from the Glenn campaign and contributed no money to it.

It was reported Monday that the political action committees of the Retail Clerks International Association and United Auto Workers contributed $10,000 each to the campaign of Glenn.

The contributions were detailed in a campaign expense report to the Ohio secretary of state and secretary of the U.S. Senate in Washington released by the Citizens for John Glenn.

Total campaign contributions since the general election campaign began were $991,853.83 and expenditures $984,630.90, leaving a cash balance as of a week ago of $7,222.93, the campaign said.

Money raised during the Sept. 1-Oct. 15 reporting period amounted to $185,682.98 while expenditures were $192,866.57.

Ohio Assembly

"Ohio is one of a very few states that hasn't moved to help the housing construction industry since this crisis came up," said Ratner, whose firm is now idle in Ohio but building housing units in a half dozen other states.

Ratner is a member of a 23-member industry, lending institution, and labor committee named last month by Gov. John J. Gilligan to make recommendations aimed at helping the floundering industry. Some pockets of the state have unemployment in the industry of 20 to 30 per cent while its average statewide is about 14 per cent, the governor said.

Gilligan's ad hoc committee was expected to finalize its recommendations at a meeting Tuesday afternoon, Ratner said. Rep. Edward Feighan, D-8 Cleveland, sponsor of the pending legislation, said he plans to attend that session as a legislative representative.

Rep. Frederick N. Young, R-38 Dayton, said the special legislative committee probably will make a decision at its meeting a week from Wednesday on whether to recommend a full session. He indicated the recommendation will be favorable, and noted that a skeleton session planned for Nov. 12 could be expanded into a full session.

"Any one who feels there is a reason why there shouldn't be a session should come forward next week," Young said.

Judge issues

A counter action by a group of scholars and journalists had asked Richey for a temporary restraining order directing the government to keep the materials in its custody and in Washington until the broader questions are decided by the courts.

Richey's order, which followed four hours of oral arguments by five sets of lawyers Monday morning, did a little of what both sides asked but, as he predicted earlier, not enough to make either exactly happy.

Richey enjoined the White House "from disclosing, transferring, disposing or otherwise making known to any person, be he-she private citizen or public official, the materials, including documents, tapes and other papers, known as the 'presidential materials of the Nixon administration'."

The court also specifically declared that the government is "hereby enjoined from effectuating the terms and conditions of the 'agreement'" between Nixon and Ford over disposition of the Nixon papers and tapes.

Richey further declared that his order would not ban the delivery of Nixon materials for use in any civil or criminal court case or in answer to grand jury subpoena.

Fire Department and scores of youngsters disguised as ghosts, gobblins, witches, fairies, hoboes and what have you.

The line of march will include the grand marshal riding in an antique car owned by Phil Tatman, 437 Warren Ave., and a color guard provided the Paul H. Hughey Post 25, American Legion.

MANY PARENTS will be walking along the fringes of the parade route to keep an eye on the little tots, and the Jaycee and clowns will keep the line in order and moving. The Jaycee clowns also will be distributing candy, donated by the G.C. Murphy Co., along the parade route.

At Gardner Park Stadium, the masquerade costumes will be judged in five categories: (1) prettiest, (2) ugliest, (3) funniest, (4) most original, and (5) best group of two or more. Cash prizes will be awarded for first, second and third places in each category, according to Dave Loudner, Jaycee parade chairman.

The parade and celebration, which have been sponsored for many years by the Jaycees, will come four days before Beggar's Night when the children will go from door to door collecting candy and other treats. Beggars Night will be observed in Washington C.H. from 6 until 8 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 30.

Ford, Brezhnev may hold meet

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — President Ford and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev may have a get-acquainted meeting, possibly in the Siberian city of Vladivostok, a senior American official says.

Plans for such a get-together are under consideration and will be decided upon within 10 days, the official said. Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger stopped here briefly on Monday.

Firm to quit sales in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Consumer Companies of America, Inc. has agreed not to operate or engage in a sales program for 30 days until a court hearing, the state attorney general announced today.

The agreement is part of an order signed by a Franklin County Common Court Pleas judge Monday.

The state brought a lawsuit against the firm under Ohio's new anti-pyramid sales law.

Russians seeking to block use of weather in warfare

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet government warns that mankind could be subjected to such environmental horrors as artificial tidal waves and ultraviolet bombardment through holes in the ozone layer unless "weather war" is headed off.

Soviet Ambassador Jacob A. Malik introduced a resolution in the United Nations General Assembly's main political committee Monday to send a Soviet-proposed convention against such warfare to the Geneva Disarmament Committee to be put into final form.

Malik said scientists had concluded that weather warriors could:

—Create "windows" in the ozone layer of the upper atmosphere letting deadly ultraviolet rays through to "selected parts of our planet."

—Set off a nuclear explosion inside the arctic or antarctic ice cap, producing an iceslide that would "cause tidal waves capable of wiping ... whole areas from the face of the globe."

—Stimulation of tidal waves by "dumping voluminous blocks of bedrock from the continental shelf into deeper parts of the ocean."

—Creation of "acoustic fields on the sea and ocean surface to combat individual ships or whole flotillas."

The proposed convention would forbid use of "meteorological, geophysical or any other scientific or technological means of influencing the environment, including the weather and climate, for military ... purposes."

It would specifically ban military rainmaking. Malik said the U.S. Defense Department estimated that American cloud seeding over Indochina boosted rainfall 30 per cent above normal in some places, causing floods, landslides and destruction of roads, dikes and bridges.

The United States did not join in the sponsorship, but the U.S. representative at the committee session, Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., called Malik's speech "a superb statement."

Ruth next Watergate prosecutor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Deputy Watergate prosecutor Henry Ruth has been chosen to succeed special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski, a Justice Department source says.

Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe and White House officials have chosen Ruth, and Saxbe plans to announce the appointment later this week after discussing it with President Ford, the source said Monday.

Asked if Ruth has agreed to take the job, the source said, "I assume so. It's going to be announced."

Saxbe told reporters Monday that he plans to discuss the appointment with Ford soon after the President returns to Washington Wednesday.

Ruth "was really the only candidate" to replace Jaworski as head of the Watergate prosecution force, the source said.

Jaworski, who is resigning effective Friday to return to private law practice, recommended Ruth to succeed him. Ruth has been the deputy prosecutor since the prosecution force was established as an independent unit within the Justice Department.

The prosecutor is appointed by the attorney general and the selection does not require Senate confirmation.

Jaworski, meanwhile, insists he will not lay out all the evidence his office gathered against former President Richard M. Nixon unless Congress specifically broadens his mandate to call for such a report.

Seek heating curb as gas supply cut

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — City Manager Edward Smith has asked residents to set thermostats back to 68 degrees in their homes because the gas supply to the municipally-owned power company has been cut.

Smith said the gas supply from the Texas Gas Transmission Co. will be cut by 575 million cubic feet between Nov. 1 and April 1.

Smith said there would be adequate supplies for homes "as long as citizens exercise reasonable care."

Stock list turns mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices turned mixed today as bad news about another rise in the consumer price index moderated investors enthusiasm over the recent decline in interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 5 points in early trading, was off 3.52 at 666.30 at noon, as DuPont, one of its important stocks, headed down 2⅜ to 103⅛. Monday DuPont reported lower earnings for its third quarter but rose sharply on short covering, brokers said.

On Tuesday, some banks continued to lower their prime rates into the 11½ to 11¼ per cent range, but the Labor Department reported consumers' cost of living rose at a high 14.4 per cent seasonally adjusted annual rate in September, principally on a food cost increase.

Trading continued active today as transactions ran ahead of the tape several times during the morning. Advances continued to lead declines on the New York Stock Exchange.

On the American Stock Exchange the market value index gained .56 to 69.93 at noon.

Increasing southwesterly winds were forecast to bring more seasonable temperatures to Ohio today and tonight.

A large high that passed over the state Monday was centered over the East Coast early today and continued to move eastward.

The southerly winds precede a low pressure trough over the upper Great Lakes early today and forecast to move into Ohio Wednesday.

Skies were forecast to remain clear, except over northern counties, where skies will turn partly cloudy with arrival of the low.

Lows tonight were forecast in the low to mid 40s in contrast to readings in the 20s and 30s early today. Highs Wednesday will be in the 60s.

Variable cloudiness Thursday through Saturday with a chance of showers Friday. Highs in the 60s. Lows from the mid 30s to low 40s early Thursday and in the 40s early Friday and Saturday.

Also surviving are two brothers, John, of Columbus, and Joseph of Nashville, Tenn., and four sisters, Mrs. Rachel Darryberry, Mrs. Esther Cockerill and Mrs. Ruth Hartley, of Washington C.H., and Mrs. Mary Payton, of Tampa, Fla.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

See heavy vote turnout

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some 3.65 million persons will go to the polls in the general election Nov. 5, the secretary of state predicted today.

The figure represents about 73 per cent of the 4.975 million persons estimated to be eligible to vote. It would be a record turnout for a gubernatorial election.

The projected vote would be 374,000 more votes than were cast in the last gubernatorial election in 1970.

Two new factors affected Secretary of State Ted W. Brown's estimate: the lowering of the voting age to 18 since the last gubernatorial election and increased registration requirement as a precondition to vote.

The number of persons registered to vote has increased from 3.87 million in 1970 to 4.46 million in 1974, he said. An additional 515,000 persons live in nonregistration areas and are eligible to vote, he said.

Opinion And Comment

Fear of depression

There are times when even the most ardent champion of democracy may find himself hoping the people are not right about something. That thought comes to mind in the wake of a Gallup Poll showing that 51 per cent of those questioned believe "the U.S. economy is heading toward a depression such as the nation experienced in the 1930s. Forty-one per cent thought not; 8 per cent expressed no opinion.

Some may be heartened by the fact that the greatest pessimism was found among those presumably least knowledgeable. For example, whereas 58 per cent of manual workers saw a depression coming, this was true of only 44 per cent of business and professional people.

The rat in this woodpile is another fact - that pessimism about the economy has risen more rapidly among professionals and businessmen than among other segments of the population.

One other point about the poll results is of particular interest. The degree of pessimism is least among those 50 and over, who experienced the Great Depression, and greatest among those in the 18-29 bracket. This may say something about the relative weight of remembered pain and fear of the unkown in breeding apprehension. Or it may be just that young people, disenchanted with government and lacking confidence in the establishment, consequently see less reason for optimism than their elders do.

In any case, it is plain that Americans are worried about the future course of the economy. There is good reason for this, and word that gross national product declined for the third quarter in a row does nothing to cheer anyone up.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . . By John P. Roche

Soviets arm their client states

I failed in my efforts to get Oct. 6 designated "National Detente Day" (it was the anniversary of the Soviet-sponsored Yom Kippur assault on Israel), but even without official stimulation the American people should take time out to assess the current meaning of detente. Apparently we can not count on much help from our leaders. After the Yom Kippur War, last year, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger made a remark that under the circumstances Moscow had behaved with great "moderation." Since all that Moscow had done was load the Arab states up with fancy hardware (more tanks than were used by the Nazis to invade Russia in 1941 and highly sophisticated air defense and anti-tank missiles), then urge them to take advantage of detente (which would paralyze the United States response), and finally threaten direct intervention, one may wonder how Secretary Kissinger would define lack of Soviet restraint. A preemptive nuclear strike on Washington?

Those interested in the abstract dimensions of this question should get a copy of Kissinger's recent statement to Senator Fulbright's seminar on detente. At the same time you might ask the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for a copy of AFL-CIO President George Meany's Oct. 1 contribution to the same exercise. The contrast is stunning: Kissinger flying about 25,000 feet above sea level; Meany at ground zero. (I have a secret vision of Kissinger trapped in a gin rummy game with Meany — the Secretary would end up centerfolding "Cosmopolitan.")

But my concern today is not with the overall picture; it is with the components. If detente was to have any substance, the first item on the agenda had to be a Soviet willingness to call off their dogs, both in Vietnam and in the Middle East. I have never believed that Hanoi was on a string, that Brezhnev could dictate North Vietnamese policy. However, the Soviets are clearly in a position to limit in a very practical way Hanoi's war-making capacity — they can turn off the arms flow. They can deny the North the logistical essentials for invading the South.

What have they been doing? The other day a small article in the papers reported the surrender of a South Vietnamese district capital in the Central Highlands, Chuong Nghia. The "Times" story, in passing, noted that "In accord with a new strategy of frugality, Government forces appeared not to have thrown much firepower into the defense." This new "frugality" is, of course, an outcome of cutbacks in American military and economic aid to Saigon.

As you may have gathered, I am something of a "data freak": I try to read everything I can lay my hands on and, among other things, listen every night to the British Broadcasting Corporation's "World News Roundup." The day Chuong Nghia fell there was a report on the subject from the BBC's man in Saigon, who noted that the town and its defenders had been hit by 9,000 artillery and rocket rounds in 12 hours before they abandoned their positions. The Soviets have certainly not imposed any frugality on their clients.

Meanwhile in Syria (where a very tense situation tends to be overlooked because of the focus on Cyprus) there are an estimated 3,000 Soviet advisors, and the Syrian army has been reloaded with military equipment so advanced that even the Warsaw Pact powers do not yet have it. T-62 tanks are in abundance, as are MIG 23s (which can fly rings around any current operational American warplane except the F-14) and every conceivable model of anti-aircraft weapons-system from the hand-carried Strella to the most recent SAMs.

From the Israeli viewpoint, the most serious development is the increased number of surface-to-surface (SAS) missiles, which can easily hit Israeli population centers. (During the Yom Kippur War a SCUD SAS missile was fired at Tel Aviv — by a miracle an Israeli Phantom managed to intercept and destroy it in midair.) There is no reason to believe the SAS systems have been equipped with nuclear capability, but it would take roughly an hour to handle the conversion.

The question forces itself upon us: What is all this formidable junk for? Syrian army maneuvers? An invasion of Turkey? Or did the Soviets just have a production overrun which forces them to dispose of the excess? It does not seem to be evidence of detente.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 23

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Do not be upset by criticism. If constructive, it could actually show you new ways to capitalize on your inventiveness and skills.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

As with Aries, you, too, can profit by both opposition and obstacles. Some new ideas could brighten your day, a new method perk up tedious but essential routine.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

You may get a lot of off-beat ideas on Wednesday. Put them right out of your head. In all situations, it will be important to stress good judgment, levelheadedness, self-control.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

You will do well to follow your own schedule and not become involved in affairs which do not essentially concern you. This is no time to go off on tangents.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Some planetary restrictions. Be cautious in making investments and DO control emotions. Some situations will call for unusual tact.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

If you do not understand a situation, seek counsel from more experienced heads. Do not rely on guesswork. It could only lead to confusion.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Your lively imagination may be running out of bounds right now. So, in trying to launch your ideas, be sure to separate the fantastic from the feasible.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

As with Libra, you also will have to dampen enthusiasm a bit. Excessive optimism could lead you to impractical extremes.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Reject the foolish notions of others. That logical mind of your will come up with answers that are reasonable and solid.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Don't get wrought up over the spending habits of a partner — marital or business. With a little thought, compromise is possible.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

This will be one of those days when you'll have to "go it alone." Cooperation is likely to be spotty or nonexistent. But you can cope.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

You are still in a mood to explore areas off the beaten path, but be careful not to wade in beyond your depth. Trends are changing.

YOU BORN TODAY, a Libra-Scorpio cuspal (one born at the change of Signs), are endowed with the combined traits of both, with the more dominant characeristics of each outstanding. This fact makes you a powerful candidate for success in life and a personality with whom to reckon. You are extremely versatile and have been blessed with a fine gift for languages. You would make an excellent interpreter or translator; could also shine in any occupation which requires travel in foreign countries. A born go-getter, your nature thrives under pressure and, in a busy day and age, you are alive with enthusiasm, curiosity about "what's coming next." Here, however, you must be careful not to override others as you drive onward, and DO be tolerant of those less gifted than yourself. Fields in which you could excel: the law, the theater, medicine, science, literature and politics.

Ohio Perspective

Stringer job controversial

By DAVID LORE
Columbus Dispatch

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Anthony R. Stringer is cramming on environmental law these days, keeping his cool in the face of a drive by state environmental groups to oust him from the Ohio Environmental Board of Review.

"I don't feel at all upset about the environmentalists being upset," he said in an interview. "They just don't know me."

The 39-year-old Cleveland attorney said that anybody who studied his record as a Cleveland councilman and as administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Workmen's Compensation would have to conclude he has always been "people-oriented rather than industry-oriented."

"I would expect my position here would be to hold the utilities to a pretty strict standard," he said.

The board of three members was established under the state's 1972 environmental act to handle appeals from rulings of the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency.

Gov. John J. Gilligan appointed Stringer to succeed Earl Murphy, an Ohio State University law professor.

Environmentalists have challenged the appointment on several points, including his lack of specific environmental background. String raised more suspicions when he recently mentioned his long friendship with C. Lee Howley, lobbyist for the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co.

"As an active politician in Cleveland I made a lot of friends, sure, but that doesn't mean they own me," Stringer said.

Stringer said he hadn't seen Howley in 18 months and is "absolutely positive" that the CEI vice president played no role in his appointment.

As for his background, Stringer said: "I wouldn't pretend to be an Earl Murphy or a professor of environmental law, but on the other hand it's not fair to dismiss as nothing my experiences on council."

Stringer said the governor wanted expertise in administrative law, a background he believes he has from his job as workmen's compensation chief.

Thus far, the protests over Stringer's appointment appear to have had little impact on the governor. Gilligan has declined to answer the protests himself.

His chief of state, John Hansan, wrote two other EBR members, Richard S. McCutchen and Stanley Weissman, who joined the protests, that "the governor respects your point of view, but we have no plans to make a change at this time."

Dr. Ira Whitman, director of the EPA, has written a few groups justifying Stringer's appointment on the basis of his background in administrative law.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

How to respond to news of divorce

DEAR ABBY: What do you say to a dear friend when she tells you that her married daughter is coming home "for good?" I was speechless because there had never been a clue that all was not going well.

The daughter was the apple of her parents' eye, and only five years ago she made such a promising marriage. She has a darling two-year-old child.

I was lost for words, Abby. I automatically said "I'm so sorry." But if the marriage had to fail, I suppose it's better that it ended while they were both young enough to start over again. But what does a friend say in such a situation?

NO WORDS

DEAR NO: The less said the better. It's a kindness to ask no questions. And the most generous thing you can do for your friend (and her daughter) is to keep the young divorcee in mind should an eligible bachelor appear on the scene. Also include the daughter whenever possible, to keep her socially active.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow in my late 50s and I'm in love with a man who is younger. We work in the same office. He is married and has a family and he thinks he's an alcoholic.

He has come to my house after work on a Friday, gets drunk and stays drunk the whole weekend. Then he goes to work, goes home and stays sober for two or three months. He also attends Alcoholics Anonymous meetings.

I don't think he is a true alcoholic. I think he just likes to drink. I always have liquor available for him at my house which his wife does not. (She goes to those dumb meetings for wives of drunks.)

This has been going on for three years. How much longer must I wait before he leaves his wife and comes to live with me on a permanent basis? I love him and I believe he loves me. He says he loves his wife, but I think he feels pity and maybe some loyalty and obligation to her because she stuck with him for over 20 years.

Answer soon. I trust your judgment on most matters.

WEEKEND WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I think that he will never leave his wife for you. For one thing, he probably loves her deeply. She's proven that she loves him enough to stick with him. (Those "dumb" meetings she attends are Al-anon, whose function it is to teach spouses of alcoholics how to cope with the many problems alcoholism creates.)

You, on the other hand, are a convenience and a bad habit. Do the man and yourself a favor, and quit providing him with a handy haven for his weekend binges.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me if you think I misrepresented myself. I was divorced many years ago. I never remarried. My husband remarried, but his wife died.

Well, a few weeks ago, My ex-husband died, and I referred to myself as a "widow." I was severely criticized for this.

I feel that since we are now separated by the grave and not the divorce court, I am a widow. I was told in no uncertain terms I am a DIVORCEE and not a widow.

I'll leave it to you.

RECENTLY WIDOWED

DEAR WIDOWED: Sorry, but regardless of how you "feel," you are not a widow. Technically, a widow is a woman who has lost her husband by death. A man can have any number of ex-wifes-but only one widow. If he dies unmarried, he leaves no widow.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, Oct. 22, the 295th day of 1974. There are 70 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1962, President John Kennedy ordered U.S. air and naval forces to quarantine Cuba after concluding that Soviet missile bases were being built on the island.

On this date —

In 1721, Peter the Great took the title of Czar of all Russia.

In 1859, Spain declared war against Moors in Morocco.

In 1883, the former Metropolitan Opera House in New York celebrated its grand opening with a performance of Gounod's "Faust."

In 1907, a run on a New York bank set off a financial crisis known as the panic of 1907.

In 1942, during World War II, the British air force pounded the Italian port of Genoa.

In 1953, France granted independence to the Indochina kingdom of Laos.

Ten years ago: Funeral services were held in New York for the 31st American president, Herbert Hoover.

Five years ago: Lebanon's Premier Rashid Karami resigned amid mounting pressure against his government's attempt to suppress a guerrilla movement.

One year ago: The world-renowned cellist, Pablo Casals, died at the age of 96 in Puerto Rico.

Today's birthdays: Former Vietnam Emperor Bao Dai is 61 years old. Composer Benjamin Britten also is 61.

Thought for today: Marriage is an adventure, like going to war — Gilbert Chesterton, English writer, 1874-1936.

Elementary programs top board's agenda

Elementary school programs headed the agenda for the regular meeting of the Washington C.H. Board of Education Monday night. A variety of programs were discussed and approved by the board.

Elementary students, including sixth graders at the Washington C.H. Middle School, will be dismissed from classes at 2:30 p.m. Oct. 29 so that elementary teachers may attend workshops on the social studies curriculum. Special educators from Springfield city schools will attend the workshops to lead the discussions.

ALL STUDENTS will be dismissed at noon Thursday so that teachers may hold conferences with the parents of their students. Two such conference days are scheduled for the academic year, another will be held during the second semester. Parents are urged to visit their children's schools and discuss the student's progress with his teachers.

The board voted to participate in a Pickaway County film bank. At a cost of 25 cents per student (some $500 to $600 total), the system becomes an associate of the resource program and may borrow an unlimited number of films from the film library.

Approval was given for a proposal that two kindergarten classes be held at the Buckeye Mart store Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. The teachers will conduct their regular classes and the children will have the additional benefit of some instruction on the merchandising process. Area residents who visit the store will be able to view what goes on in the kindergarten classroom. The board noted that kindergarten classes will probably be best suited for the program since they are seldom distracted by visitors.

NO CLASSES are scheduled in the Washington C.H. or Miami Trace school districts Friday because it is a meeting day for the Central Ohio Teachers Association. However, the board approved use of a school bus for any teachers who wish to use part of the day to visit the Laurel Oaks Career Development Campus at Wilmington.

The vocational school will hold classes that day, and a number of teachers have expressed a desire to visit the school and become more familiar with the vocational program.

The Washington Athletic Facility Corporation has reported it repaired the restrooms at the Gardner Park Stadium this summer. The repairs included replacement of a number of toilets, repair of a leaking roof, painting and other work, amounting to some $1,750

WAFCO hopes to pay the greatest part of the bill for these repairs with money it will raise at the WAFCO-Washington C.H. Boosters club annual fish fry to be held prior to the Washington C.H.-Miami Trace football game Nov. 1 at Gardner Park Stadium, The board has been asked to consider paying the balance of the repair bill. Action on the request was tabled until a report of the proceeds from the fish fry has been submitted. A number of the board members will work during the fish dinner.

It was noted at the meeting that the Community Education football project (the Offsider's benefit game) netted over $3,000 for the community education program here.

The board also noted that the open house for the Fayette Progressive School will be held Tuesday night, Oct. 22, at Sunnyside, the former Elementary School. The open house begins at 7 p.m. and the board urged area residents to become familiar with the workings of the Fayette Progressive School.

The board approved reimbursement to some 39 teachers who had taken continuing education courses during the past several months. The board reimburses teachers for college courses at a rate of $30 per semester hour for up to six hours per year. Total cost to the board for the courses was $4,300.

Board members accepted with regret the resignation of Leo Welch, Washington Senior High School custodian. He had served the school system for more than 20 years.

IN OTHER action the board:

—Approved the employment of Terry Feick as driver's education teacher;

—Approved reimbursement for a number of faculty members who attended professional meetings;

— Agreed to rent the Washington C.H. Middle School auditorium to the Homer Lawson American Legion Post No. 653 for a gospel sing March 21, 1975;

—Allowed use of the school cafeteria for the Washington C.H. Pony League banquet Nov. 2;

—Approved salary increases for two faculty members and one clerical assistant;

—Noted that the "In the Know" team will face Columbus Marion Franklin Thursday night and approved use of a school bus for those who wish to attend; and —Agreed to sponsor the on-the-job emergency first aid class organized by Mac Tools, Inc.

Racial clash fatal to 41 in Mozambique

associated Press Writer

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (AP) — Forty-one persons were reported killed Monday evening in racial battles in Lourenco Marques touched off by an attack by demobilized Portugeuse troops on black soldiers of the new government.

About 40 of the Portuguese exservicemen, who were scheduled to return to Lisbon Monday night, attacked four black troops of the Mozambique Liberation Front — Frelimo — outside a crowded sidewalk cafe.

The Portuguese seized the Frelimo soldiers' guns and drove off in an open truck, shouting: "Let's go get our guns and give these men a lesson."

They returned about 30 minutes later with machine guns and hand grenades and opened fire on Frelimo troops guarding the office of the newspaper Noticias.

As rush hour crowds ran in panic, the Frelimo men returned the fire and killed at least four of the Portuguese.

The gunfire and grenade blasts continued for almost half an hour. Then Portuguese troops arrived in armored cars, but the Portuguese attackers had scattered.

Africans in the city, Mozambique's capital, retaliated with attacks on buses, cars and pedestrians. Hospital authorities reported 41 deaths.

Portuguese authorities said the Portuguese army and the Frelimo troops were in full control of the city today, but government broadcasts appealed to the public to remain at home.

The first known Olympiad was held in 776 B. C.

Kiwanians scrap plans for travelogue series

Plans for a travelogue series have been scrapped by the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club.

A report on the voting of the membership on the proposed travelogue series disclosed that it would not be attempted as a project this year. The report was reviewed at the regular meeting of the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club board of directors Monday night in the Lafayette Inn.

A variety of reports were also discussed at the meeting, conducted by club president Guy M. Foster.

Club secretary Roger Kirkpatrick read a report which will be forwarded to Kiwanis International which outlines all the service activities of the month. Kirkpatrick also stressed the importance of committee chairmen properly completing their monthly reports.

Past club president George Gibbs spoke briefly on the structure of Kiwanis International and the functions of district, division and local clubs.

Foster emphasized the need to increase the club's membership and mentioned a number of methods to strive toward that goal in the 1975 year.

President-elect Duane French announced the president's party which will be held Oct. 28 in the Miami Trace High School cafeteria. All members are urged to attend. Kiwanis dignitaries attending will include the Ohio district governor, the 10-W division lieutenant governor and all 10-W district presidents.

Board minutes were read and accepted and bills totaling $621.51 were approved for payment.

In closing, Dick Maddux presented two pins for perfect attendance, one to George Gibbs for 10 years and one to Steve Jennings for one year.

Amnesty program to be discussed

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — President Gerald Ford's amnesty program for draft dodgers and military deserters was to be discussed today at a luncheon of the Cincinnati Association of the United States Army.

U.S. Marine Lt. Dale Baird, an information officer at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, was the scheduled speaker.

Historical society meet is scheduled for Nov. 19

Due to other meetings scheduled for Nov. 11, the date originally set for the membership meeting of the Fayette County Historical Society, the session has been postponed until 8 p.m. Monday, Nov. 18 in Persinger Hall of the First Presbyterian Church.

B.E. Kelley, curator of the Fayette County Museum, said letters announcing the meeting will be mailed to the membership within the next few days.

Officers will be elected at the meeting in addition to reports by various officers and an interesting program.

THE MEMBERSHIP is open to the public and those desiring to become members will be welcomed at the meeting, Kelley said. Each member attending is asked to bring a prospective new member if possible.

During the year, the society has lost two members of the board of directors by death — Chester Zimmerman, who was a charter member trustee, and Edgar Coil, a member of the board for a number of years.

Death also claimed several other members of the historical society.

At present and for several weeks previous, extensive work of improving the museum and grounds has been under way, giving the museum "a new look" due to the liberal support of the Fayette County Board of Commissioners.

Numerous ancient farm articles have been donated to the society and stored with many others awaiting a building to house a Fayette County farm museum, Kelley said.

Westgate Friends Church is setting for wedding

Miss Kay VanPelt of Columbus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene VanPelt of Sabina, became the bride of Mr. Gilbert Gibbons Jr. of Brecksville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert G. Gibbons of Brecksville.

The Rev. Robert P. Miller Sr., of Circleville, formerly of Sabina, performed the double ring ceremony Sept. 28 in the Westgate Friends Church in Columbus.

Vases of blue and yellow carnations and palms decorated the church.

Duets were sung and guitar solos played to the accompaniment of the guitar during the ceremony, favorite Scripture selections of the couple were read which included Ephesians 5:22-23, and I Corinthians 13. "We Are One," a poem written by the bridegroom, was also read.

Miss VanPelt wore a formal length pale blue voile gown, with lace trimmed bodice and ecru lace on the sleeves. She also wore an ecru picture hat with blue streamers. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and yellow roses with blue streamers tied in love knots.

Miss Martha VanPelt of West Chester, the bride's aunt, was maid of honor. She wore a formal length yellow floral gown with blue accents, and carried an arrangement of blue and white carnations. Mr. Gibbons served as best man for his father, and Marc Rinehart of Columbus, seated the wedding guests.

The bride's mother chose a long emerald green crepe gown with which she combined beige accessories. She wore a corsage of yellow roses and carnations. The groom's mother wore a long brown and white gown and a corsage of yellow roses and carnation.

Mrs. Edward Sanderson, the bride's sister, and the bride's nephew, Mark Sanderson, both of Circleville, provided piano music at the reception held in Fellowship Hall of the church.

The Misses Audrey and Kris Smith, nieces of the bride, Mrs. Robert W. Smith, of Washington C.H. the bride's sister, Mrs. Rick Repita and Mrs. Jack Pyle, both of Columbus, and Mrs. Benjamin Buckley of Sabina, were hostesses at the reception, when a buffet luncheon was served.

The new Mrs. Gibbons, a graduate of Sabina High School and Columbus Business University, is employed at Nationwide Insurance Company in Columbus. Her husband, a Brecksville High School graduate, attended Kent State University, and is employed at Automotive Sound Distributors, Columbus.

Following the wedding trip to Cape Cod, the couple is now residing at 1965 Belcher Dr., Columbus.

'Fabulous Fifties' party is held by Alpha Theta

Mrs. Don Gibbs was hostess to the Alpha Theta chapter Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, at a 'rush party.' Following this, the members and guests enjoyed a 'Fabulous Fifties' get-together.

Members came to the party wearing old cheer leader sweaters, high school graduation dresses, long skirts and bobbysocks, and old formals.

Mrs. Ron Ratliff conducted games pertaining to the 1950's, and all viewed their high school annuals.

Those present were Mrs. Jack Merriman, Mrs. John Morris, Mrs. Mike Vrettos, Mrs. John Bernard, Mrs. John Gall, Mrs. Ron Ratliff, Mrs. Clyde Cramer, Mrs. Jerry Hoppes, Mrs. Tom Rankin, Mrs. Gibbs, Mrs. Ray Loudner, Mrs. Roger Thompson, Mrs. Charles McIlvaine, Mrs. David Pellior, Mrs. Fred Zechman, and Mrs. Mike Wagner.

Guests were Miss Charlotte Smathers, Mrs. Richard Hill, Mrs. Hank Shafer, Mrs. John Gruber, Mrs. Scott Kerns, Mrs. Wayne King, Mrs. Jack Moats, Mrs. Fred Hoppes, Mrs. Richard Wood and Mrs. Jim Otterson.

Mrs. Gibbs and Mrs. Ratliff served pizza and coke.

Children entertained

Colman Hall on Rawlings Street was transformed into a spooky haunted house Saturday afternoon for the annual Halloween party arranged for the entertainment of children of Knights of Columbus members, Colman Council No. 5386.

The young goblins, 12 years and younger, masqueraded in colorful costumes. Excitement reigned for the children as they entered the eerie atmosphere where witches paraded, black cats hovered, ghostly skeletons dangled and orange and black streamers floated.

Two hours of fun and games were enjoyed by the group with prizes in the contests awarded Angie Newton, Kathleeen Boylan, Anne and Mark Engle.

In keeping with the season the youngsters were served apple cider, doughnuts, kool-aid and candy.

The Halloween party was arranged by Gary Magary, chairman, Robert Engle and Susan Stahl.

Rhodes to shun Ford appearance

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— President Ford's proposed income tax surcharge may be one reason former Gov. James Rhodes will skip a $500-a-plate dinner here tonight featuring the President as main speaker, a Rhodes aide said.

Rhodes, the Republican candidate for governor in the November election, will attend a fund-raising dinner in one of Ohio's southernmost counties instead, press secretary James Duerk confirmed.

But another Rhodes associate said flatly, "It's the surtax problem."

Rhodes is running on a "no new taxes" platform.

The former governor has criticized Gov. John Gilligan for tax increases, but Gilligan has opposed Ford's proposal which would reach down to single persons earning $7,500 annually and families earning $15,000 annually.

Rhodes' absence at the Cleveland affair would not be unusual "if he can go to Clermont County and raise money for his campaign," said state GOP Chairman Kent McGough.

McGough added that he had no knowledge of any concern Rhodes had with Ford's surcharge proposal and that Rhodes never had committed himself to attending the dinner.

He said Rhodes had planned to meet the President at Cleveland-Hopkins airport but could not keep that date and attend the Clermont County dinner, too.

Rhodes could not be reached for comment.

In 1964, Rhodes, who was governor, joined a campaign train in Cincinnati with U.S. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., the Republican presidential candidate. But Rhodes got off in nearby Hamilton in what was called a move to dissociate himself from Goldwater.

The Cleveland dinner is expected to be attended by about 300 persons, said Robert Wohlbruck, executive director of the Cuyahoga-Lake County Republican Finance Committee.

He estimated the dinner will raise $120,000 for the state party and Cuyahoga and Lake county GOP organizations.

The President was scheduled to arrive at 5 p.m., attend a reception at the Sheraton Cleveland Hotel, speak for 20 minutes and leave shortly after 9 p.m. The topic of his speech had not been announced.

Ford is returning from a trip to Mexico and a campaign stop in Oklahoma.

Nixon added to lawsuit

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Former President Richard Nixon was added Monday as a defendant in a suit against the Secret Service for alleged 1972 campaign dirty tricks, the American Civil Liberties Union announced.

The local chapter's executive director, Gordon Beggs, said several persons were deprived of their right to free speech and assembly at Cleveland Hopkins Airport when Nixon arrived there as part of his re-election campaign. Beggs said the suit claimed Secret Service men segregated and hassled persons wearing anti-Nixon pins and carrying anti-Nixon signs and took away some of their campaign literature.

"It's really part of the dirty tricks that went on that year as part of the campaign," Beggs said.

The amendment adding Nixon was filed in U.S. District court here, Beggs said.

OFBF reports more members

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 6.4 per cent membership gain was reported this year by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

The lobbying organization announced that it currently has 61,631 members, 3,726 more than the year before. That is the largest increase since 1949.

"The large gain reflects the continued importance farmers place in working together to produce food for people to eat while achieving a decent standard of living for their families," President Leonard Schnell said.

Franklin County led the state's membership increase with 175, with Cuyahoga County following with 151 members and Darke County with 117.

Organ recital slated Sunday

Mrs. Elizabeth Whiley Lange, of Columbus, will present a recital at 4 p.m. Sunday at Grace United Methodist Church. The recital is sponsored by the Washington C.H. Organ Club.

Mrs. Lange has served as the organist at the Broad Street United Presbyterian Church in Columbus, since 1952. Prior to that appointment she played for 14 years at the Indianola Presbyterian Church. During these years she has become increasingly popular with music lovers throughout central and southern Ohio, where she has played many recitals.

After graduating as an organ major at Miami University, Oxford, where she became a member of Delta Omicron, an international music fraternity for women, she was a graduate student at Ohio State University and studied privately for several years with Dr. Wilbur Held. Other noted teachers with whom she studied briefly are Clarence Dickinson and Catherine Crozier, and more recently, after special study, she qualified for the "Fellow of the American Guild of Organists diploma. She has served a two-year term as dean of the Central Ohio Chapter of the AGO. During one semester she taught organ at Denison University while Dr. Brayton Stark was on sabbatical leave.

Mrs. Lange has planned an hour of music by organ composers of various periods who have succeeded eminently for her recital at Grace United Methodist Church Sunday afternoon. Among other contemporary works she will play a hymn-prelude of her own composition.

The public is invited to attend the recital. There is no admission charge with the exception of a free-will offering to defray expenses. Following the recital a reception will be held in the church.

Burglary probed

Custom Car and Truck Rebuilders, 3676 Kenskill Ave., was burglarized sometime over the weekend, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported.

Although entry into the building was made, nothing was detected as missing and the only damage was $10 screen which was torn during the breaking and entering incident.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Clarence Darrow, a fair defense attorney, once claimed that "the law is a bum profession. It is utterly devoid of idealism and almost poverty-stricken as to any real ideas."

"The Law," a made-for-TV movie on NBC tonight, explores that thesis with a tautly written, well-acted and very sour study of the nuts-and-bolts workings of the criminal justice system in an unnamed big city.

Filmed in Los Angeles, the 2½-hour show stars Judd Hirsch, a New York actor in his mid-30s. He plays an aggressive, overworked deputy public defender who is idealistic by nature and cynical by experience.

His world, naturally, isn't a happy one. It's a world of hardnosed or jocular plea-bargaining, venal private barristers, prosecution-favoring, pistolpacking lady judges and lowlife defendants he must counsel en masse before their arraignments because the legal staff is small, its time limited.

The over-all impression you might get from this show is that it has but two staff idealists — the public defender and one member of the opposition, a young deputy district attorney played by John Beck.

The others are neither absolute saints nor sinners. They work both sides of the fence, drifting with the winds of expediency.

At the heart of the show is Hirsch's attempt to defend a young, heroin-wasted rock musician brilliantly played by Gary Busey — who's charged with three other men in a Manson family kind of murder case.

They're accused of hacking to death a pro football quarterback who, although publicly saintly, is subsequently revealed as privately kinky and into such things as cocaine, bisexuality, masochism and death cults.

The public defender, for whom the case becomes an obsession, tries to get the kid off, contending his client was totally wasted on drugs at the time of the killing and took no part in it.

But it's a headline-making case and into it comes the sort of famous trial lawyer-played with a nice, oily air by Sam Wanamaker — who takes such cases with no other financial consideration than the book and movie rights.

"The Law" has flaws, but it's at its best in the prelims, where it backs into the main story by depicting what happens, away from reporters and juries, after a suspect is arrested and jailed.

Its cynicism may dismay you and I've no doubt the American Bar Association will ask for a speedy retrial of the show's verdict on the law.

But the program, a series pilot, deserves watching. It's both solidly entertaining and thought-provoking, two qualities you don't often see on television in the same show.

Revco agrees not to use misleading ads

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — William P. Dixon, chief of the Arizona Consumer Fraud Division, said Monday that Revco Drug Centers, an Ohio corporation, has agreed not to use misleading price surveys in future advertising.

The agreement grew out of a civil complaint filed by Dixon in Superior Court last summer charging Revco with violating the state's Consumer Fraud Act in its "consumer reports" advertising campaign.

The complaint alleged that Revco falsely advertised that its prescription drug prices were 25 per cent cheaper than those of five other Arizona drug chains.

The agreement states that Revco's action is not to be considered an admission to wrongdoing.

High Court refuses zoning law challenge

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court has refused to review a challenge of the city's zoning laws.

The 1972 case challenged a tough city zoning policy freezing commercial development to protect development of a downtown shopping mall.

Hamilton police seek shotgun user

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Hamilton police today continued to seek the person who fired three shotgun blasts into a bar late Saturday night, wounding three men in the hail of buckshot.

The men escaped serious injury.

Police said a man in the bar said he had been involved in an argument with another man at another tavern earlier in the evening.

Utilities getting into deeper bind

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Few people waste any sympathy on electric utilities. Utilities always are big and impersonal, and often they are over-computerized and unresponsive. Many critics claim they are poorly managed.

The product they supply is taken for granted, and their bills therefore usually seem excessive. They are unwelcome neighbors too, accused of erecting ugly, even dangerous plants, and of polluting the air and water.

Their image often is that of self-interest and arrogance, a perception sometimes reinforced by appearances and actions. They often are nepotistic. It is assumed by cynics that they have compromised the power regulators.

Even their investors seldom have anything nice to say to them, at least of a personal nature. Occasionally they are complimented on the regularity and size of their dividends, but usually that is expected of utilities.

But now the utilities need sympathy. the mighty mastadons of industry have fallen into a trap that seems to get deeper the harder they try to escape.

See if you can solve the puzzle:

1. Because of the expensive equipment needed to operate utilities, they are very heavy borrowers. Interest rates have risen sharply, greatly adding to their costs. In some instances this forces them to borrow even more.

2. Their credit rating falls, forcing them to pay more.

3. They consider cutting dividends, but this would lead inevitably to lower stock prices, thus eliminating or reducing that source of capital.

4. Having no choice, the utility skips the dividend, which automatically forecloses the likelihood that it can offer a new issue of stock. If customers don't like the existing stock — and some analysts don't — why should investors be interested in more shares?

5. Meanwhile, the price of fuel continues rising. Switch to other cheaper fuels? The environmentalists won't like that. Raise prices? Yes, even if it offends customers.

6. The customers cut back on their usage. Financing is further disrupted.

7. Burdened with ill will, insufficient revenues, an unsympathetic bond market and a disinterested stock market, the utilities postpone construction.

8. In so doing they generate great problems for the future. Utility plants become worn out and outmoded. Old plants can't use new fuels. They are costly to operate and maintain. They break down.

If you believe there is no resolution of the scenario, you might add these possibilities:

1. Shrinking profits look increasingly unattractive to investors. Brownouts demonstrate to millions of people that utilities are "mismanaged." The public demands nationalization or municipal expropriation.

2. Utility managers agree. Faced with bankruptcy, they find their only source of funds is the government.

Nobody can demonstrate that the latter two possibilities will occur, and among stock market analysts a preponderance agrees a solution will be found in time — through tax changes, most likely.

But nobody can deny, either, that much of the preceding scenario is being enacted right now. On the stock market, to use one illustration, utility shares are selling far below book value.

One analyst observes that at current prices investors have even discounted nationalization. Presumably, the government would pay book value, he said.

Paperwork swamping policemen

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Police say thousands of unfiled and untranscribed crime reports are delaying some investigations here by more than a month.

Officials estimate 3,000 reports telephoned in by police officers are waiting to be typed and turned over to detectives for investigation because of a shortage of typists. About 30,000 completed reports are stacked at Central Police Station awaiting filing because of a shortage of clerks.

Until copies of the reports are made, insurance companies will not pay claims for stolen properties and the state will not reimburse victims of food stamp thefts, police say.

Police Lt. James Birmingham said the department has 29 women to take care of records, 10 less than the minimum needed to make the system work.

Uncompleted reports also keep police from spotting patterns such as 27 cars damaged and burglarized in the first district Sept. 25, Birmingham said. Those reports were not typed until last week.

TOWN HELPS HERMIT— Mike Pompileo, 55, left, lived in a cardboard and patchwork house until recently, near Livermore, Calif. The structure was declared a health hazard and burned, right photo, as county officials watched. Pompileo was evicted from the property with his dogs, cats and duck and charged with trespassing. He was also ordered to undergo a psychiatric examination. Townspeople, touched by the man's plight, are rallying to his aid with cash and clothing.

VICA officers are selected

WILMINGTON — The Laurel Oaks Career Development Center recently held elections for Vocational Industrial Clubs of America officers.

The elections were held to select candidates to seek regional and state VICA offices. All students in the trade and industrial areas participated in the event.

The winners were:

Jeri Fulton, Wilmington, state president; Jim Mason, Miami Trace, state vice president; Patte Macke, Lynchburg, regional president; Karen Newman, Greenfield, regional vice president; Vicki Chambers, Hillsboro, parliamentarian; Debra Hollar, Greenfield, secretary; Dave Satterfield, Hillsboro, treasurer; Kim Long, East Clinton, reporter; Steve Myers, Greenfield, seargeant-at-arms; Randy Rider, East Clinton, chaplin; Dan Cox, Washington C.H., junior fair board, and Mabel Crum, Miami Trace, queen.

Delegates selected were Paul Flint, East Clinton, Debra Barr, Greenfield, Julie Cullum, Fairfield, Joe Davis, Greenfield, and Terri White, Miami Trace.

The students will seek offices against candidates from other vocational schools in the southwest region at the fall VICA convention to be held at Laurel Oaks on Oct. 26.

Convicted 'fence' sentenced

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Still professing his innocence, James Hough, the flamboyant intermediary who arranged the $100,000 ransom of two stolen Rembrandt paintings, went off to jail Monday with a longer sentence than the thieves.

"I reaffirm my innocence," said Hough, 31, a real estate broker of Hamilton, Ohio.

Hamilton County Judge William Morrissey refused Hough's pleas for probation and for bond while his case is appealed.

Hough was sentenced to 1-10 years in jail for extortion plus a $1,000 fine and 1-5 years each for harboring a felon and receiving stolen goods. The latter two are to be served consecutively, Morrissey said.

Donald Lee Johnson, 30, confessed mastermind of the Dec. 18, 1973 thefts at the Taft Museum, was sentenced six months to five years. He pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of receiving stolen goods after agreeing to testify against Hough.

Carl Horsley, 21 and Henry C. Dawn, 22, who admitted taking the paintings valued at $1.5 million, got 1-5-year terms as did Raymond McDonough, 21, who drove the getaway car. All pleaded guilty to reduced charges of receiving stolen goods.

During the trial, Johnson said he was a professional thief and that Hough was a dealer in stolen goods.

Johnson said Hough masterminded the ransom after Johnson contacted him.

Hough, bearded and modishly dressed, appeared on a local television station with one of the paintings, "Man Leaning on a Sill."

He told museum officials and police that the thieves had asked him to act as go-between. Return of the first painting was a show "of good faith," he said.

The museum named Hough intermediary and gave him a check for $15,000 afterwards as a finders fee. Hough returned the check.

The second painting, "Portrait of an Elderly Woman" was recovered a week after the thefts through negotiations. FBI agents and local police recovered all except $18 of the ransom money and arrested Johnson, Horsely and McDonald shortly after the exchange was made in suburban Loveland.

"The thieves were the only ones who kept their word all through the negotiations," Hough complained afterward.

He was later indicted when the trio changed their stories before a Hamilton County grand jury in exchange for not being indicted for armed robbery.

Johnson testified that Hough agreed to act as intermediary for $70,000 of the ransom.

Hough, who said he is a real estate broker and bar owner, challenged the conduct of the trial judge and prosecutors in his appeal as being prejudicial. He also attacked the credibility of Johnson's testimony.

'Big Bill' Leverton finds losing 417 pounds difficult

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP) — "Big Bill" Leverton could never squeeze into anything until he became one-third the man he used to be.

"I couldn't go anywhere. I didn't fit. Doors, chairs — the world around me was too small," said William Leverton, 57, after shedding 417 pounds in 31 months.

"I look in a mirror and it's like looking at a stranger," said the 6-foot-3 Leverton, checking in at 223 pounds last week.

Leverton, a Michigan Highway Department inspector, weighed 640 pounds on April 3, 1972, and was told by his employer to reduce.

"My job was at stake," said Leverton, who has set a final weight goal of 200 pounds.

Leverton said he tried many methods to lose weight — even hypnosis.

"Under hypnosis I drank 12 ounces of grape juice, unsweetened, for several weeks. Today I can't even look at a grape," he said.

"You can't imagine what I went through. When I weighed 640, I had a 74-inch waist. It's now 42 inches. I literally wore the biggest pants and shirt in the world. I had to order them from a fit-all store in Chicago at $40 a set. And those were just grimy looking work clothes. My neck was 22 inches. Now it's 16 inches.

"My son used to have to put on my socks and tie my shoes. I'd walk 40 feet and be out of breath. I was a prison of fat."

In November 1972, Leverton joined a weight control program. He began to eat three carefully selected and measured meals a day, which included one tablespoon of mayonnaise, vegetable oil or margarine; 16 ounces of skim milk; five fruits or fruit juices; four cups of raw or two cups of cooked green vegetables; four ounces of a yellow vegetable and four slices of bread. He lost an average of 3.3 pounds each week.

Leverton's weekly diet now includes liver once, fish five times, beef three times and four eggs.

The weight control organization says Leverton's weight loss is a record, topping Florence Jaffee of New York, who dropped about 335 pounds in the late 1960s.

McDonald increases poll lead

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Only Class A pacesetter McDonald has any breathing room this week in The Associated Press Ohio high school football ratings.

The Trumbull County powerhouse owns a 36-point margin, 199-160, over runnerup Bluffton in Class A.

However, a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters sees it much closer in Class AAA and Class AA in the weekly poll.

Warren Harding, the new Class AAA leader, is 12 points, 245-233, ahead of second-place Canton McKinley, the No. 1 team a week ago.

Wheelersburg, on top in Class AA, leads by a scant 10th place vote, 164-163, over Akron St. Vincent-St. Mary, stumbling for the first time last week to Class AAA power Warren Western Reserve.

Harding, matching McKinley's 7-0-0 record, moved in front via a 55-0 victory over Cincinnati Taft. McKinley took a 53-0 verdict from Dayton Roth.

Wheelersburg's path to the top in Class AA came on a 32-0 triumph over Minford while St. Vincent-St. Mary was losing.

McDonald, meanwhile, knocked off Lowellville 34-6 to remain atop the Class A poll. Bluffton beat Delphos St. John 41-0 to go around Plain City Alder into the No. 2 slot. Alder was a 35-18 conquerer of Cedarville.

In Class AAA, the lone new face was No. 10 Youngstown Mooney, the defending state playoff champion with a 5-0-2 record this fall.

In Class AA, No. 9 Norwalk and No. 10 Louisville Aquinas were newcomers while 10th place Montpelier was a new face in Class A this week.

Cincinnati Moeller again was third in Class AAA, followed by Upper Arlington, Cincinnati Elder, Warren Western Reserve, Dover, Findlay, New Philadelphia and Youngstown Mooney.

Minerva was third in Class AA, Toronto fourth, Dayton Jefferson fifth, Cincinnati Wyoming sixth, Shelby seventh and Columbus Watterson eighth.

In Class A, Windham was up one spot to fourth and then, in order, came defending playoff champion Middletown Fenwick, Covington, Canal Winchester, Newark Catholic, Midvale Indian Valley North and Montpelier.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Here's how a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters rates Ohio high school football teams for The Associated Press this week (10 points for first to 1 point for 10th):

CLASS AAA

1. Warren Harding, 7-0-0, 245 points.

College grid ratings find little change

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Led by Ohio State and Oklahoma, the first eight teams in The Associated Press college football ratings held onto their positions today while Nebraska and Penn State climbed back into the Top Ten and Arizona and North Carolina State dropped out.

Ohio State remained No. 1 for the fifth week in a row with a 49-9 rout of Indiana. The Buckeyes received 50 first-place votes and 1,196 of a possible 1,210 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Runner-up Oklahoma drubbed Colorado 49-14 and picked up eight first-place ballots and 1,082 points. Last week, the Sooners trailed Ohio State 1,160-1,020.

Third-place Michigan received one first-place vote and 923 points after beating Wisconsin 24-20. Alabama, No. 4, trimmed Tennessee 28-6 and earned one first-place vote and 887 points. Auburn received the other first-place vote and 699 points with a 31-22 triumph over Georgia Tech.

Southern California, Notre Dame and Texas A&M remained in the 6-7-8 positions. USC downed Oregon 16-7, Notre Dame walloped Army 48-0 and Texas A&M blanked Texas Christian 17-0.

Nebraska, which was seventh in the preseason ratings and got as high as fourth before dropping down to 12th following its second setback, made it back up to ninth with a 56-0 shellacking of Kansas, which had been 13th.

Penn State, eighth in the preseason poll, skidded to 19th after losing to Navy early in the year but has been climbing back gradually—to 15th, 11th and now 10th. The Nittany Lions defeated Syracuse 30-14.

Arizona and N.C. State, Nos. 9-10 last week, slipped to 16th and 17th, respectively. Arizona lost to Texas Tech 17-8 while N.C. State bowed to North Carolina 33-14.

The complete Second Ten consists of Texas Tech, Florida, Texas, Arizona State, Maryland, Arizona, North Carolina State, Tulane, Miami of Ohio and California, which made the Top Twenty for the first time this year. The Bears replaced Kansas.

Last week's Second Ten consisted of Penn State, Nebraska, Kansas, Florida, Arizona State, Texas, Texas Tech, Maryland, Miami and Tulane.

Bears slip past Packers, 10-9

By JOE MOOSHIL
AP Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — "It was strictly designed to be a shortyardage play," said Carl Garrett, "but Randy Jackson and Perry Williams threw super blocks and I could have gone all the way if I hadn't tripped."

The play—one of many key plays in the Chicago Bears' stirring 10-9 victory over the Green Bay Packers—came in the closing minutes when the Bears were hanging on to their threadbare advantage Monday night.

Garrett not only got the two yards for a clutch first down but rambled 18 yards to get the Bears out of a serious hole. Bob Parsons then punted out on the Green Bay four-yard line and still the Bears didn't clinch the triumph until Garry Lyle intercepted a Jerry Tagge pass in the closing seconds.

Another key play—the game was full of them—came in the fourth quarter with the Bears leading 10-6. Tagge spotted Barry Smith alone in the end zone and fired. Craig Cleamons appeared to come out of nowhere at the last second to bat the ball out of Smith's hands.

"Cleamons made it look tough because of national television," said Coach Abe Gibron. "He should have been there all the time."

Cleamons credited Smith with making "a good move. I got there at the last second. Sure, we used six backs on defensive at times but remember, we were quick enough to come back and support on the run."

The strategy of using six defensive backs was puzzling since it forces a team to run rather than throw and Green Bay is known more for its running than its passing.

"You can think whatever you want," said Gibron. "The six defensive backs forced them to run. We fired we could stop their running. They had never seen six defensive backs before and it's tough to throw against them."

The Bears scored the first two times they had possession of the ball to take a 10-0 lead and then hung on while fighting off three Chester Marcol field goals in the second half.

Mirro Roder booted a 23-yard field goal midway in the first period and Gary Huff hit Charley Wade with a 57-yard touchdown pass minutes later. It was Wade's first pro touchdown although he leads the Bears in receptions.

"I was overdue, long overdue," said Wade. "And it came on national TV too, that's what made it great. A lot of people saw what I can do."

The Bears nursed the lead through the first half and five minutes into the second half Marcol booted a 34-yard field goal after Al Matthews had intercepted a Huff pass.

Later in the period, Ted Hendricks intercepted another Huff pass and returned 44 yards to the Chicago 37-yard line. But the Packers were halted on the 16-yard line and had to settle for a 33-yard Marcol field goal.

Now the Packers needed only a touchdown for a tie and they would have had it if Cleamons hadn't knocked down Tagge's pass to Smith. With a little more than six minutes to play, they went for another field goal and Marcol connected from 36 yards.

They never had another serious chance—not with Garrett's run, Parson's punt out of bounds and finally Lyle's clinching interception.

Lou Brock heads all-star selections

By KEN RAPPOPORT

NEW YORK (AP) — Lou Brock slid in safely on The Associated Press' 1974 Major League All-Star baseball team.

Picking up the most votes of the outfielders with 290, the St. Louis Cardinals' base-stealing wonder was among the classy group voted in Monday by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Brock, who broke Maury Wills' distinguished record of 104 steals with 118 this season, was joined in the outfield by Oakland's Reggie Jackson and Jeff Burroughs of Texas.

Jackson polled 218 votes while Burroughs had 194 to make the blue ribbon team ahead of such illustrious names as Jimmy Wynn of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Atlanta's Ralph Garr, the National League's batting champion.

The major battles in the voting took place at shortstop and for the right-handed pitcher's berth.

Cincinnati's Dave Concepcion won the shortstop position over Bert Campaneris of Oakland, 173 votes to 133.

Ferguson Jenkins of the Texas Rangers was named the team's right-handed pitcher, outdueling Catfish Hunter 159-117. Nolan Ryan, the California Angels' strikeout king, finished a distant third with 53.

Baltimore's Mike Cuellar won in a breeze for the left-handed pitcher's slot. Cuellar collected 255 votes to 46 for his nearest rival, Detroit's John Hiller. Ken Holtzman of Oakland was third with 35.

The remainder of the team includes first baseman Steve Garvey of the Dodgers; second baseman Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins; third baseman Mike Schmidt of the Philadelphia Phillies and catcher Johnny Bench of the Reds, all runaway winners.

Along with his phenomenal exploits that broke Wills' record, Brock's season included a .306 batting average, 105 runs scored and 194 hits.

Jackson blasted 29 home runs, knocked in 93 runs and batted .289 for the A's while Burroughs had his finest season at Texas with 25 homers, 118 RBI and a .301 batting average.

Concepcion drove in 82 runs and batted .281 for the Reds. Jenkins, a former 20-game winner in the National League, had a 25-12 record for the Rangers and boasted a 2.82 earned run average while striking out 225 batters. Cuellar won 22 games and lost but 10 for Baltimore while posting a 3.11 ERA.

Garvey, a landslide victor over Dick Allen of the Chicago White Sox, 273 to 76, batted .312 while hitting 21 home runs and driving in 111 runs. Carew, the majors' best hitter with a .364 average, also was the American League's best vote-getter with 306.

Schmidt drove in 116 runs and hit 36 homers for the Phillies. Bench blasted 33 homers and knocked in 129 runs to finish far ahead of the field at his catching position.

Storm seeking better support

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

There's still a chance the Portland Storm will move into the World Football League playoffs—but there's a better chance that they'll move.

Portland plays in Thursday night's nationally televised WFL game, hosting playoffbound Memphis. In Wednesday night's action it's Birmingham at Shreveport, Philadelphia at Southern California, Florida at Charlotte and Hawaii at Chicago.

The league said Monday night that eight teams would make the playoffs. At the start of the season, the league said four would make it. Then, several weeks ago, it was expended to six. Now it's eight, meaning only two of the 10 clubs still playing (two have suspended play) will sit out the postseason action.

The Storm is hoping the national TV game will be a showcase for football interest in Portland and that it'll draw a sellout crowd go 33,000-seat Civic Stadium.

If it does, it'll virtually triple last Wednesday night's showing of 11,032 fans, a season-low, who saw the Storm slip past the Hawaiians 3-0.

"If they want a professional football team here, we can't go on drawing only 11,000 per game," says Storm owner Bob Harris.

Shortages reported in hunting supplies

Hunters are hunting for scarce guns and ammunition before going after ducks and deer this year. Sporting goods dealers across the country report shortages of rifles, shotguns and ammunition.

The shortages resulted from limited supplies of steel for gun barrels, choice woods for rifle stocks and plastic and brass for cartridge cases, dealers said.

Officials in many states reported increases in both poaching and legal hunting of game birds and animals. The price of meat is a factor, some said, but others said it's still cheaper to go the supermarket.

With hunting season about to start in many states, gun dealers from Maine to the Mexican border are looking at thinly stocked rifle cases and ammo bins. "There's a shortage of everything popular," said Dave Gils of Coast-to-Coast Stores in Fargo, N. D.

Steel shortages have affected production at the Ithaca Gun Co., said John Hrana, marketing manager for the upstate New York gun maker. "Most of the effect was in the first part of the year," Hrana said, "But our production forecast is being met almost 100 per cent now."

A shortage of top quality walnut wood for gunstocks has caused delays for some manufacturers. A few have turned to birch and other woods to fill the gap.

Most dealers reported little difficulty getting inexpensive guns, but the demand is for mid-priced and quality firearms and they are in short supply.

Despite price hikes of 30 per cent and more during the past year, some dealers blame the shortage of hunting guns on manufacturers waiting for still higher prices.

"There's a lot of talk about shortages of raw materials, but you have to wonder if they are not just holding back until the next price increase," said Judd Kirkham, sporting goods buyer for a J.C. Penney store in Kansas City.

The ammunition situation is about the same.

"The price of ammunition is out of sight," said Virginia Cartner, owner of Ozark Tackle and Supply in Eldon, Mo.

Game management and wildlife officials in many states said they expect a moderate increase in the number of hunters in the field this year because of larger herds and flocks and the growing popularity of outdoor recreation.

Lions defeated by Wilmington

Washington's volleyball teams appear to have hit a rough spot in their schedules as both teams dropped their second consecutive games, Monday evening. Playing at Wilmington, the varisty lost its matches 15-4 and 15-12. The reserves fell 15-11 and 15-9.

Top scorers for the varsity were Cindy Vaughn and Teresa Pursell with five points each. Betsy Krieger was tops with seven set-ups.

Joyce Warner and Sharon Redden each collected five points to lead the reserves. Sally Robinson had eight set-ups, while Becky Wheat and Redden each had seven.

The varsity record is now 5-3 and the reserves are 4-4 for the season. Tonight, the Lions will be at home against Clinton Massie.

Softball dinner

The Fayette County Softball Association is having a potluck supper this Saturday at 6:30 p.m. The supper will be held in the Fine Arts Building at the fairgrounds. All team members and wives planning to attend are asked to bring a covered dish and a table service. Trophies for the past season will be awarded following the dinner.

Dodger skipper inks 22nd one-year pact

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Walter Alston, the man who turned a seeming lack of outward forcefulness into one of his greatest assets, has signed his 22nd one-year contract to manage the Dodgers.

The Dodgers announced the signing Monday as Alston, 62, a one-time farmer and schoolteacher, drove from Los Angeles to his winter home in rural Darrtown, Ohio.

Only four managers have won more pennants than Alston, who won his seventh this year before his Dodgers lost the World Series to Oakland.

And only two men, Connie Mack and John McGraw, have managed the same team for a longer period than Alston. Mack piloted the Philadelphia Athletics for 50 years and McGraw led the New York Giants for 31.

Alston's credentials as a major league manager were not always totally accepted. When he was first named to the job in 1953—without any previous major league managing experience—many, including some of his players, thought the even-tempered Alston was not tough enough to get the job done.

"A lot of people thought he'd be a failure," Carl Erskine, a star pitcher of the era recalled. "I predicted he wasn't forceful enough to be a manager and a lot of the players were skeptical.

"He didn't bring any ready made credentials and at that time—...the image of a manager was some kind of dynamo, like Leo Durocher. Walt was a departure from that."

Looking back, it is ironic that a quality which largely accounts for Alston's lasting 21 years is the very equanimity, the very lack of outward forcefulness, which many thought would cause his early downfall.

"The things that in the beginning seemed weaknesses because they didn't fit the managerial pattern of the day turned out to be strengths," Erskine said.

"All of us tend to make big things out of little things," Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson once commented. "But he (Alston) doesn't...He's the same when he wins the pennant as when he finishes fourth or fifth."

Football raffle

Miami Trace's Varsity 'M' Club will be raffling a football at this week's Homecoming game with Greenfield. The football has been autographed by the queen and her court and members of this year's football squad. Tickets will be 25 cents or five for a dollar. The winner will be announced at halftime.

The Moose, like all deer, is a ruminant. Related to domestic cattle, it has a four-chambered stomach.

Not enough progress, Skorich says

CLEVELAND (AP) — "We made progress, but we still made too many mistakes. We lost, we still didn't win," said Cleveland Browns Coach Nick Skorich.

The Browns dropped a 20-16 decision to the Pittsburgh Steelers and sunk to a 1-5 record in the National Football League.

"We certainly can improve considerably," said Skorich at his Monday news conference. "We need a lot of improvement in the area of execution. We've played better offense and defensively we made some mistakes, but overall it was the best team effort this season."

Skorich said he was happy with the movement of coaches Richie McCabe and Dick Wood from the field onto the roof and that the changes he made in the lineup worked pretty well.

"Milt Morin and Jim Thaxton did fine jobs alternating at the tight end spot," Skorich said. "Morin was effective on the intermediate pass, which is his best area.

"Bob McKay playing guard worked out well also. He did a solid job. And although we didn't get our running game going, (Hugh) McKinnis did what we expected him to do (at the fullback spot). He broke loose a few times and he's a good hard runner. Van Green made a big difference in our defensive backfield."

Skorich said that he might make some changes at wide receiver when the Denver Broncos come to Cleveland Sunday. Steven Holden, who was shaping up as the Browns best wide receiver, has been out with an injury for the past three games. His return is questionable.

Bowling honor roll

Roger Grimm was knocking down the pins at Bowland in the Monday Night Scratch League. He had games of 216-246-190 for a high series of 652. Roger Wilson shot a 279 game in the Thursday Industrial League for high game of the week.

Jeddy Graves took top honors of the week for the women. She had a 603 and a 614 series. There were only two other bowlers able to top the 600 mark. They were Mike Wilson and Ken Robinett with 604 in the Monday Fraternal League.

Tony Hicks had a 599, Orris Hatfield 593, L. Goodman, Rick Kelly and B. Hartman 591, Al Cornell 590, Jim Polk 588, Roger Shepard 584, Wilbur Rapp 577, Jack Yeoman and Ed Oyer 574, Bob Thompson 570, Glen Yerian 567, Paul Donohoe 566, Joe McFarland 564, Shepard and Jim Meyer 560, Bob Rittenhouse 559, Ronnie Dean and Gordon Writsel 558, Gene Grimm 557, Thurman Carwile, Bob Glass and Bob Hughes 556, Charles Pfersick 554 and B. No final decisions rendered

Appeals court judges air cases here

Three judges from the Second District Court of Appeals convened in Washington C.H. Monday to consider a number of motions submitted to the appeals court on cases filed from Fayette County.

Constituting the panel were judges Calvin Crawford, Joseph D. Kerns and Darrell Hottle. Judge Hottle, Common Pleas Court Judge from Highland County, sat on the bench for Appeals Court Judge Paul Sherer, who was unable to attend.

THE JUDGES heard arguments on a number of cases including the criminal cases of John A. Brown, Michael Marmura and Robert Lemons, as well as the civil suit of Neal Wright and Claude E. Rhoad versus Calvin Hayward.

Brown, formerly of Frankfort, sentenced to life imprisonment for second degree murder, is seeking a new trial because of alleged errors during his trial in Fayette County Common Pleas Court. He was sentenced Sept. 5, 1973 for the fatal shooting of a Chillicothe girl while she was visiting Washington C.H. in the fall of 1972.

Lemons and Marmura were sentenced to not more than one year imprisonment and fined $2,500 each for possessing and attempting to sell pornographic material. Their initial request for appeal had been denied, but the judges will consider the merits of an appeal which is to be filed after their defense attorney has received a copy of the transcript of their Fayette County Common Pleas Court trial.

Hayward has been ordered to tear down his $53,000 home on U.S. 62-S and to restore the building site to its former condition. The Fayette County Common Pleas Court ruled that Hayward violated the deed to his property when he constructed the home which was completed in 1973. Arguments concerning his appeal to the Second District court of Appeals were heard during Monday's session.

A number of other matters, including some from Municipal Court decisions were aired.

NO FINAL decisions were rendered by the judges who will consider the arguments and render written opinions at a later date.

Another matter discussed by the judges concerned the length of time which has been required by the Fayette County Common Pleas Court for the preparation of trial transcripts. The judges discussed the problem with Judge Evelyn W. Coffman and recorder Martha Hahn, who explained some of the difficulties encountered in preparing transcripts here.

According to one of the appeals court judges, the discussions were fruitful and he feels that if everyone will exercise patience and cooperation, the situation can be resolved satisfactorily.

Hospital accreditation OKd

The Fayette County Memorial Hospital board of Trustees has received notice of approval from the Joint Commission on Accreditation, Chicago, Ill.

The commission is composed of representatives of the American College of Physicians, the American College of Surgeons, the American Hospital Association, and the American Medical Association. It tours the hospital facility on a regular basis and either approves or disapproves of the hospital each year.

In accrediting the hospital for another year, the commission cited an apparent deficiency in a lack of space in some of the hospital departments.

The only action taken by the board was to transfer funds of $31,420 from the equipment fund to the general fund. The money is to be used for payment on the newly-installed boilers at the hospital.

THE STATISTICAL report for September showed 324 admissions, for a total of 1,822 in-patient days. There were 58 births.

The facility was at 69 per cent occupancy, and the medical and surgical division had 76 per cent occupancy. These were the lowest percentages of the year and were attributed to the fact that several area doctors were vacationing during September.

The average length of stay in the hospital was 5.6 days, with the figure at 6.37 days for medical and surgical patients.

There were 745 X-rays taken and 4,776 laboratory tests performed. The emergency room had 1,240 patients.

There were 228 physical therapy treatments and 458 inhalation treatments. During the month, 66 major surgeries and 65 minor surgeries were performed.

Final contestants picked in lottery

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— The last 15 of 100 contenders to become Ohio's first lottery millionaire Sunday have been named in a special drawing here.

Meanwhile, Thistledown race track officials announced a million-dollar field for the $50,000-added Ohio Millionaire Lottery Stakes which will determine the order of prize money for the top finalists.

The Monday afternoon drawing was to have added 14 millionaire competitors but was extended after lottery officials learned one lottery agent mistakenly had paid off on a nonwinning ticket.

The nonwinner, Omar Watts of Burton, was eliminated and W.F. Roemer II of Berkey added.

The other names picked from a barrel were announced by lottery officials as Mary Lou Goehert, Cleveland; Kay Klinger, Toledo; Rita Jenkins, Sandusky; Emma E. Yerkey, Canton; Anita Blair (no city given);

James T. Goodrich Jr., Elyria; Wilbur H. Rhoades, Easton-Doylestown; Robert L. Bondurant, Springfield; Olivio D. DiGianbattista, Canton; Madeleine Graybill, North Canton; Robert L. Regula, Canton; S. Victor Tornello, Youngstown; Harry Cutlip, Ashtabula; and Louis Najcher, Cleveland.

The $20 winners from weekly drawings make up the pool from which the millionaire finalists are selected. One contestant is picked for every 1,500 $20 winners.

Eighty finalists will win $1,000 each on Sunday, seven will get $10,000 each, one $50,000, one $100,000 and the winner $1 million.

The top three will be determined by what horses win in the derby, the day's ninth race.

Twenty Ohio-foaled three-year-olds and up will race the mile and one-eighth, said racing secretary Mel Chadwell. He said the competing horses' career winnings total more than $1.5 million.

The $50,000 purse is the track's second highest of the year.

Joint Shrine, K of C meet set Thursday

The Washington C. H. Shrine and Knights of Columbus clubs will hold their first joint meeting in the history of the two local clubs Thursday in the Mahan Building on the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

The meeting will consist of a get-together of the two clubs over a smorgasbord dinner to begin at 6:30 p.m. Shrine Club president Robert McArthur and Grand Knight Bill Stahl urge all members to contact Bob Cannon or John Bath for reservations.

The groups planned the meeting after similar sessions — in other parts of the state produced a good response. The Shriners are a Protestant group while the Knights are Catholic.

KSU case dismissal sought

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Dismissal of charges against four of the eight former Ohio National Guardsmen indicted in the 1970 Kent State University shootings was sought Monday as selection of a jury for the trial of the eight was started.

Two jurors had been seated tentatively when U.S. District Judge Frank J. Battisti recessed the trial until this morning. (10 a.m.).

Attorney C. R. Lambros asked in a motion made orally in Battisti's chambers before the jury selection began that charges against his clients be dismissed.

He argued that publicity last week stemming from the release of a deposition made by former Gov. James A. Rhodes in civil suits filed in connection with the shootings had prejudiced the case of the four men. Lambros later read his motion into the trial record.

Battisi said he would delay a ruling on the motion until the trial jury was seated, but he contacted U.S. District Judge Don Young at Toledo, who ruled against sealing Rhodes' deposition. Lambros said Young agreed to seal any other depositions made in the civil suits until the criminal trial here is concluded.

Lambros asked that charges be dismissed against James D. McGee, 28, of Ravenna; James E. Pierce, 30, Amelia Island, Fla.; Ralph W. Zoller, 27, Mantua, and Barry W. Morris, 30, Kent.

The four were among exguardsmen indicted last March 29 by a federal grand jury that investigated the shootings on May 4, 1970. A 13-second burst of gunfire from National Guard troops during a confrontation with demonstrators protesting U.S. military involvement in Cambodia left four students dead and nine wounded.

Others indicted were Lawrence A. Shafer, 28, Ravenna; William E. Perkins, 28, Canton; Leon H. Smith, 27, Beach City, and Mathew J. McManus, 28, West Salem.

The indictment charged the defendants with willfully assaulting and intimidating the student demonstrators by firing weapons in their direction and with violating their constitutional right not to be deprived of liberty without due process of law.

Shafer, McGee, Perkins, Pierce and Zoller were charged specifically with one count each of "discharging loaded .30-caliber M1 rifles . . . in the direction of of the demonstrators."

Morris was charged with firing a .45-caliber automatic pistol in the direction of the demonstrators.

The indictment charged McManus and Smith with firing 12-gauge shotguns in the direction of the demonstrators.

Jurors seated tentatively Monday were Ralph L. Rumsey of nearby Avon Lake, the father of three who said he attends night classes at Baldwin-Wallace College in suburban Berea, and Constance Hillson, 23, a housewife of suburban Garfield Heights.

Judge Battisti dismissed four prospective jurors before turning the questioning over to government and defense attorneys.

Pickerington school fire charges filed

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP) — Three Pickerington High School students accused of setting a $750,000 fire in the school were to face arson charges today in Fairfield County Juvenile Court.

State Arson Bureau Chief Gene Jewell said the boys, two aged 16 and one 17, were picked up Monday following an investigation by his office and local police and fire officials.

The youths, who were not identified, were released in the custody of their parents pending their court appearance, Jewell said.

Jewell declined to disclose specific details regarding the fire, except to say "a flammable liquid was poured in the library of the school" at about 2 a.m. Monday.

Fire officials earlier had said the blaze apparently started in the library and media center. The fire was reported at 3 a.m. and was fought by about 50 firemen from Fairfield and Franklin counties.

Officials said the library, including 6,300 books, was totally destroyed, along with administrative offices and a teachers' lounge. Six classrooms suffered severe smoke and water damage, and heat melted structural girders, they said.

School Supt. Don E. Heft said the school probably will remain closed the rest of the week.

Order Ross list change

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A supplemental list of registered voters should be added to the official registration list in Ross County, the secretary of state ruled today.

A list of registered voters was prepared on Sept. 1, he said.

But secretary of State Ted W. Brown said that list "would not be 'complete and official' and reflect the correct registration list for each precinct in the county" because Ohio law states the "complete and official registration list" must be prepared at least 15 days before the general election.

"Since the lists were prepared for your county by Sept. 1, there would naturally be many additions or corrections resulting from changes in registration made prior to the close of registration on Oct. 7," Brown said in breaking a 2-2 vote by the county board of elections trying to decide the matter locally.

Brown, a Republican, voted with the two Democrats in adding to the prepared registration list.

Wheat to be sent to eastern Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — A newly approved sale of 1.2 million metric tons of U.S. wheat to the Soviet Union is needed for grain-deficit eastern areas of the country, says an Agriculture Department official.

Deputy Asst. Secretary Richard E. Bell said Monday that normally the wheat would have come from Canada. But he said Canada has had trouble with shipping and has had crop losses this year so the Soviets turned to the United States.

Bell told a news conference he thought at least three-fourth os the U.S. wheat, and perhaps all of it, will go to the Far East area of the Soviet Union.

He said it is cheaper for the Russians to buy the grain from Canada or the United States than to ship it by rail from their own distant wheat-producing areas.

The 1.2 million tons of wheat and 1 million tons of corn was agreed upon last week by U.S. and Soviet officials meeting in Moscow. Bell was there with the U.S. delegation headed by Treasury Secretary William E. Simon.

Simon last weekend announced Moscow had agreed to limit grain purchases to the total of 2.2 million tons until mid-1975, when new U.S. crop production is ready.

The White House on Oct. 5 intervened in sales of 3.2 million tons of corn and wheat after the two firms involved reported the Russian orders to the Agriculture Department.

As a result of Simon's visit to Moscow, the Soviets agreed to the reduced quantity. The firms involved in the initial deal were Continental Grain Co. of New York, and Cook Industries of Memphis, Tenn.

Bell said the Soviet grain trading agency, Exportkleb, has sole authority to work out details of the revised purchase either with Continental and Cook or with other grain firms. He said the department did not give the two companies any assurance that Russia would buy grain from them.

Bell said he thought Russia would continue as a steady buyer of corn to help increase its livestock production. However, he said, wheat purchases are not so predictable because of variable Soviet production and demand.

Fancy breed of chickens lay low-cholesterol eggs

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)— If you like eggs, but are chicken-hearted about cholesterol, young Bill Boyd might be able to help you.

Boyd, 21, a mathematics student at Indiana University, moved this year to a small house on a plot of ground near Unionville, east of Bloomington.

A flock of chickens came along with the little farm, purchased by Boyd's father, Joseph Boyd, an accountant for Cummins Engine Co. at Columbus.

They weren't just any old chickens. They were Araucanas, which produce a smaller than normal egg, rich in protein and low in cholesterol, the substance believed to produce fatty deposits in the veins that lead to strokes and heart disease.

The Araucanas were discovered about 1880 in Chile. The former owner of the farm raised several chickens from eggs, proving they are hardy in Indiana climate. The chickens are available from most poultry distributors.

The Araucana eggs are supposed to be at least 20 per cent lower in cholesterol than other chicken eggs.

Boyd collects about a halfdozen eggs a day from his flock of 11 chickens— there used to be 25 until a weasel found them.

"I think I'd like to build up the flock if I can," Boyd said. "I've thought about raising them for the eggs. I like it out here, and I am learning to farm."

In addition to the low cholesterol and high protein, the eggs have another advantage over the usual chicken eggs. They are prettier. For some reason, the shells vary in color from pastel blue and red to yellow and beige, ready made for the Easter basket.

School superintendent on Russian tour

MOSCOW (AP) — Ohio School Supt. Martin Essex is in the Soviet Union heading a 12-member State Department team conducting a two-week study of educational developments here.

The delegation plans to observe nursery schools, kindergartens, elementary and secondary schools, vocational and technical centers, evening schools and universities.

Stashed cash turned over to man's estate

ELSMERE, Ky. (AP) — The $93,500 in cash found in the home of a man found dead of natural causes Oct. 8 has been turned over to his estate.

Police Chief William Hiler said he found a fishing box containing a stack of money while looking through the home of James Holloran, a bachelor.

Holloran, 68, who ran a local restaurant for 20 years, was known for giving to charities and to individuals down on their luck, Hiler said.

A further search turned up $551 in silver dollars in an old sack. Hiler said a more thorough search by relatives turned up nothing of value.

Madison Mills sets campaign

MADISON MILLS — The annual UNICEF drive will be held Thursday in the Madison Mills community, sponsored by the United Methodist Women of the Madison Mills Methodist Church.

The children who will be canvassing the area will meet at the Madison Mills church at 4 p.m.

Donations are used to purchase food, milk and medicine for needy children throughout the world.

After the drive, the children will return to the church for refreshments, to be served by the Mary Martha Circle.

Japanese to protest Ford visit

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's three biggest antigovernment political parties say they plan a campaign of demonstrations against President Ford's visit to Japan next month but do not plan to resort to force or violence.

The Japan Socialist party, the Japan Communist party and the Buddhist Komei party said they hoped the demonstrations would be comparable in size to those in 1960 that caused President Dwight D. Eisenhower to cancel a visit to Japan. However, the violence of those demonstrations as well as the size was a major factor in Eisenhower's decision.

Japanese leftists observed International Antiwar Day Monday, and the three parties took the lead in nationwide rallies and demonstrations at which the Ford visit and U.S. nuclear weapon policies were attacked. The sponsors claimed about 2 million persons turned out, but the police estimate was less than 300,000.

Mild anti-Ford sentiment in Japan escalated abruptly this month following the testimony of retired Rear Adm. Gene Larocque before a congressional committee that U.S. warships had entered Japanese and other foreign ports with nuclear weapons aboard. Leftist groups contended that this violated a Japanese policy banning the admission of nuclear weapons to the country.

Luken and Gradison set election debate

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Rep. Thomas Luken, D-Ohio, and his Republican opponent Willis D. Gradison were scheduled to debate this afternoon at the University of Cincinnati.

Luken narrowly defeated Gradison in the Ohio First District race in a special election last March.

Van Wert inmates in escape attempt

VAN WERT, Ohio (AP) — Two inmates of the Van Wert County jail, both awaiting trial on drug-related indictments, were charged with attempted jailbreak Monday by the Van Wert County sheriff.

The two, Phillip G. Miller, 26, of Van Wert, and Terry Lee Craig, 21, of Delphos, tried to cut through a window with a hacksaw blade whenever trains passed by and were discovered Saturday afternoon, the sheriff's office said.

Rezoning legislation on Council calendar

Only one piece of legislation will be considered by members of Washington C.H. City Council at the regular semi-monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the City Office Building.

City Manager Dan Wolford said Council members will be considering the second reading of an ordinance authorizing rezoning of a 0.42-acre tract of land on Clinton Avenue, just east of the Fairview Avenue intersection.

Washington C.H. real estate developer Robert E. Lewis has submitted preliminary plans to City Council requesting rezoning of the land from R-2 to B-1 restricted to permit the construction of a proposed three-building office complex project.

The rezoning ordinance was placed on its first reading at City Council's last regular session since only five city legislators were present.

Opening lead - ten of diamonds.

Most players find mathematical probabilities extremely dull, but the fact is that even a superficial knowledge of the subject will reap big dividends on many deals.

Assume you're in three notrump and West leads a diamond. As soon as dummy comes down you can count eight top tricks, and you don't have to be an Einstein or a Garozzo to realize that your best chance for a ninth trick lies in clubs.

If you play momma-poppa style and start by cashing the A-K-Q of clubs, you will make the contract whenever the suit is divided 3-3 (a 36 per cent chance) or 4-2 (a 48 per cent chance). In either case you would play the nine of clubs next to assure nine tricks.

On top of this 84 per cent chance, there is also the possibility that when you start leading the suit the singleton ten or jack will fall on the first round (another 5 per cent). If this occurs, you continue the suit and in that way guarantee the contract.

But even this 89 per cent chance for the contract can be improved by an additional 5 per cent by cashing the ace of clubs, playing a heart to the ace, and returning a club from dummy, planning to finesse the eight if East follows low. This guards against East's holding the J-10-x-x-x of clubs.

It is true that this safety play makes a lot of sense even if you know nothing whatever about probabilities. But, even so, it is perhaps better for the sake of your peace of mind to know at the start of the hand that, with proper play, your over-all chance of success comes to 94 per cent.

Re-Lighting Cigarettes

My husband is trying to cut down on cigarettes. He takes a few puffs, then he kills it. He relights the same cigarette when he wants another few puffs. I notice that he coughs more when he relights a cigarette. Does this make any sense?

Mrs. D.O., N.C.

Dear Mrs. O.:

This subject has been under study in America and Great Britain.

The consensus is that those cigarette smokers who relight their cigarettes seem to have a greater tendency for developing chronic bronchitis.

In England, almost 6000 smokers were studied. It was found that the frequency of chronic bronchitis among those who relit their cigarettes was 15 per cent to 20 per cent greater than among those who did not relight their cigarettes.

One explanation might be that those who relight their cigarettes eventually smoke them to the end thus consuming more tars than the average smoker.

Any smoker will testify to the irritation from relighting a cigarette. Undoubtedly, other irritating substances accumulate in the "killed" cigarette.

Is there more than one method to remove a skin cancer of the forehead?

Mr. N.B., Mass

Dear Mr. B.:

The rate of cure of skin cancers is very high. Early recognition and early treatment is responsible for this excellent success.

The prime purpose of any procedure for skin cancer is to cure it permanently. The cosmetic result, especially in cancers of the skin of the face, is always considered when choosing a method of treatment.

Skin cancer can be treated by surgery, by chemical and electrical cauterization and by cryosurgery (surgery by freezing). Each case is individually evaluated by the dermatologist before the choice of treatment is established.

Doctors never sacrifice safety for cosmetic reasons. A small scar is insignificant in terms of the value of a permanent cure.

JOLLY JILLS 4-H

The Jolly Jills 4-H Club held their annual organizational meeting at the home of Bridget and Janelle Meredith. Last year's vice president, Kellie Mick, called the meeting to order. The pledges were led by last year's pledge leader, Debbie Tice. In order that each new member be identified, all girls introduced themselves for roll call.

The next order of business was election of officers. The following girls were chosen for the 1974-75 year. President, Dale Williams; vice president, Bridget Meredith; secretary, Lisa Jackson; treasurer, Kellie Mick; news reeporter, Beth Barton; Safety leader, Janelle Meredith; health leader, Jana Overly; recreation leader, Teresa Dean and Lori Barton.

New vice president Bridget Meredith appointed her program committee. Members chosen were: Debbie Tice, Lisa Jackson, Kathy Junk, Teresa Dean and Beth Barton.

The meeting was adjourned by the new president, Dale Williams. The next meeting will be November 4th at the home of Debbie Tice at 7:30 p.m.

Following adjournment the three advisors, Mrs. Kathy Meredith, Mrs. Helen McHolan and Mrs. Ronnette Mick, discussed the different 4-H projects with the girls. Each member filled out a card with the needed information about herself and the projects she is interested in taking. These were given to the advisors. Refreshments were served by Janelle and Bridget Meredith.

HAPPY BLUE BELLES

All 10 members were present for the meeting of the Happy Blue Belles at Belle-Aire School. Our leader, Mrs. Janice Boswell, and assistant Mrs. Barbara Wyatt, led the Pledge of Allegiance.

Refreshments were served by Melissa Climer.

Stephanie Hatmacher gave the roll call and dues were collected by Debbie Forsha with each responding by naming our favorite story or cartoon character.

Mrs. Boswell reminded us of the Council Fire for Thursday and we decorated our flashlights to use during the ceremony.

Mrs. Wyatt showed us a cute craft which we will have fun making at the next meeting Oct. 28. Angela Everhart will be responsible for refreshments.

The group formed a friendship circle and repeated The Bluebird Wish, and learned a new song. We closed the meeting with "The Bluebird Goodbye Song."

Those present were Julie Boswell, Melissa Climer, Angele Everhart, Debra Forsha, Maria Frogale, Stephanie Hatmacher, Loretta Self, Jody Shepler, Jackie Sue Smith, Amy Wyatt, Mrs. Boswell, Mrs. Wyatt and Amy Boswell.

SCOUT TROOP 67

Following the opening of the meeting of Boy Scout Troop 67, Senior Patrol Leader John Milstead told us about the ribbons we had won at the camporee. They were the President's Award, Best Percentage of Attendance, and Best Conduct. We also received the chairman's trophy.

The two patrols received a total of seven ribbons, five of which were Bear Patrols.

We then had recreation for the rest of the meeting, and played the game of spud and a game of dodgeball.

All Scouts were reminded that the next meeting will be entirely for advancement. Everyone is to have at least one major thing to pass.

Senior Patrol leader, John Milstead, had the Scout Benediction.

In Focus

by Charlie Pensyl

I hear people say, "winter is the electronic flash season," you know, like during the summer we rely entirely on daylight, or the sun. Truth is, the photographer will use his electronic flash more during the summer season than in the winter when the daylight is usually more diffused and the light is softer. Flash fill-in is one of the chief jobs of the versatile electronic flash.

Buying an electronic flash is no easy task, since there are units ranging in price from around $20 up, I mean really UP. With the simple manual unit it's up to the cameraman to set the aperture according to distance and other factors. With the automatic units the light goes out from the unit, strikes the subject and comes back to an electric eye on the unit. When enough light gets back to the unit it quenches and that's all there is; thus preventing overexposure. How's that for a gimmick?

Well, if that turns you on, get this. There are some units that have the electric eye that attaches to the camera, but the flash unit may be off-the-camera or bounced, but the quenching job takes place when enough lights gets to the camera to properly expose the picture. You see, with all this electronic gadgetry you don't have to be a mental giant to be a great photographer. Just know what electric eyes and electronic brains to rely on.

What we're trying to tell you is this, "There is an electronic flash unit in your future. We're here to help you pick out which one is for you."

Two persons hurt in city mishaps

Two traffic accidents were investigated by Washington C. H. police officers Monday, both involving the issuance of citations and both involving injury to the drivers not at fault. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported a parking lot mishap which involved no injury or citations.

An accident at the intersection of Eastern Avenue and Pearl Street at 11:28 a.m. Monday, involved cars driven by Jimmie R. Hutchinson, 30, of 317 Eastern Ave., and Russell D. Seymour, 17, Jeffersonville.

Hutchinson showed visible signs of injury at the accident scene and was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital by Gerstner-Kinzer ambulance service where he was treated for back and chest pain and numbness of the left leg. He was then released.

Seymour was cited by city police for failure to obey a traffic stop sign.

SEVERE DAMAGE was incurred by cars driven by Dorothy M. Cornwell, 28, of 830 Conley Court, and Dannie W. Manning, 18, of 803 Broadway St., when they became involved in an accident at the intersection of Washington Avenue and Church Street at 3:19 p.m. Monday.

Ms. Cornwell, claimed injury at the accident scene and was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital by Gerstner-Kinzer ambulance service, where she was treated for an abrasion of the knee and released.

Manning was charged by city police with failure to yield right of way.

A tank truck driven by Howard W. Robinson, 46, Wilmington, backed into a parked car owned by Beverly J. Brown, Grove City, at 11:25 a.m. Monday, at the Donald Cooper farm in Paint Township, on Blue Road, one-half mile east of Ohio 38.

Sheriff's deputies reported moderate damage to the Brown car and minor damage to the truck owned by Thad Hollon Turcking Inc., Blanchester.

School issues topic at meet

STAUNTON — Kenneth Payton and Marion Waddle, president and member of the Fayette County Board of Education respectively, were the guest speakers at the Thursday meeting of the Stanton-Olive PTO, held at Staunton Elementary School.

The board members were introduced by PTO president Mrs. Sue Rockhold and discussed the school bond issue and operating levy facing voters this election..

Other business included plans for a bake sale for the upcoming year, a lunch at an auction and the purchase of four, 9-by-12 rugs for the kindergarten classes.

Upcoming events scheduled were Oct. 22, 8:30 p.m. — demonstration of the new reading program at Miami Trace High School; Nov. 14, 2-4 p.m. at Staunton — work day scheduled to test visual aids for the children; Dec. 12 and April 13 — tentative dates for the next program and meetings at Miami Trace High School; and April 22 — date set for the next skating party.

Any members wishing to buy cook books may contact Mrs. Larry Noble at 335-2258 with all proceeds going to the PTO.

No oil bargains, Ford told

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — The United States won't get bargains in Mexican oil, President Ford has been told at his first foreign summit.

Ford got that message from Mexican President Luis Echeverria on Monday night before returning to the Republican hustings today in an effort to bolster his party's candidates in Oklahoma and Ohio.

Ford arrived here late Monday from Tucson, Ariz., where he wound up a series of conferences on both sides of the border with the Mexican leader.

The President, who has expressed delight at much smaller crowds that have greeted him during earlier campaign trips, found the throngs that swarmed around him in the streets of two Mexican cities even more boisterous and enthusiastic.

Ford, who went to the aid of his party last week in seven states, scheduled a $500-a-plate GOP fund-raising breakfast here as part of an effort to help the re-election candidacy of Republican Sen. Henry L. Bellmon, who is challenged by Democratic Rep. Ed Edmondson.

With Bellmon, Ford also was having a private meeting with a group of Oklahoma ranchers, then going to a GOP rally before taking off for more campaign appearances in Cleveland later in the day.

At his Mexican-American summit, Ford received a pledge of access to oil produced south of the border, but was told he will have to pay Arab prices for it.

At a hastily arranged joint news conference with Echeverria at a Tubac, Ariz., country club, Ford heard his guest say of the oil expected to flow from major fields recently discovered in Mexico: "Mexico will sell it to whoever wants any of it at the market price— the world market."

For his part, Ford told the news conference something Echeverria presumably wasn't happy to hear—that the United States has "not seen any change in the attitude of Mr. Castro" or the Cuban government and "it was not expected that our attitude toward Cuba should change" under such circumstances.

The only substantive accomplishment mentioned following the summit—and Ford spoke of it only in response to a news conference question—was agreement to set up a commission to look further into the problem of U.S. employment of temporary Mexican farmworkers.

Income supplement program applauded

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, Monday lauded the Supplemental Security Income Program of federal assistance for the aged, blind and disabled as a "halfway step toward a national guaranteed family income plan."

Addressing the 84th annual Ohio Welfare Conference, Taft said that the nine-month-old program provides a uniform, national income sufficient to meet the basic needs of this group of citizens.

The SSI program provides federal financial assistance for needy persons over 65, and those legally, blind, and physically or mentally disabled and unable to work, Taft explained.

The SSI program relieves the stigma attached to the old welfare program; substitutes federal financing for less flexible and more regressive state financing; and eliminates the "caprices and inequities" of a system previously administered by nearly 1,200 different entities, Taft said.

"Since the SSI began, the number of Ohio's citizens supported has increased 18 per cent, federal funding in Ohio has increased almost $85 million and State funding has remained constant or decreased," Taft said.

Presently under the SSI program, a single person receives $146 monthly and a married couple $219, according to Sumner Whittier, Director of the Aged, Blind & Disabled, Planning Office, Social Security Administration, located in Baltimore, Md.

Ohio, unlike many of the other industrialized states, does not supplement the federal SSI benefits with state funds, Whittier said. More than half the states in the union add benefits to the SSI funds, Whittier said, nearly doubling the amount of assistance in New York and California.

The states remain, however, Whittier explained, the "arbiters of adequacy" when it comes to assistance benefits.

Paul H. Coleman, asst. director of the Ohio Department of Public Welfare, explained that Ohio has not been able to have the resources to provide supplements to the SSI assistance funds.

State monies that used to go into matching funds have gone into the cost of administration and the increased cost of providing Medicaid benefits for the increased number of people assisted eligible for federal SSI funds and jointly financed state federal medicaid, Coleman said.

Board awards auto contract

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday awarded the contract for two cruisers for the Fayette County Sheriff's Department to Carroll Halliday, Inc. at a low bid of $9,400.

The commissioners received two other bids for the purchase from Ron Farmer's Auto Supermarket with a high bid of $9,464 and Billie Wilson Chevrolet, who also bid $9,400.

A flip of the coin determined which of the two low bidders would receive the contract.

Two non-traffic cases are heard

A case against a Washington C.H. man was dismissed while an area youth forfeited bond for littering in non-traffic cases heard Monday in Municipal Court.

Acting Judge John P. Case dismissed the case against Ricky R. Bryan, 18, of 721 Eastern Ave., charging him with assault by a private complaint at the complainant's cost.

Mark Smith, 18, Rt. 2, Leesburg, forfeited $50 bond after he was charged by state game protector Jerry F. Cremeans for "disposing of material of an unsightly nature, household garbage upon the bank of main Paint Creek."

Prayer breakfast attracts 79 teens

The weekly teen prayer breakfast met at the South Side Church of Christ Tuesday morning with 79 present.

"If Jesus Came To Visit You" was the theme for the meditation time, led by the Rev. Charles J. Richmond. Cheryl Bryan and Linda Hollingsworth led the group in several songs. Both are juniors at WSHS. After breakfast Gretchen Owen, senior at WSHS, spoke on the topic, "There Is A Right Time For Everything." She read from Ecclesiastes 3. Bruce Gilmore, senior at WSHS, dismissed the group with prayer.

The next prayer breakfast will be held at 6:45 a.m. Tuesday.

Stolen property charge is filed

A 19-year-old Washington C.H. man has been arrested and charged with disposing of stolen property by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department.

Wayne D. Penwell, of 713 Sycamore St., is presently incarcerated in county jail in lieu of $2,500 bond. He is allegedly connected with selling a stolen amplifier and speakers belonging to Jerry Short, whose Staunton home was burglarized in late July.

Sheriff's Sgt. William Crooks who headed the investigation which led to Penwell's arrest, explained the stolen items were valued at $600, placing the charge in the fourth degree felony classification which carries with it a maximum penalty of five years in prison and $2,500 fine.

RECORD HERALD

Vol. 116 — No. 265 | 18 Pages | Washington Court House, Ohio | 15 Cents | Tuesday, October 22, 1974

Annual event begins at 9:30 a.m.

Halloween parade Saturday

Plans for the annual Halloween parade and celebration Saturday have been completed by the Washington C.H. Jaycees.

The parade will be held at 9:30 a.m. Saturday. The marching units will form at the Washington C.H. Middle School building at 9 a.m.

HANK SHAFFER, director of the popular Community Education program in Washington C.H., will serve as grand marshal for Saturday morning's parade.

The 23-year-old Shaffer, 24 Colonial Court, came to Washington C.H. last February from Danville, Ill., where he had held the position city recreation department supervisor. He is a 1973 graduate of the University of Illinois with a degree in recreation and park administration.

The Halloween parade is annually sponsored by the Washington C.H. Jaycees and Saturday's event is the first to be staged during the morning hours, since in the past the parade has always been held in the evening or during the afternoon.

The parade route is south on North Street to Court Street, then west through the downtown business district to Main Street where it will turn south on Main Street to Circle Avenue and disband at Gardner Park Stadium.

Headed by cruisers from the Washington C.H. Police and Fayette County Sheriff's departments, the parade will include the Washington Senior High School marching band and drill team, the Washington Junior High School band, 1974 WSHS

Assembly meet eyed over housing needs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio needs 340,000 more housing units now and there are some things it could be doing about it, a committee of Senate and House members has been told.

A result may be a legislative session Nov. 12.

Paul Lydens of Columbus, regional director of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Affairs, outlined Ohio's needs Monday to the committee which will apparently decide Oct. 30 whether the legislature should reconvene to act on a housing bill.

Al Ratner of Cleveland, president of Forest City Enterprises, Inc., a major housing construction firm, said the lawmakers should act this year on a bill passed by the House but left pending in Senate last summer when the General Assembly went into recess.

He said a state housing finance agency, provided for in the state legislation, would be able to issue housing revenue bonds at about 6½ per cent and then make loans at 8 or 9 per cent, thus avoiding interests rates of about 15 per cent currently being asked by banks and other financial institutions.

Massachusetts, one of 31 other states that have financing agencies, recently sold $167 million worth of housing bonds at 6½ per cent and loaned out the proceeds to builders at 8¾ per cent, he said.

Body of ex-WCH man recovered from lake

BELLVIEW, Fla., — Members of the Ocala, Fla., Fire Department and the Marion County search and rescue have recovered the body of a former Washington C.H. resident who reportedly drowned while fishing Sunday afternoon.

The body of Paul Detty, 47, Bellview, Fla., son of the Rev. and Mrs. C.H. Detty, of Washington C.H., was recovered from Lake Weir, south of Ocala, at 4:27 p.m. Monday. He was identified by his brother, Joseph Detty, who had traveled to Florida from his home in Nashville, Tenn., after his brother was reported to have drowned Sunday.

ACCORDING to the Marion County Sheriff's Department, Detty had been fishing with an acquaintance in a small boat. The companion reported that Detty stood in the boat, capsizing it. He said that his attempts to rescue Detty were fruitless. He said he managed to get to shore himself and notify the sheriff's department.

Although there were no outward signs of foul play found by physicians at the hospital where Detty was pronounced dead, the body is being held for an autopsy. The department said an autopsy is routine procedure in such cases and the matter is being held open pending the report.

Detty was born in Chillicothe but attended elementary and high school in Washington C.H. He entered the Navy and served during World War II.

He was aboard the U.S.S. Bronson with Admiral Richard E. Byrd for the first voyage to the South Pole in 1946. After receiving a medical discharge from the U.S. Navy, he resided in New Jersey and Pennsylvania before returning to Washington C.H. some five years ago.

WHILE LIVING here he became a member of the local Veterans of Foreign Wars post and the Washington C.H. Eagles Lodge. He moved to Florida a year ago.

He is survived by his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. C.H. Detty, 426 Sixth St., his ex-wife, Helen, two sons, Paul

Firemen on scene three hours

Blaze destroys unoccupied house

Smoke could been seen hanging in the air in the center of the city and the odor of burning wood, paper and paint was detectable throughout Washington C.H.

The house fire of unknown cause which broke out at 546 Harrison St., made itself known to surrounding neighbors and Washingtpn C. H. firemen at 2:16 a.m. Tuesday. Over three hours later, little more than a charred wooden structure remained standing on the property owned by Joe Crosswhite Jr. and Louise Terry. Firemen tried, many volunteers responded to the call for help, but the water couldn't save the wooden house.

Fortunately, the house was vacant and no one was injured in the blaze. A neighbor's home next-door, owned by Mrs. Herbert Crosswhite and occupied by Mrs. Monroe Crosswhite, caught fire when the flames started spreading, but firemen held them back and thus limited damage to $200.

Firemen are investigating the incident and seeking a probably cause for the blaze.

Washington C.H. firemen responded to an earlier fire at 2:10 p.m. Monday, at the Shelby Brandy residence at 105 E. Elm St. The babysitter in the home had called firemen when the clothes dryer began to smoke, but the fire was out upon their arrival. Firemen diagnosed the problem as "a slipping drive belt," and reported no damage.

The Bloomingburg Fire Department was dispatched to a burning car on I-71, near the Ohio 38 intersection, at 2:25 a.m. Tuesday, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported.

Driver of the auto, Thomas L. Edmiston, of Ebensburg, Pa., noticed sparks falling from under his dashboard and attempted to pull over onto the berm when his left tire locked.

When he finally got the auto stopped, it was ablaze, but he managed to save two suitcases in the car. Bloomingburg firemen extinguished the fire with water, but the car was a total loss. It was reported that the fire was caused by the tire rubbing and finally igniting.

EARLY MORNING BLAZE — Washington C.H. firemen were on the scene battling this fire st 546 Harrison Street for over three hours early Tuesday. The fire, which broke out around 2:16 a.m., completely totaled the vacant house. A neighbor's house also received minor damage from the flames licking at it, but there were no injuries. This photo was taken after firemen gained control of the blaze and were concentrating their efforts in extinguishing spot fires on the roof.

Ohio election campaign grows heated

By The Associated Press

Democratic Gov. John Gilligan said Monday night he has conducted an open administration while former Gov. James Rhodes acts as if what he does is "none of the people's business."

Rhodes, the Republican gubernatorial nominee, charged that the Gilligan administration has "dropped the ball" in industrial development, forcing businesses to move out of the state and costing Ohioans jobs.

Gilligan, speaking at a League of Women voters meeting in Cleveland, said Rhodes has attempted to hide his activities throughout his campaign.

He cited as examples the former governor's failure to disclose his financial dealings and "the full extent of his campaign contributions," and his refusal to debate Gilligan.

Gilligan said he has spent much of his time traveling round the state conducting town meetings, holding news conferences and discussing administration progams with the people in an effort to keep people informed.

Rhodes, appearing at a Republican rally in Alliance, criticized the Gilligan administration of "destroying" the industrial development program Rhodes built up in his administration.

"These people can tear down overnight things that took years to build up, because they don't seem to understand the needs of working people," Rhodes said.

The former governor said the present administration "has added burdensome new taxes and injected needless harrassment of Ohio business and industry, forcing many plants to move their operations to other states.

"When an industry moves out, the jobs it provides move with it, and the only alternative the present administration offers to idle workers is welfare," he said.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Senate race between Republican Ralph Perk and Democrat John Glenn grew more heated Monday, with Perk calling for Glenn to withdraw because of a "scandal" in his campaign.

Glenn's campaign manager, Stephen J. Kovacik Jr., responded by saying it was "terrifying to see how all dignity collapses and how very dangerous a man becomes when he has nothing to lose."

Perk claimed in a statement that a Cleveland newspaper story supported his charges that the Glenn campaign tried to cover up a bad check case involving Louis Quintero of Toledo, a former campaign worker.

According to the story, Alfredo Aquilar, a Toledo businessman who reportedly was bilked out of $13,000, said the Glenn staff asked him not to call the police because it would hurt Glenn and told Aquilar the Glenn organization would pay him back the money he lost.

"Because of this scandal and cover-up, which has now been exposed, I think they only honorable thing for Glenn to do is to withdraw from the race." Perk said.

Quintero was hired by the Glenn people to open offices in the Spanish-speaking sections of Youngstown,

Defense to attack Dean's testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House counsel John W. Dean III told the Watergate cover-up trial today that former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell had indicated he had approved the political intelligence plan that resulted in the Watergate break-in.

Dean testified this was when he met on March 28, 1973 with Mitchell and Jeb Stuart Magruder, deputy director of President Nixon's re-election committee.

Dean described the meeting near the close of more than four days of questioning by prosecutor James F. Neal.

Defense lawyers, beginning with John J. Wilson, attorney for former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, were ready to begin their cross-examination of Dean.

Following Wilson will be William G. Hundley, Mitchell's lawyer.

Dean testified that at the March 28 meeting he turned to Mitchell and said, "John, I've never asked you what happened ... All I've been able to do was piece together ... the plan was approved."

This was a reference to the political intelligence plan.

He said Mitchell replied:

"Well, John, that's pretty close. But we thought it would be two or three times removed."

"Two or three times removed from what?" Neal asked.

"From the (re-election) committee," Dean responded.

Dean said that two days later he decided to retain a criminal defense lawyer and that on April 8 he met in his lawyer's office in Rockville, Md., with the three assistant U.S. attorneys who had prosecuted the break-in case.

Asked if his discussion with them was interrupted, Dean replied: "Yes, by a telephone call from Air Force One (the presidential plane)."

He said the call was a request that he meet with Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman who were flying back from California.

Dean said that just before meeting with the prosecutors, he called Haldeman in California and told him what he planned to do.

"He (Haldeman) said John, I think you ought to think about that before you do it because once the toothpaste is out of the tube, it's awfully hard to get it back in," Dean said he was told.

Dean described meeting Haldeman and Ehrlichman at the White House late that day, a Sunday.

When the discussion turned to what he might say about money passed to the break-in defendants, Dean testified that "Mr. Ehrlichman said you could say that was a defense fund, that it was for humanitarian purposes."

Income tax issue facing opposition?

Washington C. H. City Council members Monday night hinted that a committee opposing the proposed 1.25 per cent income tax issue which will be appearing on the November general election.

City Council chairman John E. Rhoads prompted a brief discussion on the matter at the third in a series of special meetings held Monday night at Rose Avenue Elementary School when he mentioned that a letter is being circulated to various Washington C. H. businessmen seeking organized support for the opposition of the income tax issue.

Rhoads said the committee has not announced publicly that it is opposing City Council's proposal for a reduction of property taxes in exchange for the approval of a 1.25 per cent income tax issue.

THE CITY Council chairman, who shared the letter with other city legislators during the open meeting in one of the school's classrooms, said the letter was not signed.

In 1971, a committee in favor of the repeal of a one per cent city income tax issue filed an initiative petition request. The income tax was challenged and beaten by an initiative ordinance which called for its repeal.

Attendance at the special meetings has been quite disappointing and only two area residents attended Monday night's session.

The attendance count for three special meetings scheduled by City Council members especially for the purpose of discussing of the income tax issue now stands at seven persons. The last in the series of meetings will be held at 7:30 p.m. next Monday at Cherry Hill Elementary School.

The six City Council members present spent a considerable amount of time during the one-hour session Monday night arguing a variety of subjects with Phil Tatman, 437 Warren Ave., a frequent council critic.

Judge issues 'hold' on Nixon's papers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge has at least temporarily blocked the White House from carrying out an agreement go give former President Richard M. Nixon custody of his White House papers and tapes.

At the same time U.S. District Judge Charles R. Richey indicated he will tackle the centuries-old question of just who owns presidential papers—the President or the government.

Richey said that although he was ordering the White House to hold onto the tapes and documents of Nixon's presidency, the former president can have access to them "for the sole purpose of preparing to testify in the Watergate criminal trial."

If Nixon's health prohibits him from coming to Washington to study the tapes and documents, Richey said in Monday's order, copies may be made and sent to him in California.

Nixon's lawyers have asked that all of the materials be sent to a federal repository in California under Nixon's custody as called for in an agreement revealed by President Ford the same day he announced he was pardoning Nixon.

In the meantime Nixon's lawyers, in papers filed Thursday, had asked for a temporary restraining order banning the White House from releasing any more of the Nixon materials except for those already under subpoena or which might be subpoenaed for criminal prosecutions already under way.

This would have banned the White House from giving Nixon materials to any of the federal grand juries still investigating Watergate matters, and one of the special prosecutors suggested in court Monday that the Nixon motions might be a ploy in the offing to frustrate prosecutions.

HARRY S. WINTER — Services for Harry S. Winter, 69, of 1016 N. North St., were held at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home in Washington C.H. with the Rev. Harold Shank officiating. Mr. Winter died Thursday.

A chemistry teacher at Washington Senior High School for 17 years, Mr. Winters was a veteran of World War II. Having retired from teaching in 1970, he was a member of the National, Ohio and Fayette County retired teachers associations. He was born in West Virginia and moved to Fayette County in 1953.

Pallbearers for the burial in Highlawn Memory Gardens were Edwin Nestor, Denzil Leggett, Fred Cluff, Donald J. Moore, David Stone and Frank Darling.

JENNY L. NOBLE — Services for Jenny L. Noble, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Noble, Rt. 1, South Solon, were held at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the Morrow Funeral Home, Jeffersonville, with the Rev. Joseph Johnson officiating. Burial was made in Fairview Cemetery. The infant died Saturday.

Canned tuna has extra ingredients

MOUNT VERNON, N.Y. (AP) — Rat hairs and fly maggots are among the extra ingredients Consumers Union says it found when it took a close look at some canned tuna.

An article in the November issue of its magazine, Consumer Reports, said that after testing 104 samples of 52 brands, the problem "appeared industrywide."

Of the 16 distributors whose brands were tested, 13 had at least one contaminated sample, according to the nonprofit agency.

The magazine said one tuna sample contained part of a fly maggot. In two other cases, examiners found rat hairs threefifths of an inch long. It said that was too long to have come from ground spices.

"The FDA's usual excuse for its lax standards on filth in food is that the filth originated in nature and couldn't be readily removed," the article said. "Well rats don't live in or around tuna fish in the ocean. A likely explanation for their presence is direct contact between fish and rat."

Noting that tuna is an excellent and economical protein source, the magazine added:

"Although the filth we found is more likely to ruin your appetite than your health, we think the tuna industry badly needs a cleanup."

Consumer prices spurt in September

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rising prices for food, clothing and mortgage rates pushed the cost of living up another 1.2 per cent in September, making the last 12 months the worst inflationary surge in more than 25 years, the government reported today.

Prices in September were reported 12.1 per cent higher than a year earlier. This was the worst 12-month increase since 1947.

However, the purchasing power of the average worker increased slightly for the first time in three months. Real spendable earnings—that is weekly pay adjusted for inflation and taxes—rose one-tenth of a per cent in September but was still at the lowest level since December 1970.

Price increases were spread across almost the entire economy last month. Food led the way, posting its biggest rise since February.

The Ford administration has predicted that consumer prices will continue increasing at the rate of about one per cent a month through the end of the year, and that there would be no significant easing of inflation until some time next year.

Consumer prices have already risen 9.7 per cent so far this year. In 1973, prices rose 8.8 per cent, the worst in any year since the end of World War II.

The Labor Department said last month's 1.2 per cent increase, after a rise of 1.3 per cent in August, pushed the government's consumer price index up to 151.9. That meant it cost $151.90 to buy a variety of goods and services that cost $100 in the 1967 base period.

Although most of the news was bad, some prices declined in September, including such items as gasoline and fresh fruits and vegetables.

Over-all food prices went up an adjusted 1.9 per cent in September compared to a 1.4 per cent increase the previous month. The index for nonfood commodities increased 1 per cent following an August rise of 1.5 per cent while the cost of services rose 1.1 per cent, the same as in August.

With the exception of fresh fruits and vegetables, all major food categories went up last month, pushing grocery prices 1.5 per cent higher over the month to a level 10.9 per cent above a year ago.

Beef and pork prices were reported up instead of declining and poultry prices, which usually are unchanged in September, also rose. Dairy products increased for the first time in four months while prices of fats and oil products continued to climb sharply.

Higher clothing prices accounted for about a fourth of the 1.1 per cent rise in nonfood commodities. New car prices increased slightly instead of declining substantially as they usually do at the end of the model year.

Charges for most household services increased with gas, electricity and telephone rates rising. There was a rise in mortgage interest costs, reflecting earlier increases in interest rates on conventionally financed loans as well as the previously announced rate increase for VA-guaranteed loans, which accounted for more than a fourth of the increase in the cost of services last month.

State and local employees get break in political law

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal restrictions on political activity by state and local government employes have been eased by a little-noted provision of the new campaign financing law.

But because of the multiplicity of state and local restrictions that remain in effect, this year's elections may well be over before all of the 5 million or more persons potentially affected know where they stand.

The Hatch Act, which forbids virtually all political activity by civil service employes of the federal government, also applied to those employes of states and their political subdivisions who received any part of their compensation from federal funds. Since federal funds flow into state and local governments through various grant-in-aid programs and the more recent general revenue sharing plan, millions of employes were covered.

The law Congress passed this year and signed Oct. 15 by President Ford repeals significant portions of the federal prohibitions on the state and local employes. The rules on federal employes, however, are not changed.

Also retained, for everyone affected, are rules intended to protect employes against political pressures. These forbid one's official authority in support of a political candidate. Covered employes, moreover, still may not themselves be candidates for public office.

Otherwise, state and local employes formerly under full Hatch Act provisions are now free — so far as federal law is concerned — to participate in political campaigns. But the Senate-House conferees who wrote the final version of the new law specified in their report that it was not intended to invalidate or supersede any state legislation.

Mike Kerr, an official of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, AFL-CIO, which supported the change, said every state maintains some degree of restriction on the political activities of its employes, either by statutory provision or by rulemaking authority delegated to personnel boards or similar authorities. In addition, many cities and other governmental units have their own rules.

"It is very complicated," Kerr said in an interview. "... people will have to find out what their state, county and municipal procedures are."

Cleveland and Toledo. Last week warrants were issued in those cities for his arrest on charges he wrote bad checks totaling $65,000, allegedly for repayment of loans he obtained in Glenn's name.

Glenn has said his staff advised people who thought they had been swindled to report it to the police. He also said Quintero got no money from the Glenn campaign and contributed no money to it.

It was reported Monday that the political action committees of the Retail Clerks International Association and United Auto Workers contributed $10,000 each to the campaign of Glenn.

The contributions were detailed in a campaign expense report to the Ohio secretary of state and secretary of the U.S. Senate in Washington released by the Citizens for John Glenn.

Total campaign contributions since the general election campaign began were $991,853.83 and expenditures $984,630.90, leaving a cash balance as of a week ago of $7,222.93, the campaign said.

Money raised during the Sept. 1-Oct. 15 reporting period amounted to $185,682.98 while expenditures were $192,866.57.

Ohio Assembly

"Ohio is one of a very few states that hasn't moved to help the housing construction industry since this crisis came up," said Ratner, whose firm is now idle in Ohio but building housing units in a half dozen other states.

Ratner is a member of a 23-member industry, lending institution, and labor committee named last month by Gov. John J. Gilligan to make recommendations aimed at helping the floundering industry. Some pockets of the state have unemployment in the industry of 20 to 30 per cent while its average statewide is about 14 per cent, the governor said.

Gilligan's ad hoc committee was expected to finalize its recommendations at a meeting Tuesday afternoon, Ratner said. Rep. Edward Feighan, D-8 Cleveland, sponsor of the pending legislation, said he plans to attend that session as a legislative representative.

Rep. Frederick N. Young, R-38 Dayton, said the special legislative committee probably will make a decision at its meeting a week from Wednesday on whether to recommend a full session. He indicated the recommendation will be favorable, and noted that a skeleton session planned for Nov. 12 could be expanded into a full session.

"Any one who feels there is a reason why there shouldn't be a session should come forward next week," Young said.

Judge issues

A counter action by a group of scholars and journalists had asked Richey for a temporary restraining order directing the government to keep the materials in its custody and in Washington until the broader questions are decided by the courts.

Richey's order, which followed four hours of oral arguments by five sets of lawyers Monday morning, did a little of what both sides asked but, as he predicted earlier, not enough to make either exactly happy.

Richey enjoined the White House "from disclosing, transferring, disposing or otherwise making known to any person, be he-she private citizen or public official, the materials, including documents, tapes and other papers, known as the 'presidential materials of the Nixon administration'."

The court also specifically declared that the government is "hereby enjoined from effectuating the terms and conditions of the 'agreement'" between Nixon and Ford over disposition of the Nixon papers and tapes.

Richey further declared that his order would not ban the delivery of Nixon materials for use in any civil or criminal court case or in answer to grand jury subpoena.

Fire Department and scores of youngsters disguised as ghosts, gobblins, witches, fairies, hoboes and what have you.

The line of march will include the grand marshal riding in an antique car owned by Phil Tatman, 437 Warren Ave., and a color guard provided the Paul H. Hughey Post 25, American Legion.

MANY PARENTS will be walking along the fringes of the parade route to keep an eye on the little tots, and the Jaycee and clowns will keep the line in order and moving. The Jaycee clowns also will be distributing candy, donated by the G.C. Murphy Co., along the parade route.

At Gardner Park Stadium, the masquerade costumes will be judged in five categories: (1) prettiest, (2) ugliest, (3) funniest, (4) most original, and (5) best group of two or more. Cash prizes will be awarded for first, second and third places in each category, according to Dave Loudner, Jaycee parade chairman.

The parade and celebration, which have been sponsored for many years by the Jaycees, will come four days before Beggar's Night when the children will go from door to door collecting candy and other treats. Beggars Night will be observed in Washington C.H. from 6 until 8 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 30.

Ford, Brezhnev may hold meet

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — President Ford and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev may have a get-acquainted meeting, possibly in the Siberian city of Vladivostok, a senior American official says.

Plans for such a get-together are under consideration and will be decided upon within 10 days, the official said. Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger stopped here briefly on Monday.

Firm to quit sales in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Consumer Companies of America, Inc. has agreed not to operate or engage in a sales program for 30 days until a court hearing, the state attorney general announced today.

The agreement is part of an order signed by a Franklin County Common Court Pleas judge Monday.

The state brought a lawsuit against the firm under Ohio's new anti-pyramid sales law.

Russians seeking to block use of weather in warfare

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet government warns that mankind could be subjected to such environmental horrors as artificial tidal waves and ultraviolet bombardment through holes in the ozone layer unless "weather war" is headed off.

Soviet Ambassador Jacob A. Malik introduced a resolution in the United Nations General Assembly's main political committee Monday to send a Soviet-proposed convention against such warfare to the Geneva Disarmament Committee to be put into final form.

Malik said scientists had concluded that weather warriors could:

—Create "windows" in the ozone layer of the upper atmosphere letting deadly ultraviolet rays through to "selected parts of our planet."

—Set off a nuclear explosion inside the arctic or antarctic ice cap, producing an iceslide that would "cause tidal waves capable of wiping ... whole areas from the face of the globe."

—Stimulation of tidal waves by "dumping voluminous blocks of bedrock from the continental shelf into deeper parts of the ocean."

—Creation of "acoustic fields on the sea and ocean surface to combat individual ships or whole flotillas."

The proposed convention would forbid use of "meteorological, geophysical or any other scientific or technological means of influencing the environment, including the weather and climate, for military ... purposes."

It would specifically ban military rainmaking. Malik said the U.S. Defense Department estimated that American cloud seeding over Indochina boosted rainfall 30 per cent above normal in some places, causing floods, landslides and destruction of roads, dikes and bridges.

The United States did not join in the sponsorship, but the U.S. representative at the committee session, Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., called Malik's speech "a superb statement."

Ruth next Watergate prosecutor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Deputy Watergate prosecutor Henry Ruth has been chosen to succeed special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski, a Justice Department source says.

Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe and White House officials have chosen Ruth, and Saxbe plans to announce the appointment later this week after discussing it with President Ford, the source said Monday.

Asked if Ruth has agreed to take the job, the source said, "I assume so. It's going to be announced."

Saxbe told reporters Monday that he plans to discuss the appointment with Ford soon after the President returns to Washington Wednesday.

Ruth "was really the only candidate" to replace Jaworski as head of the Watergate prosecution force, the source said.

Jaworski, who is resigning effective Friday to return to private law practice, recommended Ruth to succeed him. Ruth has been the deputy prosecutor since the prosecution force was established as an independent unit within the Justice Department.

The prosecutor is appointed by the attorney general and the selection does not require Senate confirmation.

Jaworski, meanwhile, insists he will not lay out all the evidence his office gathered against former President Richard M. Nixon unless Congress specifically broadens his mandate to call for such a report.

Seek heating curb as gas supply cut

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — City Manager Edward Smith has asked residents to set thermostats back to 68 degrees in their homes because the gas supply to the municipally-owned power company has been cut.

Smith said the gas supply from the Texas Gas Transmission Co. will be cut by 575 million cubic feet between Nov. 1 and April 1.

Smith said there would be adequate supplies for homes "as long as citizens exercise reasonable care."

Stock list turns mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices turned mixed today as bad news about another rise in the consumer price index moderated investors enthusiasm over the recent decline in interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 5 points in early trading, was off 3.52 at 666.30 at noon, as DuPont, one of its important stocks, headed down 2⅜ to 103⅛. Monday DuPont reported lower earnings for its third quarter but rose sharply on short covering, brokers said.

On Tuesday, some banks continued to lower their prime rates into the 11½ to 11¼ per cent range, but the Labor Department reported consumers' cost of living rose at a high 14.4 per cent seasonally adjusted annual rate in September, principally on a food cost increase.

Trading continued active today as transactions ran ahead of the tape several times during the morning. Advances continued to lead declines on the New York Stock Exchange.

On the American Stock Exchange the market value index gained .56 to 69.93 at noon.

Increasing southwesterly winds were forecast to bring more seasonable temperatures to Ohio today and tonight.

A large high that passed over the state Monday was centered over the East Coast early today and continued to move eastward.

The southerly winds precede a low pressure trough over the upper Great Lakes early today and forecast to move into Ohio Wednesday.

Skies were forecast to remain clear, except over northern counties, where skies will turn partly cloudy with arrival of the low.

Lows tonight were forecast in the low to mid 40s in contrast to readings in the 20s and 30s early today. Highs Wednesday will be in the 60s.

Variable cloudiness Thursday through Saturday with a chance of showers Friday. Highs in the 60s. Lows from the mid 30s to low 40s early Thursday and in the 40s early Friday and Saturday.

See heavy vote turnout

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some 3.65 million persons will go to the polls in the general election Nov. 5, the secretary of state predicted today.

The figure represents about 73 per cent of the 4.975 million persons estimated to be eligible to vote. It would be a record turnout for a gubernatorial election.

The projected vote would be 374,000 more votes than were cast in the last gubernatorial election in 1970.

Two new factors affected Secretary of State Ted W. Brown's estimate: the lowering of the voting age to 18 since the last gubernatorial election and increased registration requirement as a precondition to vote.

The number of persons registered to vote has increased from 3.87 million in 1970 to 4.46 million in 1974, he said. An additional 515,000 persons live in nonregistration areas and are eligible to vote, he said.

Opinion And Comment

Fear of depression

There are times when even the most ardent champion of democracy may find himself hoping the people are not right about something. That thought comes to mind in the wake of a Gallup Poll showing that 51 per cent of those questioned believe "the U.S. economy is heading toward a depression such as the nation experienced in the 1930s. Forty-one per cent thought not; 8 per cent expressed no opinion.

Some may be heartened by the fact that the greatest pessimism was found among those presumably least knowledgeable. For example, whereas 58 per cent of manual workers saw a depression coming, this was true of only 44 per cent of business and professional people.

The rat in this woodpile is another fact - that pessimism about the economy has risen more rapidly among professionals and businessmen than among other segments of the population.

One other point about the poll results is of particular interest. The degree of pessimism is least among those 50 and over, who experienced the Great Depression, and greatest among those in the 18-29 bracket. This may say something about the relative weight of remembered pain and fear of the unkown in breeding apprehension. Or it may be just that young people, disenchanted with government and lacking confidence in the establishment, consequently see less reason for optimism than their elders do.

In any case, it is plain that Americans are worried about the future course of the economy. There is good reason for this, and word that gross national product declined for the third quarter in a row does nothing to cheer anyone up.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . . By John P. Roche

Soviets arm their client states

I failed in my efforts to get Oct. 6 designated "National Detente Day" (it was the anniversary of the Soviet-sponsored Yom Kippur assault on Israel), but even without official stimulation the American people should take time out to assess the current meaning of detente. Apparently we can not count on much help from our leaders. After the Yom Kippur War, last year, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger made a remark that under the circumstances Moscow had behaved with great "moderation." Since all that Moscow had done was load the Arab states up with fancy hardware (more tanks than were used by the Nazis to invade Russia in 1941 and highly sophisticated air defense and anti-tank missiles), then urge them to take advantage of detente (which would paralyze the United States response), and finally threaten direct intervention, one may wonder how Secretary Kissinger would define lack of Soviet restraint. A preemptive nuclear strike on Washington?

Those interested in the abstract dimensions of this question should get a copy of Kissinger's recent statement to Senator Fulbright's seminar on detente. At the same time you might ask the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for a copy of AFL-CIO President George Meany's Oct. 1 contribution to the same exercise. The contrast is stunning: Kissinger flying about 25,000 feet above sea level; Meany at ground zero. (I have a secret vision of Kissinger trapped in a gin rummy game with Meany — the Secretary would end up centerfolding "Cosmopolitan.")

But my concern today is not with the overall picture; it is with the components. If detente was to have any substance, the first item on the agenda had to be a Soviet willingness to call off their dogs, both in Vietnam and in the Middle East. I have never believed that Hanoi was on a string, that Brezhnev could dictate North Vietnamese policy. However, the Soviets are clearly in a position to limit in a very practical way Hanoi's war-making capacity — they can turn off the arms flow. They can deny the North the logistical essentials for invading the South.

What have they been doing? The other day a small article in the papers reported the surrender of a South Vietnamese district capital in the Central Highlands, Chuong Nghia. The "Times" story, in passing, noted that "In accord with a new strategy of frugality, Government forces appeared not to have thrown much firepower into the defense." This new "frugality" is, of course, an outcome of cutbacks in American military and economic aid to Saigon.

As you may have gathered, I am something of a "data freak": I try to read everything I can lay my hands on and, among other things, listen every night to the British Broadcasting Corporation's "World News Roundup." The day Chuong Nghia fell there was a report on the subject from the BBC's man in Saigon, who noted that the town and its defenders had been hit by 9,000 artillery and rocket rounds in 12 hours before they abandoned their positions. The Soviets have certainly not imposed any frugality on their clients.

Meanwhile in Syria (where a very tense situation tends to be overlooked because of the focus on Cyprus) there are an estimated 3,000 Soviet advisors, and the Syrian army has been reloaded with military equipment so advanced that even the Warsaw Pact powers do not yet have it. T-62 tanks are in abundance, as are MIG 23s (which can fly rings around any current operational American warplane except the F-14) and every conceivable model of anti-aircraft weapons-system from the hand-carried Strella to the most recent SAMs.

From the Israeli viewpoint, the most serious development is the increased number of surface-to-surface (SAS) missiles, which can easily hit Israeli population centers. (During the Yom Kippur War a SCUD SAS missile was fired at Tel Aviv — by a miracle an Israeli Phantom managed to intercept and destroy it in midair.) There is no reason to believe the SAS systems have been equipped with nuclear capability, but it would take roughly an hour to handle the conversion.

The question forces itself upon us: What is all this formidable junk for? Syrian army maneuvers? An invasion of Turkey? Or did the Soviets just have a production overrun which forces them to dispose of the excess? It does not seem to be evidence of detente.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 23

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Do not be upset by criticism. If constructive, it could actually show you new ways to capitalize on your inventiveness and skills.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

As with Aries, you, too, can profit by both opposition and obstacles. Some new ideas could brighten your day, a new method perk up tedious but essential routine.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

You may get a lot of off-beat ideas on Wednesday. Put them right out of your head. In all situations, it will be important to stress good judgment, levelheadedness, self-control.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

You will do well to follow your own schedule and not become involved in affairs which do not essentially concern you. This is no time to go off on tangents.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Some planetary restrictions. Be cautious in making investments and DO control emotions. Some situations will call for unusual tact.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

If you do not understand a situation, seek counsel from more experienced heads. Do not rely on guesswork. It could only lead to confusion.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Your lively imagination may be running out of bounds right now. So, in trying to launch your ideas, be sure to separate the fantastic from the feasible.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

As with Libra, you also will have to dampen enthusiasm a bit. Excessive optimism could lead you to impractical extremes.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Reject the foolish notions of others. That logical mind of your will come up with answers that are reasonable and solid.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Don't get wrought up over the spending habits of a partner — marital or business. With a little thought, compromise is possible.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

This will be one of those days when you'll have to "go it alone." Cooperation is likely to be spotty or nonexistent. But you can cope.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

You are still in a mood to explore areas off the beaten path, but be careful not to wade in beyond your depth. Trends are changing.

YOU BORN TODAY, a Libra-Scorpio cuspal (one born at the change of Signs), are endowed with the combined traits of both, with the more dominant characeristics of each outstanding. This fact makes you a powerful candidate for success in life and a personality with whom to reckon. You are extremely versatile and have been blessed with a fine gift for languages. You would make an excellent interpreter or translator; could also shine in any occupation which requires travel in foreign countries. A born go-getter, your nature thrives under pressure and, in a busy day and age, you are alive with enthusiasm, curiosity about "what's coming next." Here, however, you must be careful not to override others as you drive onward, and DO be tolerant of those less gifted than yourself. Fields in which you could excel: the law, the theater, medicine, science, literature and politics.

Ohio Perspective

Stringer job controversial

By DAVID LORE
Columbus Dispatch

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Anthony R. Stringer is cramming on environmental law these days, keeping his cool in the face of a drive by state environmental groups to oust him from the Ohio Environmental Board of Review.

"I don't feel at all upset about the environmentalists being upset," he said in an interview. "They just don't know me."

The 39-year-old Cleveland attorney said that anybody who studied his record as a Cleveland councilman and as administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Workmen's Compensation would have to conclude he has always been "people-oriented rather than industry-oriented."

"I would expect my position here would be to hold the utilities to a pretty strict standard," he said.

The board of three members was established under the state's 1972 environmental act to handle appeals from rulings of the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency.

Gov. John J. Gilligan appointed Stringer to succeed Earl Murphy, an Ohio State University law professor.

Environmentalists have challenged the appointment on several points, including his lack of specific environmental background. String raised more suspicions when he recently mentioned his long friendship with C. Lee Howley, lobbyist for the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co.

"As an active politician in Cleveland I made a lot of friends, sure, but that doesn't mean they own me," Stringer said.

Stringer said he hadn't seen Howley in 18 months and is "absolutely positive" that the CEI vice president played no role in his appointment.

As for his background, Stringer said: "I wouldn't pretend to be an Earl Murphy or a professor of environmental law, but on the other hand it's not fair to dismiss as nothing my experiences on council."

Stringer said the governor wanted expertise in administrative law, a background he believes he has from his job as workmen's compensation chief.

Thus far, the protests over Stringer's appointment appear to have had little impact on the governor. Gilligan has declined to answer the protests himself.

His chief of state, John Hansan, wrote two other EBR members, Richard S. McCutchen and Stanley Weissman, who joined the protests, that "the governor respects your point of view, but we have no plans to make a change at this time."

Dr. Ira Whitman, director of the EPA, has written a few groups justifying Stringer's appointment on the basis of his background in administrative law.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

How to respond to news of divorce

DEAR ABBY: What do you say to a dear friend when she tells you that her married daughter is coming home "for good?" I was speechless because there had never been a clue that all was not going well.

The daughter was the apple of her parents' eye, and only five years ago she made such a promising marriage. She has a darling two-year-old child.

I was lost for words, Abby. I automatically said "I'm so sorry." But if the marriage had to fail, I suppose it's better that it ended while they were both young enough to start over again. But what does a friend say in such a situation?

NO WORDS

DEAR NO: The less said the better. It's a kindness to ask no questions. And the most generous thing you can do for your friend (and her daughter) is to keep the young divorcee in mind should an eligible bachelor appear on the scene. Also include the daughter whenever possible, to keep her socially active.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow in my late 50s and I'm in love with a man who is younger. We work in the same office. He is married and has a family and he thinks he's an alcoholic.

He has come to my house after work on a Friday, gets drunk and stays drunk the whole weekend. Then he goes to work, goes home and stays sober for two or three months. He also attends Alcoholics Anonymous meetings.

I don't think he is a true alcoholic. I think he just likes to drink. I always have liquor available for him at my house which his wife does not. (She goes to those dumb meetings for wives of drunks.)

This has been going on for three years. How much longer must I wait before he leaves his wife and comes to live with me on a permanent basis? I love him and I believe he loves me. He says he loves his wife, but I think he feels pity and maybe some loyalty and obligation to her because she stuck with him for over 20 years.

Answer soon. I trust your judgment on most matters.

WEEKEND WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I think that he will never leave his wife for you. For one thing, he probably loves her deeply. She's proven that she loves him enough to stick with him. (Those "dumb" meetings she attends are Al-anon, whose function it is to teach spouses of alcoholics how to cope with the many problems alcoholism creates.)

You, on the other hand, are a convenience and a bad habit. Do the man and yourself a favor, and quit providing him with a handy haven for his weekend binges.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me if you think I misrepresented myself. I was divorced many years ago. I never remarried. My husband remarried, but his wife died.

Well, a few weeks ago, My ex-husband died, and I referred to myself as a "widow." I was severely criticized for this.

I feel that since we are now separated by the grave and not the divorce court, I am a widow. I was told in no uncertain terms I am a DIVORCEE and not a widow.

I'll leave it to you.

RECENTLY WIDOWED

DEAR WIDOWED: Sorry, but regardless of how you "feel," you are not a widow. Technically, a widow is a woman who has lost her husband by death. A man can have any number of ex-wifes-but only one widow. If he dies unmarried, he leaves no widow.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, Oct. 22, the 295th day of 1974. There are 70 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1962, President John Kennedy ordered U.S. air and naval forces to quarantine Cuba after concluding that Soviet missile bases were being built on the island.

On this date —

In 1721, Peter the Great took the title of Czar of all Russia.

In 1859, Spain declared war against Moors in Morocco.

In 1883, the former Metropolitan Opera House in New York celebrated its grand opening with a performance of Gounod's "Faust."

In 1907, a run on a New York bank set off a financial crisis known as the panic of 1907.

In 1942, during World War II, the British air force pounded the Italian port of Genoa.

In 1953, France granted independence to the Indochina kingdom of Laos.

Ten years ago: Funeral services were held in New York for the 31st American president, Herbert Hoover.

Five years ago: Lebanon's Premier Rashid Karami resigned amid mounting pressure against his government's attempt to suppress a guerrilla movement.

One year ago: The world-renowned cellist, Pablo Casals, died at the age of 96 in Puerto Rico.

Today's birthdays: Former Vietnam Emperor Bao Dai is 61 years old. Composer Benjamin Britten also is 61.

Thought for today: Marriage is an adventure, like going to war — Gilbert Chesterton, English writer, 1874-1936.

Elementary programs top board's agenda

Elementary school programs headed the agenda for the regular meeting of the Washington C.H. Board of Education Monday night. A variety of programs were discussed and approved by the board.

Elementary students, including sixth graders at the Washington C.H. Middle School, will be dismissed from classes at 2:30 p.m. Oct. 29 so that elementary teachers may attend workshops on the social studies curriculum. Special educators from Springfield city schools will attend the workshops to lead the discussions.

ALL STUDENTS will be dismissed at noon Thursday so that teachers may hold conferences with the parents of their students. Two such conference days are scheduled for the academic year, another will be held during the second semester. Parents are urged to visit their children's schools and discuss the student's progress with his teachers.

The board voted to participate in a Pickaway County film bank. At a cost of 25 cents per student (some $500 to $600 total), the system becomes an associate of the resource program and may borrow an unlimited number of films from the film library.

Approval was given for a proposal that two kindergarten classes be held at the Buckeye Mart store Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. The teachers will conduct their regular classes and the children will have the additional benefit of some instruction on the merchandising process. Area residents who visit the store will be able to view what goes on in the kindergarten classroom. The board noted that kindergarten classes will probably be best suited for the program since they are seldom distracted by visitors.

NO CLASSES are scheduled in the Washington C.H. or Miami Trace school districts Friday because it is a meeting day for the Central Ohio Teachers Association. However, the board approved use of a school bus for any teachers who wish to use part of the day to visit the Laurel Oaks Career Development Campus at Wilmington.

The vocational school will hold classes that day, and a number of teachers have expressed a desire to visit the school and become more familiar with the vocational program.

The Washington Athletic Facility Corporation has reported it repaired the restrooms at the Gardner Park Stadium this summer. The repairs included replacement of a number of toilets, repair of a leaking roof, painting and other work, amounting to some $1,750

WAFCO hopes to pay the greatest part of the bill for these repairs with money it will raise at the WAFCO-Washington C.H. Boosters club annual fish fry to be held prior to the Washington C.H.-Miami Trace football game Nov. 1 at Gardner Park Stadium, The board has been asked to consider paying the balance of the repair bill. Action on the request was tabled until a report of the proceeds from the fish fry has been submitted. A number of the board members will work during the fish dinner.

It was noted at the meeting that the Community Education football project (the Offsider's benefit game) netted over $3,000 for the community education program here.

The board also noted that the open house for the Fayette Progressive School will be held Tuesday night, Oct. 22, at Sunnyside, the former Elementary School. The open house begins at 7 p.m. and the board urged area residents to become familiar with the workings of the Fayette Progressive School.

The board approved reimbursement to some 39 teachers who had taken continuing education courses during the past several months. The board reimburses teachers for college courses at a rate of $30 per semester hour for up to six hours per year. Total cost to the board for the courses was $4,300.

Board members accepted with regret the resignation of Leo Welch, Washington Senior High School custodian. He had served the school system for more than 20 years.

IN OTHER action the board:

—Approved the employment of Terry Feick as driver's education teacher;

—Approved reimbursement for a number of faculty members who attended professional meetings;

— Agreed to rent the Washington C.H. Middle School auditorium to the Homer Lawson American Legion Post No. 653 for a gospel sing March 21, 1975;

—Allowed use of the school cafeteria for the Washington C.H. Pony League banquet Nov. 2;

—Approved salary increases for two faculty members and one clerical assistant;

—Noted that the "In the Know" team will face Columbus Marion Franklin Thursday night and approved use of a school bus for those who wish to attend; and —Agreed to sponsor the on-the-job emergency first aid class organized by Mac Tools, Inc.

Racial clash fatal to 41 in Mozambique

associated Press Writer

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (AP) — Forty-one persons were reported killed Monday evening in racial battles in Lourenco Marques touched off by an attack by demobilized Portugeuse troops on black soldiers of the new government.

About 40 of the Portuguese exservicemen, who were scheduled to return to Lisbon Monday night, attacked four black troops of the Mozambique Liberation Front — Frelimo — outside a crowded sidewalk cafe.

The Portuguese seized the Frelimo soldiers' guns and drove off in an open truck, shouting: "Let's go get our guns and give these men a lesson."

They returned about 30 minutes later with machine guns and hand grenades and opened fire on Frelimo troops guarding the office of the newspaper Noticias.

As rush hour crowds ran in panic, the Frelimo men returned the fire and killed at least four of the Portuguese.

The gunfire and grenade blasts continued for almost half an hour. Then Portuguese troops arrived in armored cars, but the Portuguese attackers had scattered.

Africans in the city, Mozambique's capital, retaliated with attacks on buses, cars and pedestrians. Hospital authorities reported 41 deaths.

Portuguese authorities said the Portuguese army and the Frelimo troops were in full control of the city today, but government broadcasts appealed to the public to remain at home.

The first known Olympiad was held in 776 B. C.

Kiwanians scrap plans for travelogue series

Plans for a travelogue series have been scrapped by the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club.

A report on the voting of the membership on the proposed travelogue series disclosed that it would not be attempted as a project this year. The report was reviewed at the regular meeting of the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club board of directors Monday night in the Lafayette Inn.

A variety of reports were also discussed at the meeting, conducted by club president Guy M. Foster.

Club secretary Roger Kirkpatrick read a report which will be forwarded to Kiwanis International which outlines all the service activities of the month. Kirkpatrick also stressed the importance of committee chairmen properly completing their monthly reports.

Past club president George Gibbs spoke briefly on the structure of Kiwanis International and the functions of district, division and local clubs.

Foster emphasized the need to increase the club's membership and mentioned a number of methods to strive toward that goal in the 1975 year.

President-elect Duane French announced the president's party which will be held Oct. 28 in the Miami Trace High School cafeteria. All members are urged to attend. Kiwanis dignitaries attending will include the Ohio district governor, the 10-W division lieutenant governor and all 10-W district presidents.

Board minutes were read and accepted and bills totaling $621.51 were approved for payment.

In closing, Dick Maddux presented two pins for perfect attendance, one to George Gibbs for 10 years and one to Steve Jennings for one year.

Amnesty program to be discussed

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — President Gerald Ford's amnesty program for draft dodgers and military deserters was to be discussed today at a luncheon of the Cincinnati Association of the United States Army.

U.S. Marine Lt. Dale Baird, an information officer at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, was the scheduled speaker.

Historical society meet is scheduled for Nov. 19

Due to other meetings scheduled for Nov. 11, the date originally set for the membership meeting of the Fayette County Historical Society, the session has been postponed until 8 p.m. Monday, Nov. 18 in Persinger Hall of the First Presbyterian Church.

B.E. Kelley, curator of the Fayette County Museum, said letters announcing the meeting will be mailed to the membership within the next few days.

Officers will be elected at the meeting in addition to reports by various officers and an interesting program.

THE MEMBERSHIP is open to the public and those desiring to become members will be welcomed at the meeting, Kelley said. Each member attending is asked to bring a prospective new member if possible.

During the year, the society has lost two members of the board of directors by death — Chester Zimmerman, who was a charter member trustee, and Edgar Coil, a member of the board for a number of years.

Death also claimed several other members of the historical society.

At present and for several weeks previous, extensive work of improving the museum and grounds has been under way, giving the museum "a new look" due to the liberal support of the Fayette County Board of Commissioners.

Numerous ancient farm articles have been donated to the society and stored with many others awaiting a building to house a Fayette County farm museum, Kelley said.

Cramers will observe 25th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Max Eugene (Cotton) Cramer of 7931 Sabina Rd., Sabina, will celebrate their silver (25th) wedding anniversary from 2 to 5 p.m. Oct. 27 at their residence.

The observance will be given by their children, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Cramer of Sabina, Mr. and Mrs. Garry Cramer of Jamestown, Mr. and Mrs. Michael (Debbie) Tidd of Jamestown, and Miss Janet and Miss Sarah Louise Cramer at home. They also have one grandson, Brandon J. Cramer.

Mrs. Cramer is the former Albertine Rittenhouse of Sabina. The couple was married at Newport, Ky., Oct. 23, 1949. They have lived at the present location most of their married life.

Mrs. Yates is hostess

Mrs. James Yates was hostess to the Sunny Side Willing Workers when 13 members assembled in her home. She read Psalm 24 and Mrs. Edgar Richardson conducted the meeting when reports were heard and approved.

Several ladies worked on blocks for a comforter top, and the remainder of the time was spent visiting. During the social hour a salad course was served by Mrs. Ralph Hays and Mrs. Yates to Mrs. Bessie Baughn, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Mary McCoy, Mrs. Jane Wieland, Mrs. Anna Howard, Mrs. Homer Carr, Mrs. Gladys Ramey, Mrs. Cecil Smith, Mrs. Viva Johnson, Mrs. Clare Whitmer and Mrs. Edith Scott.

Group tours Otterbein Home

Otterbein Home in Lebanon was the setting for a tour enjoyed Sunday by several members of the Bloomingburg and Madison Mills church communities. Those attending motored by car to this retirement community of the United Methodist Church in the West Ohio Conference. Guides escorted the group over the area.

Following the tour, a carry-in dinner was enjoyed in the cafeteria. A sing-along and brief program held in the chapel of the Home was enjoyed before the group returned home.

Those making the tour were the Rev. and Mrs. Harold J. Messmer and daughter, Judy, Mrs. Laura Wilson, Mrs. Lawrence Garinger, Mr. William Purcell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Huff, Miss Florence Purcell and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ashbaugh of the Bloomingburg United Methodist Church.

Representing the Madison Mills Methodist Church were Mrs. Jess Schlichter, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Grim, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Benner, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hidy and daughter Wendy, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Grim and Jim and Jane, Mrs. Glenn Hidy and Mr. and Mrs. John Stamer and Debbie and Barbara.

Westgate Friends Church is setting for wedding

Miss Kay VanPelt of Columbus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene VanPelt of Sabina, became the bride of Mr. Gilbert Gibbons Jr. of Brecksville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert G. Gibbons of Brecksville.

The Rev. Robert P. Miller Sr., of Circleville, formerly of Sabina, performed the double ring ceremony Sept. 28 in the Westgate Friends Church in Columbus.

Vases of blue and yellow carnations and palms decorated the church.

Duets were sung and guitar solos played to the accompaniment of the guitar during the ceremony, favorite Scripture selections of the couple were read which included Ephesians 5:22-23, and I Corinthians 13. "We Are One," a poem written by the bridegroom, was also read.

Miss VanPelt wore a formal length pale blue voile gown, with lace trimmed bodice and ecru lace on the sleeves. She also wore an ecru picture hat with blue streamers. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and yellow roses with blue streamers tied in love knots.

Miss Martha VanPelt of West Chester, the bride's aunt, was maid of honor. She wore a formal length yellow floral gown with blue accents, and carried an arrangement of blue and white carnations. Mr. Gibbons served as best man for his father, and Marc Rinehart of Columbus, seated the wedding guests.

The bride's mother chose a long emerald green crepe gown with which she combined beige accessories. She wore a corsage of yellow roses and carnations. The groom's mother wore a long brown and white gown and a corsage of yellow roses and carnation.

Mrs. Edward Sanderson, the bride's sister, and the bride's nephew, Mark Sanderson, both of Circleville, provided piano music at the reception held in Fellowship Hall of the church.

The Misses Audrey and Kris Smith, nieces of the bride, Mrs. Robert W. Smith, of Washington C.H. the bride's sister, Mrs. Rick Repita and Mrs. Jack Pyle, both of Columbus, and Mrs. Benjamin Buckley of Sabina, were hostesses at the reception, when a buffet luncheon was served.

The new Mrs. Gibbons, a graduate of Sabina High School and Columbus Business University, is employed at Nationwide Insurance Company in Columbus. Her husband, a Brecksville High School graduate, attended Kent State University, and is employed at Automotive Sound Distributors, Columbus.

Following the wedding trip to Cape Cod, the couple is now residing at 1965 Belcher Dr., Columbus.

'Fabulous Fifties' party is held by Alpha Theta

Mrs. Don Gibbs was hostess to the Alpha Theta chapter Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, at a 'rush party.' Following this, the members and guests enjoyed a 'Fabulous Fifties' get-together.

Members came to the party wearing old cheer leader sweaters, high school graduation dresses, long skirts and bobbysocks, and old formals.

Mrs. Ron Ratliff conducted games pertaining to the 1950's, and all viewed their high school annuals.

Those present were Mrs. Jack Merriman, Mrs. John Morris, Mrs. Mike Vrettos, Mrs. John Bernard, Mrs. John Gall, Mrs. Ron Ratliff, Mrs. Clyde Cramer, Mrs. Jerry Hoppes, Mrs. Tom Rankin, Mrs. Gibbs, Mrs. Ray Loudner, Mrs. Roger Thompson, Mrs. Charles McIlvaine, Mrs. David Pellior, Mrs. Fred Zechman, and Mrs. Mike Wagner.

Guests were Miss Charlotte Smathers, Mrs. Richard Hill, Mrs. Hank Shafer, Mrs. John Gruber, Mrs. Scott Kerns, Mrs. Wayne King, Mrs. Jack Moats, Mrs. Fred Hoppes, Mrs. Richard Wood and Mrs. Jim Otterson.

Mrs. Gibbs and Mrs. Ratliff served pizza and coke.

Children entertained

Colman Hall on Rawlings Street was transformed into a spooky haunted house Saturday afternoon for the annual Halloween party arranged for the entertainment of children of Knights of Columbus members, Colman Council No. 5386.

The young goblins, 12 years and younger, masqueraded in colorful costumes. Excitement reigned for the children as they entered the eerie atmosphere where witches paraded, black cats hovered, ghostly skeletons dangled and orange and black streamers floated.

Two hours of fun and games were enjoyed by the group with prizes in the contests awarded Angie Newton, Kathleeen Boylan, Anne and Mark Engle.

In keeping with the season the youngsters were served apple cider, doughnuts, kool-aid and candy.

The Halloween party was arranged by Gary Magary, chairman, Robert Engle and Susan Stahl.

AT CTI — Diane Drewery, Assistant Service Manager, Resources Utilization, Ohio Bell Telephone and Chuck Woodfill, Department Chairman, Business Technologies, Columbus Technical Institute, study the brochure for "Campus and Career Day for Women". They will be conducting one of the career sessions presented during the morning and afternoon on October 26 at CTI.

'Campus and Career Day' planned at CTI Saturday

Campus and Career Day for Women will be held October 26 from 9 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. at Columbus Technical Institute, 55 E. Spring St. Sponsored by Columbus Technical Institute and Seal of Ohio Girl Scout Council, the career day is aimed at helping high school girls to determine their career field and women to re-enter the work force after raising a family.

Emily Leedy, Director of Women's Services for the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services, will be the keynote speaker. Her topic will be "Employment Projections for Women in the 70's and 80's."

Pat Cramer, Program Director for WTVN-TV, will moderate a noontime panel on "From Our Point of View." Panel members include Lori Culp, a ninth grade student at Clinton Junior High, Gwendolyn Germany, recent graduate of CTI, Ann Lodge, returning adult student who is enrolled in OSU graduate school, and Beth Hunker, instructor at CTI and employed mother.

Dr. Marion Rucker, co-author of the "Buckeye Way," will be the wrap-up speaker encouraging career day participants to "Dare to be Someone."

Career sessions will be held during the morning and afternoon and cover a variety of traditional and non-traditional careers for women.

Registration may be made by contacting the Division of Continuing Education at Columbus Technical Institute. Registration is free and participants may order a $2 box lunch or bring their own.

NEW ART SHOW PAINTINGS OCT. 16 THRU DEC. 5
JANE BURCH

31 year old graduate of Cincinnati Art Academy is concerned with 20th century life in the "Now" as portrayed with her mirage of silver stars as an architectural order floating in a nebulus spacial sky. Pencil thin ribbons of color are seen and unseen amid the lush repetitive oval field of subtle hues. Paradoxically, she reaches into the nostalgic past and speaks of woman emamcipated, yet vailed in various facial masks.

Ms. Burch displays technical elegance and control of her materials in using spray paint with thin built up layers to give dimension.

Rhodes to shun Ford appearance

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— President Ford's proposed income tax surcharge may be one reason former Gov. James Rhodes will skip a $500-a-plate dinner here tonight featuring the President as main speaker, a Rhodes aide said.

Rhodes, the Republican candidate for governor in the November election, will attend a fund-raising dinner in one of Ohio's southernmost counties instead, press secretary James Duerk confirmed.

But another Rhodes associate said flatly, "It's the surtax problem."

Rhodes is running on a "no new taxes" platform.

The former governor has criticized Gov. John Gilligan for tax increases, but Gilligan has opposed Ford's proposal which would reach down to single persons earning $7,500 annually and families earning $15,000 annually.

Rhodes' absence at the Cleveland affair would not be unusual "if he can go to Clermont County and raise money for his campaign," said state GOP Chairman Kent McGough.

McGough added that he had no knowledge of any concern Rhodes had with Ford's surcharge proposal and that Rhodes never had committed himself to attending the dinner.

He said Rhodes had planned to meet the President at Cleveland-Hopkins airport but could not keep that date and attend the Clermont County dinner, too.

Rhodes could not be reached for comment.

In 1964, Rhodes, who was governor, joined a campaign train in Cincinnati with U.S. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., the Republican presidential candidate. But Rhodes got off in nearby Hamilton in what was called a move to dissociate himself from Goldwater.

The Cleveland dinner is expected to be attended by about 300 persons, said Robert Wohlbruck, executive director of the Cuyahoga-Lake County Republican Finance Committee.

He estimated the dinner will raise $120,000 for the state party and Cuyahoga and Lake county GOP organizations.

The President was scheduled to arrive at 5 p.m., attend a reception at the Sheraton Cleveland Hotel, speak for 20 minutes and leave shortly after 9 p.m. The topic of his speech had not been announced.

Ford is returning from a trip to Mexico and a campaign stop in Oklahoma.

Nixon added to lawsuit

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Former President Richard Nixon was added Monday as a defendant in a suit against the Secret Service for alleged 1972 campaign dirty tricks, the American Civil Liberties Union announced.

The local chapter's executive director, Gordon Beggs, said several persons were deprived of their right to free speech and assembly at Cleveland Hopkins Airport when Nixon arrived there as part of his re-election campaign. Beggs said the suit claimed Secret Service men segregated and hassled persons wearing anti-Nixon pins and carrying anti-Nixon signs and took away some of their campaign literature.

"It's really part of the dirty tricks that went on that year as part of the campaign," Beggs said.

The amendment adding Nixon was filed in U.S. District court here, Beggs said.

OFBF reports more members

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 6.4 per cent membership gain was reported this year by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

The lobbying organization announced that it currently has 61,631 members, 3,726 more than the year before. That is the largest increase since 1949.

"The large gain reflects the continued importance farmers place in working together to produce food for people to eat while achieving a decent standard of living for their families," President Leonard Schnell said.

Franklin County led the state's membership increase with 175, with Cuyahoga County following with 151 members and Darke County with 117.

Organ recital slated Sunday

Mrs. Elizabeth Whiley Lange, of Columbus, will present a recital at 4 p.m. Sunday at Grace United Methodist Church. The recital is sponsored by the Washington C.H. Organ Club.

Mrs. Lange has served as the organist at the Broad Street United Presbyterian Church in Columbus, since 1952. Prior to that appointment she played for 14 years at the Indianola Presbyterian Church. During these years she has become increasingly popular with music lovers throughout central and southern Ohio, where she has played many recitals.

After graduating as an organ major at Miami University, Oxford, where she became a member of Delta Omicron, an international music fraternity for women, she was a graduate student at Ohio State University and studied privately for several years with Dr. Wilbur Held. Other noted teachers with whom she studied briefly are Clarence Dickinson and Catherine Crozier, and more recently, after special study, she qualified for the "Fellow of the American Guild of Organists diploma. She has served a two-year term as dean of the Central Ohio Chapter of the AGO. During one semester she taught organ at Denison University while Dr. Brayton Stark was on sabbatical leave.

Mrs. Lange has planned an hour of music by organ composers of various periods who have succeeded eminently for her recital at Grace United Methodist Church Sunday afternoon. Among other contemporary works she will play a hymn-prelude of her own composition.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lange at organ

The public is invited to attend the recital. There is no admission charge with the exception of a free-will offering to defray expenses. Following the recital a reception will be held in the church.

Burglary probed

Custom Car and Truck Rebuilders, 3676 Kenskill Ave., was burglarized sometime over the weekend, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported.

Although entry into the building was made, nothing was detected as missing and the only damage was $10 screen which was torn during the breaking and entering incident.

AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Clarence Darrow, a fair defense attorney, once claimed that "the law is a bum profession. It is utterly devoid of idealism and almost poverty-stricken as to any real ideas."

"The Law," a made-for-TV movie on NBC tonight, explores that thesis with a tautly written, well-acted and very sour study of the nuts-and-bolts workings of the criminal justice system in an unnamed big city.

Filmed in Los Angeles, the 2½-hour show stars Judd Hirsch, a New York actor in his mid-30s. He plays an aggressive, overworked deputy public defender who is idealistic by nature and cynical by experience.

His world, naturally, isn't a happy one. It's a world of hardnosed or jocular plea-bargaining, venal private barristers, prosecution-favoring, pistolpacking lady judges and lowlife defendants he must counsel en masse before their arraignments because the legal staff is small, its time limited.

The over-all impression you might get from this show is that it has but two staff idealists — the public defender and one member of the opposition, a young deputy district attorney played by John Beck.

The others are neither absolute saints nor sinners. They work both sides of the fence, drifting with the winds of expediency.

At the heart of the show is Hirsch's attempt to defend a young, heroin-wasted rock musician brilliantly played by Gary Busey — who's charged with three other men in a Manson family kind of murder case.

They're accused of hacking to death a pro football quarterback who, although publicly saintly, is subsequently revealed as privately kinky and into such things as cocaine, bisexuality, masochism and death cults.

The public defender, for whom the case becomes an obsession, tries to get the kid off, contending his client was totally wasted on drugs at the time of the killing and took no part in it.

But it's a headline-making case and into it comes the sort of famous trial lawyer-played with a nice, oily air by Sam Wanamaker — who takes such cases with no other financial consideration than the book and movie rights.

"The Law" has flaws, but it's at its best in the prelims, where it backs into the main story by depicting what happens, away from reporters and juries, after a suspect is arrested and jailed.

Its cynicism may dismay you and I've no doubt the American Bar Association will ask for a speedy retrial of the show's verdict on the law.

But the program, a series pilot, deserves watching. It's both solidly entertaining and thought-provoking, two qualities you don't often see on television in the same show.

Revco agrees not to use misleading ads

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — William P. Dixon, chief of the Arizona Consumer Fraud Division, said Monday that Revco Drug Centers, an Ohio corporation, has agreed not to use misleading price surveys in future advertising.

The agreement grew out of a civil complaint filed by Dixon in Superior Court last summer charging Revco with violating the state's Consumer Fraud Act in its "consumer reports" advertising campaign.

The complaint alleged that Revco falsely advertised that its prescription drug prices were 25 per cent cheaper than those of five other Arizona drug chains.

The agreement states that Revco's action is not to be considered an admission to wrongdoing.

High Court refuses zoning law challenge

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court has refused to review a challenge of the city's zoning laws.

The 1972 case challenged a tough city zoning policy freezing commercial development to protect development of a downtown shopping mall.

Hamilton police seek shotgun user

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Hamilton police today continued to seek the person who fired three shotgun blasts into a bar late Saturday night, wounding three men in the hail of buckshot.

The men escaped serious injury.

Police said a man in the bar said he had been involved in an argument with another man at another tavern earlier in the evening.

Utilities getting into deeper bind

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Few people waste any sympathy on electric utilities. Utilities always are big and impersonal, and often they are over-computerized and unresponsive. Many critics claim they are poorly managed.

The product they supply is taken for granted, and their bills therefore usually seem excessive. They are unwelcome neighbors too, accused of erecting ugly, even dangerous plants, and of polluting the air and water.

Their image often is that of self-interest and arrogance, a perception sometimes reinforced by appearances and actions. They often are nepotistic. It is assumed by cynics that they have compromised the power regulators.

Even their investors seldom have anything nice to say to them, at least of a personal nature. Occasionally they are complimented on the regularity and size of their dividends, but usually that is expected of utilities.

But now the utilities need sympathy. the mighty mastadons of industry have fallen into a trap that seems to get deeper the harder they try to escape.

See if you can solve the puzzle:

1. Because of the expensive equipment needed to operate utilities, they are very heavy borrowers. Interest rates have risen sharply, greatly adding to their costs. In some instances this forces them to borrow even more.

2. Their credit rating falls, forcing them to pay more.

3. They consider cutting dividends, but this would lead inevitably to lower stock prices, thus eliminating or reducing that source of capital.

4. Having no choice, the utility skips the dividend, which automatically forecloses the likelihood that it can offer a new issue of stock. If customers don't like the existing stock — and some analysts don't — why should investors be interested in more shares?

5. Meanwhile, the price of fuel continues rising. Switch to other cheaper fuels? The environmentalists won't like that. Raise prices? Yes, even if it offends customers.

6. The customers cut back on their usage. Financing is further disrupted.

7. Burdened with ill will, insufficient revenues, an unsympathetic bond market and a disinterested stock market, the utilities postpone construction.

8. In so doing they generate great problems for the future. Utility plants become worn out and outmoded. Old plants can't use new fuels. They are costly to operate and maintain. They break down.

If you believe there is no resolution of the scenario, you might add these possibilities:

1. Shrinking profits look increasingly unattractive to investors. Brownouts demonstrate to millions of people that utilities are "mismanaged." The public demands nationalization or municipal expropriation.

2. Utility managers agree. Faced with bankruptcy, they find their only source of funds is the government.

Nobody can demonstrate that the latter two possibilities will occur, and among stock market analysts a preponderance agrees a solution will be found in time — through tax changes, most likely.

But nobody can deny, either, that much of the preceding scenario is being enacted right now. On the stock market, to use one illustration, utility shares are selling far below book value.

One analyst observes that at current prices investors have even discounted nationalization. Presumably, the government would pay book value, he said.

Paperwork swamping policemen

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Police say thousands of unfiled and untranscribed crime reports are delaying some investigations here by more than a month.

Officials estimate 3,000 reports telephoned in by police officers are waiting to be typed and turned over to detectives for investigation because of a shortage of typists. About 30,000 completed reports are stacked at Central Police Station awaiting filing because of a shortage of clerks.

Until copies of the reports are made, insurance companies will not pay claims for stolen properties and the state will not reimburse victims of food stamp thefts, police say.

Police Lt. James Birmingham said the department has 29 women to take care of records, 10 less than the minimum needed to make the system work.

Uncompleted reports also keep police from spotting patterns such as 27 cars damaged and burglarized in the first district Sept. 25, Birmingham said. Those reports were not typed until last week.

VICA officers are selected

WILMINGTON — The Laurel Oaks Career Development Center recently held elections for Vocational Industrial Clubs of America officers.

The elections were held to select candidates to seek regional and state VICA offices. All students in the trade and industrial areas participated in the event.

The winners were:

Jeri Fulton, Wilmington, state president; Jim Mason, Miami Trace, state vice president; Patte Macke, Lynchburg, regional president; Karen Newman, Greenfield, regional vice president; Vicki Chambers, Hillsboro, parliamentarian; Debra Hollar, Greenfield, secretary; Dave Satterfield, Hillsboro, treasurer; Kim Long, East Clinton, reporter; Steve Myers, Greenfield, seargeant-at-arms; Randy Rider, East Clinton, chaplin; Dan Cox, Washington C.H., junior fair board, and Mabel Crum, Miami Trace, queen.

Delegates selected were Paul Flint, East Clinton, Debra Barr, Greenfield, Julie Cullum, Fairfield, Joe Davis, Greenfield, and Terri White, Miami Trace.

The students will seek offices against candidates from other vocational schools in the southwest region at the fall VICA convention to be held at Laurel Oaks on Oct. 26.

Convicted 'fence' sentenced

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Still professing his innocence, James Hough, the flamboyant intermediary who arranged the $100,000 ransom of two stolen Rembrandt paintings, went off to jail Monday with a longer sentence than the thieves.

"I reaffirm my innocence," said Hough, 31, a real estate broker of Hamilton, Ohio.

Hamilton County Judge William Morrissey refused Hough's pleas for probation and for bond while his case is appealed.

Hough was sentenced to 1-10 years in jail for extortion plus a $1,000 fine and 1-5 years each for harboring a felon and receiving stolen goods. The latter two are to be served consecutively, Morrissey said.

Donald Lee Johnson, 30, confessed mastermind of the Dec. 18, 1973 thefts at the Taft Museum, was sentenced six months to five years. He pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of receiving stolen goods after agreeing to testify against Hough.

Carl Horsley, 21 and Henry C. Dawn, 22, who admitted taking the paintings valued at $1.5 million, got 1-5-year terms as did Raymond McDonough, 21, who drove the getaway car. All pleaded guilty to reduced charges of receiving stolen goods.

During the trial, Johnson said he was a professional thief and that Hough was a dealer in stolen goods.

Johnson said Hough masterminded the ransom after Johnson contacted him.

Hough, bearded and modishly dressed, appeared on a local television station with one of the paintings, "Man Leaning on a Sill."

He told museum officials and police that the thieves had asked him to act as go-between. Return of the first painting was a show "of good faith," he said.

The museum named Hough intermediary and gave him a check for $15,000 afterwards as a finders fee. Hough returned the check.

The second painting, "Portrait of an Elderly Woman" was recovered a week after the thefts through negotiations. FBI agents and local police recovered all except $18 of the ransom money and arrested Johnson, Horsely and McDonald shortly after the exchange was made in suburban Loveland.

"The thieves were the only ones who kept their word all through the negotiations," Hough complained afterward.

He was later indicted when the trio changed their stories before a Hamilton County grand jury in exchange for not being indicted for armed robbery.

Johnson testified that Hough agreed to act as intermediary for $70,000 of the ransom.

Hough, who said he is a real estate broker and bar owner, challenged the conduct of the trial judge and prosecutors in his appeal as being prejudicial. He also attacked the credibility of Johnson's testimony.

'Big Bill' Leverton finds losing 417 pounds difficult

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP) — "Big Bill" Leverton could never squeeze into anything until he became one-third the man he used to be.

"I couldn't go anywhere. I didn't fit. Doors, chairs — the world around me was too small," said William Leverton, 57, after shedding 417 pounds in 31 months.

"I look in a mirror and it's like looking at a stranger," said the 6-foot-3 Leverton, checking in at 223 pounds last week.

Leverton, a Michigan Highway Department inspector, weighed 640 pounds on April 3, 1972, and was told by his employer to reduce.

"My job was at stake," said Leverton, who has set a final weight goal of 200 pounds.

Leverton said he tried many methods to lose weight — even hypnosis.

"Under hypnosis I drank 12 ounces of grape juice, unsweetened, for several weeks. Today I can't even look at a grape," he said.

"You can't imagine what I went through. When I weighed 640, I had a 74-inch waist. It's now 42 inches. I literally wore the biggest pants and shirt in the world. I had to order them from a fit-all store in Chicago at $40 a set. And those were just grimy looking work clothes. My neck was 22 inches. Now it's 16 inches.

"My son used to have to put on my socks and tie my shoes. I'd walk 40 feet and be out of breath. I was a prison of fat."

In November 1972, Leverton joined a weight control program. He began to eat three carefully selected and measured meals a day, which included one tablespoon of mayonnaise, vegetable oil or margarine; 16 ounces of skim milk; five fruits or fruit juices; four cups of raw or two cups of cooked green vegetables; four ounces of a yellow vegetable and four slices of bread. He lost an average of 3.3 pounds each week.

Leverton's weekly diet now includes liver once, fish five times, beef three times and four eggs.

The weight control organization says Leverton's weight loss is a record, topping Florence Jaffee of New York, who dropped about 335 pounds in the late 1960s.

McDonald increases poll lead

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Only Class A pacesetter McDonald has any breathing room this week in The Associated Press Ohio high school football ratings.

The Trumbull County powerhouse owns a 36-point margin, 199-160, over runnerup Bluffton in Class A.

However, a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters sees it much closer in Class AAA and Class AA in the weekly poll.

Warren Harding, the new Class AAA leader, is 12 points, 245-233, ahead of second-place Canton McKinley, the No. 1 team a week ago.

Wheelersburg, on top in Class AA, leads by a scant 10th place vote, 164-163, over Akron St. Vincent-St. Mary, stumbling for the first time last week to Class AAA power Warren Western Reserve.

Harding, matching McKinley's 7-0-0 record, moved in front via a 55-0 victory over Cincinnati Taft. McKinley took a 53-0 verdict from Dayton Roth.

Wheelersburg's path to the top in Class AA came on a 32-0 triumph over Minford while St. Vincent-St. Mary was losing.

McDonald, meanwhile, knocked off Lowellville 34-6 to remain atop the Class A poll. Bluffton beat Delphos St. John 41-0 to go around Plain City Alder into the No. 2 slot. Alder was a 35-18 conquerer of Cedarville.

In Class AAA, the lone new face was No. 10 Youngstown Mooney, the defending state playoff champion with a 5-0-2 record this fall.

In Class AA, No. 9 Norwalk and No. 10 Louisville Aquinas were newcomers while 10th place Montpelier was a new face in Class A this week.

Cincinnati Moeller again was third in Class AAA, followed by Upper Arlington, Cincinnati Elder, Warren Western Reserve, Dover, Findlay, New Philadelphia and Youngstown Mooney.

Minerva was third in Class AA, Toronto fourth, Dayton Jefferson fifth, Cincinnati Wyoming sixth, Shelby seventh and Columbus Watterson eighth.

In Class A, Windham was up one spot to fourth and then, in order, came defending playoff champion Middletown Fenwick, Covington, Canal Winchester, Newark Catholic, Midvale Indian Valley North and Montpelier.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Here's how a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters rates Ohio high school football teams for The Associated Press this week (10 points for first to 1 point for 10th):

CLASS AAA

1. Warren Harding, 7-0-0, 245 points.

College grid ratings find little change

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Led by Ohio State and Oklahoma, the first eight teams in The Associated Press college football ratings held onto their positions today while Nebraska and Penn State climbed back into the Top Ten and Arizona and North Carolina State dropped out.

Ohio State remained No. 1 for the fifth week in a row with a 49-9 rout of Indiana. The Buckeyes received 50 first-place votes and 1,196 of a possible 1,210 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Runner-up Oklahoma drubbed Colorado 49-14 and picked up eight first-place ballots and 1,082 points. Last week, the Sooners trailed Ohio State 1,160-1,020.

Third-place Michigan received one first-place vote and 923 points after beating Wisconsin 24-20. Alabama, No. 4, trimmed Tennessee 28-6 and earned one first-place vote and 887 points. Auburn received the other first-place vote and 699 points with a 31-22 triumph over Georgia Tech.

Southern California, Notre Dame and Texas A&M remained in the 6-7-8 positions. USC downed Oregon 16-7, Notre Dame walloped Army 48-0 and Texas A&M blanked Texas Christian 17-0.

Nebraska, which was seventh in the preseason ratings and got as high as fourth before dropping down to 12th following its second setback, made it back up to ninth with a 56-0 shellacking of Kansas, which had been 13th.

Penn State, eighth in the preseason poll, skidded to 19th after losing to Navy early in the year but has been climbing back gradually—to 15th, 11th and now 10th. The Nittany Lions defeated Syracuse 30-14.

Arizona and N.C. State, Nos. 9-10 last week, slipped to 16th and 17th, respectively. Arizona lost to Texas Tech 17-8 while N.C. State bowed to North Carolina 33-14.

The complete Second Ten consists of Texas Tech, Florida, Texas, Arizona State, Maryland, Arizona, North Carolina State, Tulane, Miami of Ohio and California, which made the Top Twenty for the first time this year. The Bears replaced Kansas.

Last week's Second Ten consisted of Penn State, Nebraska, Kansas, Florida, Arizona State, Texas, Texas Tech, Maryland, Miami and Tulane.

Bears slip past Packers, 10-9

By JOE MOOSHIL
AP Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — "It was strictly designed to be a shortyardage play," said Carl Garrett, "but Randy Jackson and Perry Williams threw super blocks and I could have gone all the way if I hadn't tripped."

The play—one of many key plays in the Chicago Bears' stirring 10-9 victory over the Green Bay Packers—came in the closing minutes when the Bears were hanging on to their threadbare advantage Monday night.

Garrett not only got the two yards for a clutch first down but rambled 18 yards to get the Bears out of a serious hole. Bob Parsons then punted out on the Green Bay four-yard line and still the Bears didn't clinch the triumph until Garry Lyle intercepted a Jerry Tagge pass in the closing seconds.

Another key play—the game was full of them—came in the fourth quarter with the Bears leading 10-6. Tagge spotted Barry Smith alone in the end zone and fired. Craig Cleamons appeared to come out of nowhere at the last second to bat the ball out of Smith's hands.

"Cleamons made it look tough because of national television," said Coach Abe Gibron. "He should have been there all the time."

Cleamons credited Smith with making "a good move. I got there at the last second. Sure, we used six backs on defensive at times but remember, we were quick enough to come back and support on the run."

The strategy of using six defensive backs was puzzling since it forces a team to run rather than throw and Green Bay is known more for its running than its passing.

"You can think whatever you want," said Gibron. "The six defensive backs forced them to run. We fired we could stop their running. They had never seen six defensive backs before and it's tough to throw against them."

The Bears scored the first two times they had possession of the ball to take a 10-0 lead and then hung on while fighting off three Chester Marcol field goals in the second half.

Mirro Roder booted a 23-yard field goal midway in the first period and Gary Huff hit Charley Wade with a 57-yard touchdown pass minutes later. It was Wade's first pro touchdown although he leads the Bears in receptions.

"I was overdue, long overdue," said Wade. "And it came on national TV too, that's what made it great. A lot of people saw what I can do."

The Bears nursed the lead through the first half and five minutes into the second half Marcol booted a 34-yard field goal after Al Matthews had intercepted a Huff pass.

Later in the period, Ted Hendricks intercepted another Huff pass and returned 44 yards to the Chicago 37-yard line. But the Packers were halted on the 16-yard line and had to settle for a 33-yard Marcol field goal.

Now the Packers needed only a touchdown for a tie and they would have had it if Cleamons hadn't knocked down Tagge's pass to Smith. With a little more than six minutes to play, they went for another field goal and Marcol connected from 36 yards.

They never had another serious chance—not with Garrett's run, Parson's punt out of bounds and finally Lyle's clinching interception.

Lou Brock heads all-star selections

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Lou Brock slid in safely on The Associated Press' 1974 Major League All-Star baseball team.

Picking up the most votes of the outfielders with 290, the St. Louis Cardinals' base-stealing wonder was among the classy group voted in Monday by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Brock, who broke Maury Wills' distinguished record of 104 steals with 118 this season, was joined in the outfield by Oakland's Reggie Jackson and Jeff Burroughs of Texas.

Jackson polled 218 votes while Burroughs had 194 to make the blue ribbon team ahead of such illustrious names as Jimmy Wynn of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Atlanta's Ralph Garr, the National League's batting champion.

The major battles in the voting took place at shortstop and for the right-handed pitcher's berth.

Cincinnati's Dave Concepcion won the shortstop position over Bert Campaneris of Oakland, 173 votes to 133.

Ferguson Jenkins of the Texas Rangers was named the team's right-handed pitcher, outdueling Catfish Hunter 159-117. Nolan Ryan, the California Angels' strikeout king, finished a distant third with 53.

Baltimore's Mike Cuellar won in a breeze for the left-handed pitcher's slot. Cuellar collected 255 votes to 46 for his nearest rival, Detroit's John Hiller. Ken Holtzman of Oakland was third with 35.

The remainder of the team includes first baseman Steve Garvey of the Dodgers; second baseman Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins; third baseman Mike Schmidt of the Philadelphia Phillies and catcher Johnny Bench of the Reds, all runaway winners.

Along with his phenomenal exploits that broke Wills' record, Brock's season included a .306 batting average, 105 runs scored and 194 hits.

Jackson blasted 29 home runs, knocked in 93 runs and batted .289 for the A's while Burroughs had his finest season at Texas with 25 homers, 118 RBI and a .301 batting average.

Concepcion drove in 82 runs and batted .281 for the Reds. Jenkins, a former 20-game winner in the National League, had a 25-12 record for the Rangers and boasted a 2.82 earned run average while striking out 225 batters. Cuellar won 22 games and lost but 10 for Baltimore while posting a 3.11 ERA.

Garvey, a landslide victor over Dick Allen of the Chicago White Sox, 273 to 76, batted .312 while hitting 21 home runs and driving in 111 runs. Carew, the majors' best hitter with a .364 average, also was the American League's best vote-getter with 306.

Schmidt drove in 116 runs and hit 36 homers for the Phillies. Bench blasted 33 homers and knocked in 129 runs to finish far ahead of the field at his catching position.

Storm seeking better support

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

There's still a chance the Portland Storm will move into the World Football League playoffs—but there's a better chance that they'll move.

Portland plays in Thursday night's nationally televised WFL game, hosting playoffbound Memphis. In Wednesday night's action it's Birmingham at Shreveport, Philadelphia at Southern California, Florida at Charlotte and Hawaii at Chicago.

The league said Monday night that eight teams would make the playoffs. At the start of the season, the league said four would make it. Then, several weeks ago, it was expended to six. Now it's eight, meaning only two of the 10 clubs still playing (two have suspended play) will sit out the postseason action.

The Storm is hoping the national TV game will be a showcase for football interest in Portland and that it'll draw a sellout crowd go 33,000-seat Civic Stadium.

If it does, it'll virtually triple last Wednesday night's showing of 11,032 fans, a season-low, who saw the Storm slip past the Hawaiians 3-0.

"If they want a professional football team here, we can't go on drawing only 11,000 per game," says Storm owner Bob Harris.

Shortages reported in hunting supplies

Hunters are hunting for scarce guns and ammunition before going after ducks and deer this year. Sporting goods dealers across the country report shortages of rifles, shotguns and ammunition.

The shortages resulted from limited supplies of steel for gun barrels, choice woods for rifle stocks and plastic and brass for cartridge cases, dealers said.

Officials in many states reported increases in both poaching and legal hunting of game birds and animals. The price of meat is a factor, some said, but others said it's still cheaper to go the supermarket.

With hunting season about to start in many states, gun dealers from Maine to the Mexican border are looking at thinly stocked rifle cases and ammo bins. "There's a shortage of everything popular," said Dave Gils of Coast-to-Coast Stores in Fargo, N. D.

Steel shortages have affected production at the Ithaca Gun Co., said John Hrana, marketing manager for the upstate New York gun maker. "Most of the effect was in the first part of the year," Hrana said, "But our production forecast is being met almost 100 per cent now."

A shortage of top quality walnut wood for gunstocks has caused delays for some manufacturers. A few have turned to birch and other woods to fill the gap.

Most dealers reported little difficulty getting inexpensive guns, but the demand is for mid-priced and quality firearms and they are in short supply.

Despite price hikes of 30 per cent and more during the past year, some dealers blame the shortage of hunting guns on manufacturers waiting for still higher prices.

"There's a lot of talk about shortages of raw materials, but you have to wonder if they are not just holding back until the next price increase," said Judd Kirkham, sporting goods buyer for a J.C. Penney store in Kansas City.

The ammunition situation is about the same.

"The price of ammunition is out of sight," said Virginia Cartner, owner of Ozark Tackle and Supply in Eldon, Mo.

Game management and wildlife officials in many states said they expect a moderate increase in the number of hunters in the field this year because of larger herds and flocks and the growing popularity of outdoor recreation.

Lions defeated by Wilmington

Washington's volleyball teams appear to have hit a rough spot in their schedules as both teams dropped their second consecutive games, Monday evening. Playing at Wilmington, the varisty lost its matches 15-4 and 15-12. The reserves fell 15-11 and 15-9.

Top scorers for the varsity were Cindy Vaughn and Teresa Pursell with five points each. Betsy Krieger was tops with seven set-ups.

Joyce Warner and Sharon Redden each collected five points to lead the reserves. Sally Robinson had eight set-ups, while Becky Wheat and Redden each had seven.

The varsity record is now 5-3 and the reserves are 4-4 for the season. Tonight, the Lions will be at home against Clinton Massie.

Softball dinner

The Fayette County Softball Association is having a potluck supper this Saturday at 6:30 p.m. The supper will be held in the Fine Arts Building at the fairgrounds. All team members and wives planning to attend are asked to bring a covered dish and a table service. Trophies for the past season will be awarded following the dinner.

Dodger skipper inks 22nd one-year pact

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Walter Alston, the man who turned a seeming lack of outward forcefulness into one of his greatest assets, has signed his 22nd one-year contract to manage the Dodgers.

The Dodgers announced the signing Monday as Alston, 62, a one-time farmer and schoolteacher, drove from Los Angeles to his winter home in rural Darrtown, Ohio.

Only four managers have won more pennants than Alston, who won his seventh this year before his Dodgers lost the World Series to Oakland.

And only two men, Connie Mack and John McGraw, have managed the same team for a longer period than Alston. Mack piloted the Philadelphia Athletics for 50 years and McGraw led the New York Giants for 31.

Alston's credentials as a major league manager were not always totally accepted. When he was first named to the job in 1953—without any previous major league managing experience—many, including some of his players, thought the even-tempered Alston was not tough enough to get the job done.

"A lot of people thought he'd be a failure," Carl Erskine, a star pitcher of the era recalled. "I predicted he wasn't forceful enough to be a manager and a lot of the players were skeptical.

"He didn't bring any ready made credentials and at that time—...the image of a manager was some kind of dynamo, like Leo Durocher. Walt was a departure from that."

Looking back, it is ironic that a quality which largely accounts for Alston's lasting 21 years is the very equanimity, the very lack of outward forcefulness, which many thought would cause his early downfall.

"The things that in the beginning seemed weaknesses because they didn't fit the managerial pattern of the day turned out to be strengths," Erskine said.

"All of us tend to make big things out of little things," Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson once commented. "But he (Alston) doesn't...He's the same when he wins the pennant as when he finishes fourth or fifth."

Football raffle

Miami Trace's Varsity 'M' Club will be raffling a football at this week's Homecoming game with Greenfield. The football has been autographed by the queen and her court and members of this year's football squad. Tickets will be 25 cents or five for a dollar. The winner will be announced at halftime.

The Moose, like all deer, is a ruminant. Related to domestic cattle, it has a four-chambered stomach.

Not enough progress, Skorich says

CLEVELAND (AP) — "We made progress, but we still made too many mistakes. We lost, we still didn't win," said Cleveland Browns Coach Nick Skorich.

The Browns dropped a 20-16 decision to the Pittsburgh Steelers and sunk to a 1-5 record in the National Football League.

"We certainly can improve considerably," said Skorich at his Monday news conference. "We need a lot of improvement in the area of execution. We've played better offense and defensively we made some mistakes, but overall it was the best team effort this season."

Skorich said he was happy with the movement of coaches Richie McCabe and Dick Wood from the field onto the roof and that the changes he made in the lineup worked pretty well.

"Milt Morin and Jim Thaxton did fine jobs alternating at the tight end spot," Skorich said. "Morin was effective on the intermediate pass, which is his best area.

"Bob McKay playing guard worked out well also. He did a solid job. And although we didn't get our running game going, (Hugh) McKinnis did what we expected him to do (at the fullback spot). He broke loose a few times and he's a good hard runner. Van Green made a big difference in our defensive backfield."

Skorich said that he might make some changes at wide receiver when the Denver Broncos come to Cleveland Sunday. Steven Holden, who was shaping up as the Browns best wide receiver, has been out with an injury for the past three games. His return is questionable.

Bowling honor roll

Roger Grimm was knocking down the pins at Bowland in the Monday Night Scratch League. He had games of 216-246-190 for a high series of 652. Roger Wilson shot a 279 game in the Thursday Industrial League for high game of the week.

Jeddy Graves took top honors of the week for the women. She had a 603 and a 614 series. There were only two other bowlers able to top the 600 mark. They were Mike Wilson and Ken Robinett with 604 in the Monday Fraternal League.

Tony Hicks had a 599, Orris Hatfield 593, L. Goodman, Rick Kelly and B. Hartman 591, Al Cornell 590, Jim Polk 588, Roger Shepard 584, Wilbur Rapp 577, Jack Yeoman and Ed Oyer 574, Bob Thompson 570, Glen Yerian 567, Paul Donohoe 566, Joe McFarland 564, Shepard and Jim Meyer 560, Bob Rittenhouse 559, Ronnie Dean and Gordon Writsel 558, Gene Grimm 557, Thurman Carwile, Bob Glass and Bob Hughes 556, Charles Pfersick 554 and B. No final decisions rendered

Appeals court judges air cases here

Three judges from the Second District Court of Appeals convened in Washington C.H. Monday to consider a number of motions submitted to the appeals court on cases filed from Fayette County.

Constituting the panel were judges Calvin Crawford, Joseph D. Kerns and Darrell Hottle. Judge Hottle, Common Pleas Court Judge from Highland County, sat on the bench for Appeals Court Judge Paul Sherer, who was unable to attend.

THE JUDGES heard arguments on a number of cases including the criminal cases of John A. Brown, Michael Marmura and Robert Lemons, as well as the civil suit of Neal Wright and Claude E. Rhoad versus Calvin Hayward.

Brown, formerly of Frankfort, sentenced to life imprisonment for second degree murder, is seeking a new trial because of alleged errors during his trial in Fayette County Common Pleas Court. He was sentenced Sept. 5, 1973 for the fatal shooting of a Chillicothe girl while she was visiting Washington C.H. in the fall of 1972.

Lemons and Marmura were sentenced to not more than one year imprisonment and fined $2,500 each for possessing and attempting to sell pornographic material. Their initial request for appeal had been denied, but the judges will consider the merits of an appeal which is to be filed after their defense attorney has received a copy of the transcript of their Fayette County Common Pleas Court trial.

Hayward has been ordered to tear down his $53,000 home on U.S. 62-S and to restore the building site to its former condition. The Fayette County Common Pleas Court ruled that Hayward violated the deed to his property when he constructed the home which was completed in 1973. Arguments concerning his appeal to the Second District court of Appeals were heard during Monday's session.

A number of other matters, including some from Municipal Court decisions were aired.

NO FINAL decisions were rendered by the judges who will consider the arguments and render written opinions at a later date.

Another matter discussed by the judges concerned the length of time which has been required by the Fayette County Common Pleas Court for the preparation of trial transcripts. The judges discussed the problem with Judge Evelyn W. Coffman and recorder Martha Hahn, who explained some of the difficulties encountered in preparing transcripts here.

According to one of the appeals court judges, the discussions were fruitful and he feels that if everyone will exercise patience and cooperation, the situation can be resolved satisfactorily.

Hospital accreditation OKd

The Fayette County Memorial Hospital board of Trustees has received notice of approval from the Joint Commission on Accreditation, Chicago, Ill.

The commission is composed of representatives of the American College of Physicians, the American College of Surgeons, the American Hospital Association, and the American Medical Association. It tours the hospital facility on a regular basis and either approves or disapproves of the hospital each year.

In accrediting the hospital for another year, the commission cited an apparent deficiency in a lack of space in some of the hospital departments.

The only action taken by the board was to transfer funds of $31,420 from the equipment fund to the general fund. The money is to be used for payment on the newly-installed boilers at the hospital.

THE STATISTICAL report for September showed 324 admissions, for a total of 1,822 in-patient days. There were 58 births.

The facility was at 69 per cent occupancy, and the medical and surgical division had 76 per cent occupancy. These were the lowest percentages of the year and were attributed to the fact that several area doctors were vacationing during September.

The average length of stay in the hospital was 5.6 days, with the figure at 6.37 days for medical and surgical patients.

There were 745 X-rays taken and 4,776 laboratory tests performed. The emergency room had 1,240 patients.

There were 228 physical therapy treatments and 458 inhalation treatments. During the month, 66 major surgeries and 65 minor surgeries were performed.

Final contestants picked in lottery

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— The last 15 of 100 contenders to become Ohio's first lottery millionaire Sunday have been named in a special drawing here.

Meanwhile, Thistledown race track officials announced a million-dollar field for the $50,000-added Ohio Millionaire Lottery Stakes which will determine the order of prize money for the top finalists.

The Monday afternoon drawing was to have added 14 millionaire competitors but was extended after lottery officials learned one lottery agent mistakenly had paid off on a nonwinning ticket.

The nonwinner, Omar Watts of Burton, was eliminated and W.F. Roemer II of Berkey added.

The other names picked from a barrel were announced by lottery officials as Mary Lou Goehert, Cleveland; Kay Klinger, Toledo; Rita Jenkins, Sandusky; Emma E. Yerkey, Canton; Anita Blair (no city given);

James T. Goodrich Jr., Elyria; Wilbur H. Rhoades, Easton-Doylestown; Robert L. Bondurant, Springfield; Olivio D. DiGianbattista, Canton; Madeleine Graybill, North Canton; Robert L. Regula, Canton; S. Victor Tornello, Youngstown; Harry Cutlip, Ashtabula; and Louis Najcher, Cleveland.

The $20 winners from weekly drawings make up the pool from which the millionaire finalists are selected. One contestant is picked for every 1,500 $20 winners.

Eighty finalists will win $1,000 each on Sunday, seven will get $10,000 each, one $50,000, one $100,000 and the winner $1 million.

The top three will be determined by what horses win in the derby, the day's ninth race.

Twenty Ohio-foaled three-year-olds and up will race the mile and one-eighth, said racing secretary Mel Chadwell. He said the competing horses' career winnings total more than $1.5 million.

The $50,000 purse is the track's second highest of the year.

Order Ross list change

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A supplemental list of registered voters should be added to the official registration list in Ross County, the secretary of state ruled today.

A list of registered voters was prepared on Sept. 1, he said.

But secretary of State Ted W. Brown said that list "would not be 'complete and official' and reflect the correct registration list for each precinct in the county" because Ohio law states the "complete and official registration list" must be prepared at least 15 days before the general election.

"Since the lists were prepared for your county by Sept. 1, there would naturally be many additions or corrections resulting from changes in registration made prior to the close of registration on Oct. 7," Brown said in breaking a 2-2 vote by the county board of elections trying to decide the matter locally.

Brown, a Republican, voted with the two Democrats in adding to the prepared registration list.

Joint Shrine, K of C meet set Thursday

The Washington C. H. Shrine and Knights of Columbus clubs will hold their first joint meeting in the history of the two local clubs Thursday in the Mahan Building on the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

The meeting will consist of a get-together of the two clubs over a smorgasbord dinner to begin at 6:30 p.m. Shrine Club president Robert McArthur and Grand Knight Bill Stahl urge all members to contact Bob Cannon or John Bath for reservations.

The groups planned the meeting after similar sessions — in other parts of the state produced a good response. The Shriners are a Protestant group while the Knights are Catholic.

KSU case dismissal sought

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Dismissal of charges against four of the eight former Ohio National Guardsmen indicted in the 1970 Kent State University shootings was sought Monday as selection of a jury for the trial of the eight was started.

Two jurors had been seated tentatively when U.S. District Judge Frank J. Battisti recessed the trial until this morning. (10 a.m.).

Attorney C. R. Lambros asked in a motion made orally in Battisti's chambers before the jury selection began that charges against his clients be dismissed.

He argued that publicity last week stemming from the release of a deposition made by former Gov. James A. Rhodes in civil suits filed in connection with the shootings had prejudiced the case of the four men. Lambros later read his motion into the trial record.

Battisi said he would delay a ruling on the motion until the trial jury was seated, but he contacted U.S. District Judge Don Young at Toledo, who ruled against sealing Rhodes' deposition. Lambros said Young agreed to seal any other depositions made in the civil suits until the criminal trial here is concluded.

Lambros asked that charges be dismissed against James D. McGee, 28, of Ravenna; James E. Pierce, 30, Amelia Island, Fla.; Ralph W. Zoller, 27, Mantua, and Barry W. Morris, 30, Kent.

The four were among exguardsmen indicted last March 29 by a federal grand jury that investigated the shootings on May 4, 1970. A 13-second burst of gunfire from National Guard troops during a confrontation with demonstrators protesting U.S. military involvement in Cambodia left four students dead and nine wounded.

Others indicted were Lawrence A. Shafer, 28, Ravenna; William E. Perkins, 28, Canton; Leon H. Smith, 27, Beach City, and Mathew J. McManus, 28, West Salem.

The indictment charged the defendants with willfully assaulting and intimidating the student demonstrators by firing weapons in their direction and with violating their constitutional right not to be deprived of liberty without due process of law.

Shafer, McGee, Perkins, Pierce and Zoller were charged specifically with one count each of "discharging loaded .30-caliber M1 rifles . . . in the direction of of the demonstrators."

Morris was charged with firing a .45-caliber automatic pistol in the direction of the demonstrators.

The indictment charged McManus and Smith with firing 12-gauge shotguns in the direction of the demonstrators.

Jurors seated tentatively Monday were Ralph L. Rumsey of nearby Avon Lake, the father of three who said he attends night classes at Baldwin-Wallace College in suburban Berea, and Constance Hillson, 23, a housewife of suburban Garfield Heights.

Judge Battisti dismissed four prospective jurors before turning the questioning over to government and defense attorneys.

Wheat to be sent to eastern Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — A newly approved sale of 1.2 million metric tons of U.S. wheat to the Soviet Union is needed for grain-deficit eastern areas of the country, says an Agriculture Department official.

Deputy Asst. Secretary Richard E. Bell said Monday that normally the wheat would have come from Canada. But he said Canada has had trouble with shipping and has had crop losses this year so the Soviets turned to the United States.

Bell told a news conference he thought at least three-fourth os the U.S. wheat, and perhaps all of it, will go to the Far East area of the Soviet Union.

He said it is cheaper for the Russians to buy the grain from Canada or the United States than to ship it by rail from their own distant wheat-producing areas.

The 1.2 million tons of wheat and 1 million tons of corn was agreed upon last week by U.S. and Soviet officials meeting in Moscow. Bell was there with the U.S. delegation headed by Treasury Secretary William E. Simon.

Simon last weekend announced Moscow had agreed to limit grain purchases to the total of 2.2 million tons until mid-1975, when new U.S. crop production is ready.

The White House on Oct. 5 intervened in sales of 3.2 million tons of corn and wheat after the two firms involved reported the Russian orders to the Agriculture Department.

As a result of Simon's visit to Moscow, the Soviets agreed to the reduced quantity. The firms involved in the initial deal were Continental Grain Co. of New York, and Cook Industries of Memphis, Tenn.

Bell said the Soviet grain trading agency, Exportkleb, has sole authority to work out details of the revised purchase either with Continental and Cook or with other grain firms. He said the department did not give the two companies any assurance that Russia would buy grain from them.

Bell said he thought Russia would continue as a steady buyer of corn to help increase its livestock production. However, he said, wheat purchases are not so predictable because of variable Soviet production and demand.

Fancy breed of chickens lay low-cholesterol eggs

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)— If you like eggs, but are chicken-hearted about cholesterol, young Bill Boyd might be able to help you.

Boyd, 21, a mathematics student at Indiana University, moved this year to a small house on a plot of ground near Unionville, east of Bloomington.

A flock of chickens came along with the little farm, purchased by Boyd's father, Joseph Boyd, an accountant for Cummins Engine Co. at Columbus.

They weren't just any old chickens. They were Araucanas, which produce a smaller than normal egg, rich in protein and low in cholesterol, the substance believed to produce fatty deposits in the veins that lead to strokes and heart disease.

The Araucanas were discovered about 1880 in Chile. The former owner of the farm raised several chickens from eggs, proving they are hardy in Indiana climate. The chickens are available from most poultry distributors.

The Araucana eggs are supposed to be at least 20 per cent lower in cholesterol than other chicken eggs.

Boyd collects about a halfdozen eggs a day from his flock of 11 chickens— there used to be 25 until a weasel found them.

"I think I'd like to build up the flock if I can," Boyd said. "I've thought about raising them for the eggs. I like it out here, and I am learning to farm."

In addition to the low cholesterol and high protein, the eggs have another advantage over the usual chicken eggs. They are prettier. For some reason, the shells vary in color from pastel blue and red to yellow and beige, ready made for the Easter basket.

School superintendent on Russian tour

MOSCOW (AP) — Ohio School Supt. Martin Essex is in the Soviet Union heading a 12-member State Department team conducting a two-week study of educational developments here.

The delegation plans to observe nursery schools, kindergartens, elementary and secondary schools, vocational and technical centers, evening schools and universities.

Rezoning legislation on Council calendar

Only one piece of legislation will be considered by members of Washington C.H. City Council at the regular semi-monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the City Office Building.

City Manager Dan Wolford said Council members will be considering the second reading of an ordinance authorizing rezoning of a 0.42-acre tract of land on Clinton Avenue, just east of the Fairview Avenue intersection.

Washington C.H. real estate developer Robert E. Lewis has submitted preliminary plans to City Council requesting rezoning of the land from R-2 to B-1 restricted to permit the construction of a proposed three-building office complex project.

The rezoning ordinance was placed on its first reading at City Council's last regular session since only five city legislators were present.

Luken and Gradison set election debate

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Rep. Thomas Luken, D-Ohio, and his Republican opponent Willis D. Gradison were scheduled to debate this afternoon at the University of Cincinnati.

Luken narrowly defeated Gradison in the Ohio First District race in a special election last March.

Stashed cash turned over to man's estate

ELSMERE, Ky. (AP) — The $93,500 in cash found in the home of a man found dead of natural causes Oct. 8 has been turned over to his estate.

Police Chief William Hiler said he found a fishing box containing a stack of money while looking through the home of James Holloran, a bachelor.

Holloran, 68, who ran a local restaurant for 20 years, was known for giving to charities and to individuals down on their luck, Hiler said.

A further search turned up $551 in silver dollars in an old sack. Hiler said a more thorough search by relatives turned up nothing of value.

Madison Mills sets campaign

MADISON MILLS — The annual UNICEF drive will be held Thursday in the Madison Mills community, sponsored by the United Methodist Women of the Madison Mills Methodist Church.

The children who will be canvassing the area will meet at the Madison Mills church at 4 p.m.

Donations are used to purchase food, milk and medicine for needy children throughout the world.

After the drive, the children will return to the church for refreshments, to be served by the Mary Martha Circle.

Pickerington school fire charges filed

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP) — Three Pickerington High School students accused of setting a $750,000 fire in the school were to face arson charges today in Fairfield County Juvenile Court.

State Arson Bureau Chief Gene Jewell said the boys, two aged 16 and one 17, were picked up Monday following an investigation by his office and local police and fire officials.

The youths, who were not identified, were released in the custody of their parents pending their court appearance, Jewell said.

Jewell declined to disclose specific details regarding the fire, except to say "a flammable liquid was poured in the library of the school" at about 2 a.m. Monday.

Fire officials earlier had said the blaze apparently started in the library and media center. The fire was reported at 3 a.m. and was fought by about 50 firemen from Fairfield and Franklin counties.

Officials said the library, including 6,300 books, was totally destroyed, along with administrative offices and a teachers' lounge. Six classrooms suffered severe smoke and water damage, and heat melted structural girders, they said.

School Supt. Don E. Heft said the school probably will remain closed the rest of the week.

Japanese to protest Ford visit

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's three biggest antigovernment political parties say they plan a campaign of demonstrations against President Ford's visit to Japan next month but do not plan to resort to force or violence.

The Japan Socialist party, the Japan Communist party and the Buddhist Komei party said they hoped the demonstrations would be comparable in size to those in 1960 that caused President Dwight D. Eisenhower to cancel a visit to Japan. However, the violence of those demonstrations as well as the size was a major factor in Eisenhower's decision.

Japanese leftists observed International Antiwar Day Monday, and the three parties took the lead in nationwide rallies and demonstrations at which the Ford visit and U.S. nuclear weapon policies were attacked. The sponsors claimed about 2 million persons turned out, but the police estimate was less than 300,000.

Mild anti-Ford sentiment in Japan escalated abruptly this month following the testimony of retired Rear Adm. Gene Larocque before a congressional committee that U.S. warships had entered Japanese and other foreign ports with nuclear weapons aboard. Leftist groups contended that this violated a Japanese policy banning the admission of nuclear weapons to the country.

Van Wert inmates in escape attempt

VAN WERT, Ohio (AP) — Two inmates of the Van Wert County jail, both awaiting trial on drug-related indictments, were charged with attempted jailbreak Monday by the Van Wert County sheriff.

The two, Phillip G. Miller, 26, of Van Wert, and Terry Lee Craig, 21, of Delphos, tried to cut through a window with a hacksaw blade whenever trains passed by and were discovered Saturday afternoon, the sheriff's office said.

WHAS-AT NOISE?

The crickets crick and the tweety birds tweet on this nearly 7 acre country estate. You can hear them from your spacious ranch style home. It has three bedrooms, each with plenty of closets; two baths (one off master bedroom); large 13 x 22 living room; formal 12 x 12 dining room; modern kitchen with built-in range, twin self-cleaning ovens, dishwasher, and disposal and dinette area; 12½ x 21½ family room with woodburning fireplace; utility room; and office. You will appreciate the two car garage and the large barn. There is also a 20 ft. swimming pool. Most all the rooms are carpeted and the home has electric hot water heat.
Here is a fine home, only four years old, that will please most any buyer, and it is in great shape.
Owner is transferred out of state, the only reason this home is available for sale.
Better call 335-2210 now.

Opening lead - ten of diamonds.

Most players find mathematical probabilities extremely dull, but the fact is that even a superficial knowledge of the subject will reap big dividends on many deals.

Assume you're in three notrump and West leads a diamond. As soon as dummy comes down you can count eight top tricks, and you don't have to be an Einstein or a Garozzo to realize that your best chance for a ninth trick lies in clubs.

If you play momma-poppa style and start by cashing the A-K-Q of clubs, you will make the contract whenever the suit is divided 3-3 (a 36 per cent chance) or 4-2 (a 48 per cent chance). In either case you would play the nine of clubs next to assure nine tricks.

On top of this 84 per cent chance, there is also the possibility that when you start leading the suit the singleton ten or jack will fall on the first round (another 5 per cent). If this occurs, you continue the suit and in that way guarantee the contract.

But even this 89 per cent chance for the contract can be improved by an additional 5 per cent by cashing the ace of clubs, playing a heart to the ace, and returning a club from dummy, planning to finesse the eight if East follows low. This guards against East's holding the J-10-x-x-x of clubs.

It is true that this safety play makes a lot of sense even if you know nothing whatever about probabilities. But, even so, it is perhaps better for the sake of your peace of mind to know at the start of the hand that, with proper play, your over-all chance of success comes to 94 per cent.

Re-Lighting Cigarettes

My husband is trying to cut down on cigarettes. He takes a few puffs, then he kills it. He relights the same cigarette when he wants another few puffs. I notice that he coughs more when he relights a cigarette. Does this make any sense?

Mrs. D.O., N.C.

Dear Mrs. O.:

This subject has been under study in America and Great Britain.

The consensus is that those cigarette smokers who relight their cigarettes seem to have a greater tendency for developing chronic bronchitis.

In England, almost 6000 smokers were studied. It was found that the frequency of chronic bronchitis among those who relit their cigarettes was 15 per cent to 20 per cent greater than among those who did not relight their cigarettes.

One explanation might be that those who relight their cigarettes eventually smoke them to the end thus consuming more tars than the average smoker.

Any smoker will testify to the irritation from relighting a cigarette. Undoubtedly, other irritating substances accumulate in the "killed" cigarette.

Is there more than one method to remove a skin cancer of the forehead?

Mr. N.B., Mass

Dear Mr. B.:

The rate of cure of skin cancers is very high. Early recognition and early treatment is responsible for this excellent success.

The prime purpose of any procedure for skin cancer is to cure it permanently. The cosmetic result, especially in cancers of the skin of the face, is always considered when choosing a method of treatment.

Skin cancer can be treated by surgery, by chemical and electrical cauterization and by cryosurgery (surgery by freezing). Each case is individually evaluated by the dermatologist before the choice of treatment is established.

Doctors never sacrifice safety for cosmetic reasons. A small scar is insignificant in terms of the value of a permanent cure.

JOLLY JILLS 4-H

The Jolly Jills 4-H Club held their annual organizational meeting at the home of Bridget and Janelle Meredith. Last year's vice president, Kellie Mick, called the meeting to order. The pledges were led by last year's pledge leader, Debbie Tice. In order that each new member be identified, all girls introduced themselves for roll call.

The next order of business was election of officers. The following girls were chosen for the 1974-75 year. President, Dale Williams; vice president, Bridget Meredith; secretary, Lisa Jackson; treasurer, Kellie Mick; news reeporter, Beth Barton; Safety leader, Janelle Meredith; health leader, Jana Overly; recreation leader, Teresa Dean and Lori Barton.

New vice president Bridget Meredith appointed her program committee. Members chosen were: Debbie Tice, Lisa Jackson, Kathy Junk, Teresa Dean and Beth Barton.

The meeting was adjourned by the new president, Dale Williams. The next meeting will be November 4th at the home of Debbie Tice at 7:30 p.m.

Following adjournment the three advisors, Mrs. Kathy Meredith, Mrs. Helen McHolan and Mrs. Ronnette Mick, discussed the different 4-H projects with the girls. Each member filled out a card with the needed information about herself and the projects she is interested in taking. These were given to the advisors. Refreshments were served by Janelle and Bridget Meredith.

HAPPY BLUE BELLES

All 10 members were present for the meeting of the Happy Blue Belles at Belle-Aire School. Our leader, Mrs. Janice Boswell, and assistant Mrs. Barbara Wyatt, led the Pledge of Allegiance.

Refreshments were served by Melissa Climer.

Stephanie Hatmacher gave the roll call and dues were collected by Debbie Forsha with each responding by naming our favorite story or cartoon character.

Mrs. Boswell reminded us of the Council Fire for Thursday and we decorated our flashlights to use during the ceremony.

Mrs. Wyatt showed us a cute craft which we will have fun making at the next meeting Oct. 28. Angela Everhart will be responsible for refreshments.

The group formed a friendship circle and repeated The Bluebird Wish, and learned a new song. We closed the meeting with "The Bluebird Goodbye Song."

Those present were Julie Boswell, Melissa Climer, Angele Everhart, Debra Forsha, Maria Frogale, Stephanie Hatmacher, Loretta Self, Jody Shepler, Jackie Sue Smith, Amy Wyatt, Mrs. Boswell, Mrs. Wyatt and Amy Boswell.

SCOUT TROOP 67

Following the opening of the meeting of Boy Scout Troop 67, Senior Patrol Leader John Milstead told us about the ribbons we had won at the camporee. They were the President's Award, Best Percentage of Attendance, and Best Conduct. We also received the chairman's trophy.

The two patrols received a total of seven ribbons, five of which were Bear Patrols.

We then had recreation for the rest of the meeting, and played the game of spud and a game of dodgeball.

All Scouts were reminded that the next meeting will be entirely for advancement. Everyone is to have at least one major thing to pass.

Senior Patrol leader, John Milstead, had the Scout Benediction.

In Focus

by Charlie Pensyl

I hear people say, "winter is the electronic flash season," you know, like during the summer we rely entirely on daylight, or the sun. Truth is, the photographer will use his electronic flash more during the summer season than in the winter when the daylight is usually more diffused and the light is softer. Flash fill-in is one of the chief jobs of the versatile electronic flash.

Buying an electronic flash is no easy task, since there are units ranging in price from around $20 up, I mean really UP. With the simple manual unit it's up to the cameraman to set the aperture according to distance and other factors. With the automatic units the light goes out from the unit, strikes the subject and comes back to an electric eye on the unit. When enough light gets back to the unit it quenches and that's all there is; thus preventing overexposure. How's that for a gimmick?

Well, if that turns you on, get this. There are some units that have the electric eye that attaches to the camera, but the flash unit may be off-the-camera or bounced, but the quenching job takes place when enough lights gets to the camera to properly expose the picture. You see, with all this electronic gadgetry you don't have to be a mental giant to be a great photographer. Just know what electric eyes and electronic brains to rely on.

What we're trying to tell you is this, "There is an electronic flash unit in your future. We're here to help you pick out which one is for you."

Two persons hurt in city mishaps

Two traffic accidents were investigated by Washington C. H. police officers Monday, both involving the issuance of citations and both involving injury to the drivers not at fault. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported a parking lot mishap which involved no injury or citations.

An accident at the intersection of Eastern Avenue and Pearl Street at 11:28 a.m. Monday, involved cars driven by Jimmie R. Hutchinson, 30, of 317 Eastern Ave., and Russell D. Seymour, 17, Jeffersonville.

Hutchinson showed visible signs of injury at the accident scene and was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital by Gerstner-Kinzer ambulance service where he was treated for back and chest pain and numbness of the left leg. He was then released.

Seymour was cited by city police for failure to obey a traffic stop sign.

SEVERE DAMAGE was incurred by cars driven by Dorothy M. Cornwell, 28, of 830 Conley Court, and Dannie W. Manning, 18, of 803 Broadway St., when they became involved in an accident at the intersection of Washington Avenue and Church Street at 3:19 p.m. Monday.

Ms. Cornwell, claimed injury at the accident scene and was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital by Gerstner-Kinzer ambulance service, where she was treated for an abrasion of the knee and released.

Manning was charged by city police with failure to yield right of way.

A tank truck driven by Howard W. Robinson, 46, Wilmington, backed into a parked car owned by Beverly J. Brown, Grove City, at 11:25 a.m. Monday, at the Donald Cooper farm in Paint Township, on Blue Road, one-half mile east of Ohio 38.

Sheriff's deputies reported moderate damage to the Brown car and minor damage to the truck owned by Thad Hollon Turcking Inc., Blanchester.

School issues topic at meet

STAUNTON — Kenneth Payton and Marion Waddle, president and member of the Fayette County Board of Education respectively, were the guest speakers at the Thursday meeting of the Stanton-Olive PTO, held at Staunton Elementary School.

The board members were introduced by PTO president Mrs. Sue Rockhold and discussed the school bond issue and operating levy facing voters this election..

Other business included plans for a bake sale for the upcoming year, a lunch at an auction and the purchase of four, 9-by-12 rugs for the kindergarten classes.

Upcoming events scheduled were Oct. 22, 8:30 p.m. — demonstration of the new reading program at Miami Trace High School; Nov. 14, 2-4 p.m. at Staunton — work day scheduled to test visual aids for the children; Dec. 12 and April 13 — tentative dates for the next program and meetings at Miami Trace High School; and April 22 — date set for the next skating party.

Any members wishing to buy cook books may contact Mrs. Larry Noble at 335-2258 with all proceeds going to the PTO.

No oil bargains, Ford told

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — The United States won't get bargains in Mexican oil, President Ford has been told at his first foreign summit.

Ford got that message from Mexican President Luis Echeverria on Monday night before returning to the Republican hustings today in an effort to bolster his party's candidates in Oklahoma and Ohio.

Ford arrived here late Monday from Tucson, Ariz., where he wound up a series of conferences on both sides of the border with the Mexican leader.

The President, who has expressed delight at much smaller crowds that have greeted him during earlier campaign trips, found the throngs that swarmed around him in the streets of two Mexican cities even more boisterous and enthusiastic.

Ford, who went to the aid of his party last week in seven states, scheduled a $500-a-plate GOP fund-raising breakfast here as part of an effort to help the re-election candidacy of Republican Sen. Henry L. Bellmon, who is challenged by Democratic Rep. Ed Edmondson.

With Bellmon, Ford also was having a private meeting with a group of Oklahoma ranchers, then going to a GOP rally before taking off for more campaign appearances in Cleveland later in the day.

At his Mexican-American summit, Ford received a pledge of access to oil produced south of the border, but was told he will have to pay Arab prices for it.

At a hastily arranged joint news conference with Echeverria at a Tubac, Ariz., country club, Ford heard his guest say of the oil expected to flow from major fields recently discovered in Mexico: "Mexico will sell it to whoever wants any of it at the market price— the world market."

For his part, Ford told the news conference something Echeverria presumably wasn't happy to hear—that the United States has "not seen any change in the attitude of Mr. Castro" or the Cuban government and "it was not expected that our attitude toward Cuba should change" under such circumstances.

The only substantive accomplishment mentioned following the summit—and Ford spoke of it only in response to a news conference question—was agreement to set up a commission to look further into the problem of U.S. employment of temporary Mexican farmworkers.

Income supplement program applauded

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, Monday lauded the Supplemental Security Income Program of federal assistance for the aged, blind and disabled as a "halfway step toward a national guaranteed family income plan."

Addressing the 84th annual Ohio Welfare Conference, Taft said that the nine-month-old program provides a uniform, national income sufficient to meet the basic needs of this group of citizens.

The SSI program provides federal financial assistance for needy persons over 65, and those legally, blind, and physically or mentally disabled and unable to work, Taft explained.

The SSI program relieves the stigma attached to the old welfare program; substitutes federal financing for less flexible and more regressive state financing; and eliminates the "caprices and inequities" of a system previously administered by nearly 1,200 different entities, Taft said.

"Since the SSI began, the number of Ohio's citizens supported has increased 18 per cent, federal funding in Ohio has increased almost $85 million and State funding has remained constant or decreased," Taft said.

Presently under the SSI program, a single person receives $146 monthly and a married couple $219, according to Sumner Whittier, Director of the Aged, Blind & Disabled, Planning Office, Social Security Administration, located in Baltimore, Md.

Ohio, unlike many of the other industrialized states, does not supplement the federal SSI benefits with state funds, Whittier said. More than half the states in the union add benefits to the SSI funds, Whittier said, nearly doubling the amount of assistance in New York and California.

The states remain, however, Whittier explained, the "arbiters of adequacy" when it comes to assistance benefits.

Paul H. Coleman, asst. director of the Ohio Department of Public Welfare, explained that Ohio has not been able to have the resources to provide supplements to the SSI assistance funds.

State monies that used to go into matching funds have gone into the cost of administration and the increased cost of providing Medicaid benefits for the increased number of people assisted eligible for federal SSI funds and jointly financed state federal medicaid, Coleman said.

Board awards auto contract

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday awarded the contract for two cruisers for the Fayette County Sheriff's Department to Carroll Halliday, Inc. at a low bid of $9,400.

The commissioners received two other bids for the purchase from Ron Farmer's Auto Supermarket with a high bid of $9,464 and Billie Wilson Chevrolet, who also bid $9,400.

A flip of the coin determined which of the two low bidders would receive the contract.

Two non-traffic cases are heard

A case against a Washington C.H. man was dismissed while an area youth forfeited bond for littering in non-traffic cases heard Monday in Municipal Court.

Acting Judge John P. Case dismissed the case against Ricky R. Bryan, 18, of 721 Eastern Ave., charging him with assault by a private complaint at the complainant's cost.

Mark Smith, 18, Rt. 2, Leesburg, forfeited $50 bond after he was charged by state game protector Jerry F. Cremeans for "disposing of material of an unsightly nature, household garbage upon the bank of main Paint Creek."

Prayer breakfast attracts 79 teens

The weekly teen prayer breakfast met at the South Side Church of Christ Tuesday morning with 79 present.

"If Jesus Came To Visit You" was the theme for the meditation time, led by the Rev. Charles J. Richmond. Cheryl Bryan and Linda Hollingsworth led the group in several songs. Both are juniors at WSHS. After breakfast Gretchen Owen, senior at WSHS, spoke on the topic, "There Is A Right Time For Everything." She read from Ecclesiastes 3. Bruce Gilmore, senior at WSHS, dismissed the group with prayer.

The next prayer breakfast will be held at 6:45 a.m. Tuesday.

Stolen property charge is filed

A 19-year-old Washington C.H. man has been arrested and charged with disposing of stolen property by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department.

Wayne D. Penwell, of 713 Sycamore St., is presently incarcerated in county jail in lieu of $2,500 bond. He is allegedly connected with selling a stolen amplifier and speakers belonging to Jerry Short, whose Staunton home was burglarized in late July.

Sheriff's Sgt. William Crooks who headed the investigation which led to Penwell's arrest, explained the stolen items were valued at $600, placing the charge in the fourth degree felony classification which carries with it a maximum penalty of five years in prison and $2,500 fine.
